COUGHLIN SLAMS PRESIDENT; VAST CROWD CHEERS

Calls Story of Rome Rebuke a 'Lie.'

BY PARKE BROWN.

Father Charles E. Coughlin re-[n]ened his war against President [R]oosevelt in Chicago yesterday be[fo]re the largest audience that ever [ga]thered to hear his voice. He cli[m]axed his attack by ridiculing the [Pr]esident as "the beautiful cover on [th]e New Deal magazine."

There was no repetition of the [wo]rd "liar" that he hurled in a bit[te]r assault before the Townsendite [na]tional convention in Cleveland six [we]eks ago. Nor did he use "be[tr]ayer" or "double-crosser," as he did [at] that time. But this omission of [pe]rsonal epithets was the only indi[ca]tion that reproof from his church [su]periors had caused him to tone [do]wn the vigor of his hostility.

Landon Also Criticized.

The denunciation of Mr. Roosevelt [re]curred time and again during his [tw]enty-five minute speech. There [wa]s a jibe at Gov. Landon as "the [wo]rld's worst radio speaker" and a [ch]arge that the Republican nominee [fa]vors a return to the gold standard. [Th]ere was a short boost for the third [pa]rty candidate, Congressman Wil[lia]m Lemke. But President Roosevelt [wa]s assailed repeatedly.

This bombardment was Father [Co]ughlin's most direct answer to as[se]rtions in cables from Rome that [an] effort has been made to bridle his [to]ngue. But he answered those news [dis]patches also by branding them as ["li]es" and by announcing that next [Sa]turday night he will resume week[ly] radio broadcasts and that in them [he] will not "pull punches."

Addresses Throng of 80,000.

He spoke in the open air on a large [tr]act of ground adjoining the amuse[me]nt section of Riverview park which [or]dinarily is occupied by a golf driv[in]g ground and midget auto races. [Re]presentatives of the National [U]nion for Social Justice said they had [no] official figures on the attendance, [no] reports of the advance sale of the [..]cent tickets or any count of the [ste]ubs collected. Capt. Daniel A. [Ly]nch, in charge of police arrange[me]nts, said the crowd exceeded 100,-[00]0, but even representatives of the [N]ational Union said this figure [se]emed high. Father Coughlin, in [op]ening his talk, used the figure [80,]000.

A special stand, bordering on the [M]oderne, had been erected at one [en]d of the field. It provided a glar[in]g white background 50 feet wide [an]d 20 feet high for the solitary fig[ur]e of the priest, who stood on a [co]ncealed platform slightly above the [ce]nter of the white expanse. His ef[fe]ctiveness was increased by the use [of] a microphone—for the amplifiers—[ha]nging on his chest like the trans[m]itters used by telephone operators, [bu]t smaller.

Banking Policies Attacked.

He first assailed Roosevelt when, [af]ter an introduction alternating in [re]ligion, philosophy and economics, [he] took up one of his favorite topics, [th]e federal reserve bank. He had [de]scribed "private control and issu[an]ce of money" as one of the "ulcers [of] modern capitalism," traced the his[to]ry of world banking and then took [up] the advance of two billion dollars [to] the banks of the United States by [th]e RFC.

"Roosevelt," he said, "knew the [ba]nks were broke, as crushed as a [st]epped-on eggshell, but he acquired [..] per cent of all the capital stock of [al]l the banks in the United States. I [w]ouldn't have bought them at ten [fo]r a dollar."

"But what do we find when we [lo]ok behind the beautiful cover?" he [as]ked.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Reporting to a nation wide radio audience on his 5,000 mile inspection of the drouth area, President Roosevelt tonight promised federal jobs for all stricken farmers, a long range program for agriculture including conservation of soil, water and life and the continuation of federal spending "until all workers have decent jobs in private employment."

The President not only defended the spending program of his administration, to which he attributed the gains that have been made in business conditions and employment, but also, with a tribute to the Labor holiday tomorrow, defended the New Deal against the charge that it has arraigned class against class in this country.

Plans New Speaking Trip.

The President's speech was broadcast from the library of the White House, to which he returned this morning for a three day visit to the nation's capital. He will leave Tuesday evening for a southern trip to fill a speaking engagement at Charlotte, N. C., on Thursday.

The President's speech was conciliatory, if not defensive, throughout, and it departed sharply from the theory of strong national control, "the integrated economy," which echoed from his 23 speeches on the swing through the drouth region. Tonight the emphasis was upon coöperation with local communities, with the rôle of the federal government limited to "broad planning."

Specifically, the president declared that his great plains drouth committee had given him its preliminary recommendations for a long time program and that, using this as a basis, "we are coöperating successfully and in entire accord with the governors and state planning boards."

Turns to "Home Rule."

This recognition of the state planning boards, set up under the national resources committee, was significant in that the President's special committee ignored the state boards and recommended the development of local committees responsible directly to the AAA or the Resettlement administration.

The report was strongly opposed to the water conservation and flood control plan which Gov. Alf M. Landon urged the President to adopt in 1934, with the federal government coöperating with the state planning boards.

The journey from June Jellico's hospital room to the elevator and then to the operating floor may have occupied ten minutes. It seemed only ten seconds to Dr. John Work. Customarily he went first to his dressing room, there, without haste, to prepare for his operations. But today some impulse called him to linger with his patient. There was something about her hair, her eyes, and her lips that drew him away from the cool detachment of his routine. He walked along with the wheeled stretcher, watched it into the elevator, and only left his beautiful patient when the operating floor was reached. Here he abruptly came to himself and strode off to the dressing room. So slight a change in habit as this caused nurse and interns to glance curiously after him.

The stretcher slid silently into the preparation room. Figures robed in spotless white moved silently and swiftly. The stretcher upon which June lay in a kind of half attentive muse was brought smoothly to the inhalation machine. The first breath of gas was mystifying, not unpleasant, and O, so very soothing. June passed into a relaxed dream. Then nurses and the assistant surgeons delicately prepared the area of operation with sterile gauze.

While these things were going forward there was another scene of activity in which Dr. Work and his immediate assistants were the chief actors. Any boy will tell you that soap and water are abhorrent. Any boy, therefore, would have been dismayed to see the lengths to which cleanliness was carried by Dr. Work. For fifteen or twenty minutes his hands and arms, to the elbows, were scrubbed and scrubbed and scrubbed. They were made sterile in a solution of bichloride of mercury and then were finally washed in sterile water. And this process was repeated for those who were to assist the surgeon.

Dr. Work now lifted his hands high before him while a nurse thrust over them the sleeves of his immaculate gown. Over his head a gleaming white cap and over his nose and mouth sterile masks. Finally on his hands the sterile rubber gloves. Dr. Work entered the operating room. All was silent. The patient lay upon the operating table, a fascinating object, almost formless in spotless swathings, and yet the ever-recurrent and crystalized drama of medicine, a human life. Dr. Work stepped forward.

His assistants were silently and expertly completing their preparations with iodine sponges. Cleansing alcohol completed the first act in the drama. "A knife," said Dr. Work quietly.

The little steel scalpel glittered in his hand as if by magic. A swift incision at that scientifically precise position known as McBurney's point. The outer skin was deftly incised, the layers of muscles laid back in their turn. A pause. Here lay the peritoneum, that delicate membrane beyond which tragedy so often stalks. "Forceps," said the surgeon.

Two pairs of forceps flashed into the hands of Dr. Work and his assistant. These neatly lifted the peritoneum. Dr. Work made a tiny incision, perhaps no more than an eighth of an inch in length. His keen glance gave him a whole history of health and sickness. He moved swiftly. In the next few moments he had assured himself that no complicating misfortunes confronted him. His assistants had applied hemostats to block off the incessantly pulsating life stream. With retractors they had held the field of operation in control. Hands moved in and out of the spotlighted scene with magnificent artistry. Needles and sutures and gauzes and ligatures and blades and retractors and hemostats and forceps seemed to dance as if impelled by some hypnotic force. The last suture was drawn and Dr. Work's hands fell at his side.

His chief assistant glanced up. Dr. Work stood staring absently at his gloved hands. "I didn't think I could do it," he said, as if to himself.

"Pardon," said his assistant, bending to catch the words.

The surgeon caught himself with a start. "Nothing," he said. "I mean," he resumed suddenly, "I mean that she needs care. She's got to have the best of attention. I don't exactly like the condition." He paused again. "After all," he said with a jerk, "appendicitis is nothing to fool with." With this he walked abruptly out of the room.

In the corridor outside the operating room the Hon. Jason Jellico, despair and anxiety deeply stamped upon his face and wearied figure, stood awaiting the return of his daughter from the portals of the great adventure. It was obvious he had not heeded the presence of Dr. Work, who was striding past him. Nor did he see that walking beside the surgeon was an elderly stranger. The stranger repeatedly glanced back at Jellico.

The stretcher was wheeled out. Jellico stood a moment and then followed. The stretcher was detained a moment at the elevator. As Jellico drew near he lifted his listless eyes and saw the stranger intently studying the face of the girl on the stretcher. An instant later Jellico and the stranger were face to face. The stretcher was passing into the elevator. Jellico followed. As he turned and confronted the door he bore a look of one who searches his memory for a name or a place. The look changed to one of offended astonishment. And as the elevator shot past the floor level he cried out: "Henry North! What is that man doing here, staring at my daughter?"

CARL TRIES TWO NEW SPARRING PARTNERS—AND THE COUNT IS 10!

Carl Backman, 33 years old, 2842 Sheridan road, has been following the peaceful trade of barbering for several years, but under the influence of stimulants he likes to recall that he once followed the pugilistic profession. On such occasions, also, he sometimes likes to demonstrate his prowess.

Last night, under such exhilaration, Mr. Backman decided to go out and lick a policeman. He found Patrolman John Casey of the Sheffield station pulling a call box at Diversey avenue and Clark street.

"Are you a regular policeman?" Mr. Backman asked Policeman Casey.

"I am," responded the policeman.

Carl took a poke at John's chin and the battle was on. Before it went to a decision the wagon appeared and Backman, after being bundled inside, took on Wagon Man Bernard McGovern as well as Casey.

Then the ex-fighter abandoned the decencies of fist fighting and bit McGovern in the arm. Such a violation of the ethics of the game irritated both policemen and they started to work on Mr. Backman in earnest. When the wagon reached the station it was decided to take him on to the County hospital—after he had been charged with mayhem.

He was resting comfortably last night after repairs.

Big Bird Steals Chicks and Pigs; Shot by Boy

John Laglich, 14 years old, proudly displayed a large predatory bird, described as an eagle, to Sergt. John O'Connor of the East Side police station yesterday. John said he had shot the bird with a shotgun at his father's farm which is on the east side of Lake Calumet at 110th street. The bird had been stealing chickens and little pigs. Told that there is no bounty for eagles, John took his kill home and said he would have it mounted.

Scientific Hens Look Pretty Good to Thief

Fred Marks is a refrigerating engineer, but for the past three years his hobby and real life interest has been the cross breeding of chickens. Marks hoped for a hybrid larger than the common hen, which would yield more and bigger eggs.

In the rear of his come at 7235 South Oakley avenue is the Marks garage. On one side is the family automobile, but in the other half is an ultramodern hennery and experimental laboratory. Every night after work and on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays, Marks has practically lived in his hen laboratory, watching the result of his experiments.

All Sorts of Tests.

Within a few months the engineer thought he would know definitly what type of hybrid would lay the finest egg. He had crossed Plymouth Rocks with Rhode Island Reds, and White Rocks with Leghorns.

But the chicken coop was a desolate place yesterday. Marks sat alone beside the bare roosts. Some time Saturday night a thief broke into the laboratory and stole all but one of his 50 plump hens. This one escaped by roosting on a rafter.

"They were just chickens to the thief, I suppose," said Marks. "But to me they were friends. I knew each one by name. There was Arimenta, whose leg I set last winter when she broke it in a mouse trap. And Broken Comb. Part of her comb froze in the cold spell."

Double Yolk Starts It.

Since he first became interested in the idea of breeding bigger and better hens, Marks has kept a daily record of each chicken, its growth and the size and number of the eggs. All of this work is lost unless he recovers his brood.

A little red hen started him on his experimentation three years ago when she produced a large egg with a double yolk. If this happened once, Marks thought, it might eventually be developed into a habit.

Marks crossed this marvelous hen with a rooster of a good breed. Their offspring were superlative. So were the eggs. In just a few months more, said Marks yesterday, he would have had the solution of what is the best hybrid. He and his wife even intended to buy a farm.

AND IT'S NO WONDER THE LITTLE HUSBAND IS SOME BEWILDERED

Walter R. May, 27 years old, 221 West 63d street, a mild mannered little man sat last night in the Chicago Lawn station and peered from behind his spectacles with a bewildered expression. Two women stood in front of him and each claimed him as her husband.

Wife No. 2, Nellie, whom he married May 2, of this year at the city hall, called Sergt. Joseph Leonard yesterday and asked him to arrest her husband. Mrs. May said she learned her husband already had a wife when she paid a social call on his mother a few days ago.

May's first wife, Gladys, was found at 6528 South Union avenue. She said they were first married in 1928, divorced in 1933, and remarried in 1934. They have a son, Roland.

"I don't know what made me do it," said May as he turned his gaze from one wife to the other. "I must have been mad."

Woman Bitten by Snake on Forest Preserve Picnic

Mrs. Anna Wasielenski, 32 years old, of 1722 North Hermitage avenue, was bitten by a rattlesnake yesterday while picnicking in the forest preserve near Park Ridge. She was given emergency treatment by Dr. P. E. Conley of Park Ridge and was taken to the County hospital to receive antitoxin. Another member of the picnicking party killed the snake.

Find New Drug for Treatment of Arthritis

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 6.—(AP)—A new drug for the treatment of arthritis, declared to be one of the most painful of all diseases, was announced today before the American Chemical society by Dr. Herman Seydel of Jersey City, N. J.

DR. HERMAN SEYDEL. [Acme Photo.]

The society, which tomorrow opens its ninety-second meeting, celebrating the 60th anniversary of its founding, will bring together 3,000 of its members for reception and discussion of results of some 500 research problems now under way in the eighteen branches of chemistry which it encompasses.

New Avenue of Treatment.

Dr. Seydel's report was believed to open a new avenue of treatment for arthritis sufferers whose cases have resisted previous medical efforts. The drug was described as a "calcium double salt of benzyl succinic and benzoic acids," and in describing it the New Jersey scientist declared that it offered "the solution of an age old problem," adding that "it remains for the medical profession to adopt it and employ it properly."

The new compound applies the benzoate group of drugs in an entirely different way from past uses, it was explained, by detoxifying the body fluids or "humors."

Explains Basis of Work.

"Contrary to the revered belief that arthritis is of infectious origin, we preferred to consider it as caused by intestinal stasis [stagnation], with an accompanying disfunction of the liver and gall bladder which adversely affects the blood stream," Dr. Seydel said.

"Thus we proceeded to remedy it by treatment designed to better the body humors. We believe that our procedure is as sound therapeutically as it shows itself successful clinically."

Two years of application in treating arthritis patients at the Jersey City medical center preceded today's announcement. The sufferers had records of the disease running from three months to twenty-five years.

3 Symptoms Relieved.

Commenting on their treatment, Dr. Seydel declared that "in many cases it was found that the compound gave progressive and definite relief of the three major symptoms of arthritis: Pain, fever, and swelling. The swelling disappeared; the pain was alleviated or driven away entirely;

CITIZENS HIDE IN SUBWAYS AS SIRENS SHRIEK

Loyalists Claim Big Victory in South.

BULLETIN.

MADRID, Sept. 7—(Monday)—(AP)—Rebel airplanes attempted to attack Madrid again early today. Siren warnings made residents jump from their beds at 1:45 a. m. The people quietly took refuge in subways and basements. All lights had been put out shortly before midnight.

[This dispatch did not say whether an attack actually was made. Censorship may have prevented the sending of this information.]

[Copyright: 1936: By the Associated Press.]

MADRID, Sept. 6.—Spain's defending armies, in a seemingly decisive turn in the bloody civil war, announced today the recapture of the vitally important Talavera de la Reina sector—key to the southern door to Madrid.

Push Back Rebels 15 Miles.

Outnumbering the enemy two to one, the serried militia battalions drove the insurgents back nearly fifteen miles west of the town in a series of smashing forward and flank attacks from the hills bordering the main road. Fresh columns of militia were rushed to Talavera tonight to relieve the victorious troops, wearied from seventy hours of intense fighting.

Maj. Carlos Contreras, high staf officer directing the militia operations, said:

"Our victory eliminates the hitherto imminent danger of a march on Madrid. Now that we have got Talavera—the nerve center of our communications between Madrid and Toledo in the south and Madrid and Merida in the west—we can sweep every rebel out of the Tagus valley."

Prevents Attack on Toledo.

With the victory, government officials said they believed it was impossible for the rebels to reach Toledo, where hundreds of Fascists and their families are barricaded in the famous Alcazar military barracks under continual shell fire. All bridges on the road to Toledo have been blown up, the government declared.

Stemming of the rebel advance up the Tagus, Maj. Contreras said, was of enormous significance when it was remembered this was the traditional route of all the conquistadores of history seeking to subdue Castile.

"Not that the rebels would ever have found any Madrid to capture, even if they had broken through our lines," he added in measured tones.

"We would have burned it!"

76 Defenders Executed.

Some 1,800 Talavera sector refugees, harbored in a deserted Madrid church, prepared to return to their homes, assured by the government they could reënter the district in perfect safety.

Before the rebels lost the city of Talavera, official quarters stated, they took the commander, 23 year old Andres Martin, and 75 of his men prisoners, whipped them almost unconscious with revolver belts, and then shot them in the market place.

Maj. Contreras dwelt at length on what he said was the immense moral effect on the militia produced by Francisco Largo Caballero's assumption of the premiership last week.

"They trust Caballero and they trust Gen. José Asensio, whom Caballero has named commander for central Spain."

Blows Up Troops on Bridge.

Oviedo, capital of the mining country in the north, is likely to be the next rebel stronghold which the government will make a determined effort to seize, he added.

"We want Oviedo, because its capture will leave 20,000 grim Asturian miners free to give their attention to other rebel districts," the major declared.

Reports to Madrid said an entire Fascist column was annihilated when it was blown up by a patrol led by a 19 year old boy nicknamed "Cannon Ball" and the survivors killed with hand grenades. The young hero of the attack, Francisco Villodres Garcia, later died in a Malaga hospital, said dispatches from that city.

The column which was dynamited at a point near Montefrio, 25 miles west of Granada, was on its way to Malaga to reinforce rebels besieging that southern seaport.

Mallorca Force Returns.

Slipping through insurgent lines, "the Cannon Ball" planted dynamite under the span, just before the rebels were to cross. When the entire bridge was occupied by marching rebels, he pressed a distant detonator, blasting the structure to bits and killing many.

It was announced the transport Mar Negro had arrived at Valencia with 4,000 militiamen from Mallorca who had been withdrawn by the government from that Balearic island. They were expected to proceed against the rebels held Teruel.

With the temperature dropping steadily, the General Workers' union in Madrid called on Spanish women to help provide warm sweaters for the fighting forces. Hundreds of women immediately formed in queues outside Socialist headquarters to volunteer for "knitting clubs."

All barber shops in the capital—564 in number—were communized by the syndicate of barbers, and the owners were working on a salary basis. Receipts were being delivered daily to the syndicate headquarters.

Move on San Sebastian.

[Copyright: 1936: By the Associated Press.]

HENDAYE, France, Sept. 6.—Eager Spanish rebel armies, their red and gold flags flying from Irun and Fuenterrabia, fought their way to San Sebastian today from the east and south, the latter from La Sarte.

In the aristocratic Bay of Biscay resort, eight miles west of smoking, fallen Irun, the defenders were said to be divided on their course. Basque Nationalists among the government forces were reported seeking to surrender the city, virtually encircled by insurgent troops and under the guns of rebel warships. Anarchists and communists declared they would fight to the death. Women and children have fled to the mountains on the western side of San Sebastian.

The battle on the San Sebastian front began this morning with a fight for control of the highway at the village of Ancho, near the port of Pasajes.

Retreat to Fort.

Advancing rebel columns, with machine guns mounted on armored cars, drove the government militiamen back toward Fort Trincherpe, in the hills surrounding Pasajes. Hundreds of militiamen who had retreated from Irun were among the defenders of Trincherpe—last government stronghold before the suburbs of San Sebastian itself.

Rebel field guns, moved up from Irun, shelled government positions outside the fortress in an attempt to drive all the defenders inside.

San Sebastian was beseiged twice before—in the nineteenth century. In 1813, the Anglo-Portuguese army seized it from France, destroying it. In 1836, it successfully resisted the Carlists.

In Irun today, church services were held for the first time since the beginning of the revolution more than seven weeks ago. Many Carlist troops attended mass. The Irun town hall was occupied by the new Fascist military government.

A handful of government militiamen was reported still holding the gun turret atop Fort Guadalupe, the silent defense of conquered Irun. The rebels, patroling the terraces of the fort with Carlist [monarchist] troops, were content to leave their foes there, thus surrounded, while they pushed on westward.

Irun, still under a pall of smoke from smoldering ruins fired by the fleeing militiamen, bustled with activity late today as the rebels moved up reinforcements and armored cars from Behobia. The insurgent military commander ordered the troops occupying the city to begin cleaning the débris from the streets.

French officials announced 8,300 Spaniards, including both refugees and defeated militiamen, had passed through Hendaye since the beginning of the war.

France Assists Troops.

PERPIGNAN, France, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A trainload of 1,500 Spanish government militiamen—the second of its kind—passed through Perpignan today en route from the Irun border sector to Catalonia. The militiamen escaped into France after their defeat at Irun and entrained through French territory for the eastern Spanish war front.

Demands Report on Spanish Air Bombing of U. S. Warship

MADRID, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Julio Alvarez del Vayo, new Socialist minister of state, today demanded a full report on the incident involving an attempted bombing of the United States destroyer Kane.

That was one of his first jobs when he arrived at his desk in the old palace of Plaza las Provincias.

[Thirteen words of the dispatch were here deleted by the Madrid censor. So far, both the Spanish government and the rebels have disclaimed responsibility for the aerial bombs which a week ago narrowly missed the destroyer, off the Spanish west coast.]

Discards Overalls.

Del Vayo, who in dress, at least, is the Anthony Eden of the new Largo Caballero Socialist government, also warned all countries that Spain expected to receive from them the same respect it was ready to accord to foreign powers. His remarks were interpreted as a specific reference to Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany.

Thrusting aside his revolver, open necked shirt, and khaki overalls, the young and bespectacled minister reached his office in a neatly tailored suit and suede shoes.

Other ministry officials, who had been lounging with their shirts open at the necks, hurriedly donned neckties and smartened up to receive their new chief.

No Gifts of Territory.

He declared Spanish foreign relations were good, and said the government had no intention of breaking relations with Germany and Italy. However, in pointed reference to reports the rebel commander-in-chief, Gen. Francisco Franco, is ready to give either Italy or Germany—or both—the Balearic islands, he declared:

"We are absolutely determined to preserve all Spanish territory intact."

The government's cause, he added, has been "grossly misrepresented abroad." Hence, the new minister said, he was determined to make press censorship "more intelligent."

Crews of Spanish Warships Reported Killing Each Other

LISBON, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Diario Noticias correspondent in Tangier, International Zone, Morocco, said tonight reliable sources reported the crews of government warships were completely without discipline and were killing each other. Havoc reigned in Malaga, he declared, where the communists committed outrages and intended to destroy the city before the arrival of Fascist rebels who were said to be on the outskirts of the city.

Madrid Told What to Do in Case of Gas Attacks

MADRID, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Rumors that the Fascist rebels planned to use poison gas in attacking this capital caused the government to issue instructions tonight to be followed if such an assault materialized. A written notice from the ministry of interior to the mayor of Madrid, gave instructions in the treatment of the effects of tear gas and mustard gas.

Recognizes Fugitives as Criminal in Test Movie

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—The effectiveness of motion pictures in the apprehension of criminals was demonstrated for the first time today when a detective arrested John A. Byers, a fugitive from the Middlesex county workhouse, after recognizing him as one of the five criminals who had posed last May for an experimental sound film taken by the New Jersey state police. Byers, alias "Maj. Dillon of the British army," was serving a one year term for conspiracy to defraud Mrs. Elizabeth A. Pierce of South Amboy of $80,000.

Ecuador Orders Special Stamp to Identify Hats

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Sept. 6.—The national pride of Ecuador has always been hurt by the fact that the best Panama hats, called "Monte Cristi," have not been identified with that country where they are woven. Now in order to prevent the competition of hats made in other places, all monte cristi hats will bear a special stamp of identification before exportation. Revenue from the stamps, which cost five cents, will be used for agricultural relief.

FASCISTS FORCE OWN PROGRAM ON REBEL GENERAL

May Win Dominance in Rightist Setup.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

SEVILLE, Spain, Sept. 6.—Repudiation of the capitalistic system and nationalization of all public services are included in the twenty-seven point program of the Spanish Fascists, it was revealed today in a pamphlet circulated in rebel territory.

This program of the blue denim clad Spanish Phalanx [Fascist] militia has been forced on Francisco Franco, rebel generalissimo, to hold the territory taken by his small military force. It has caused consternation in military headquarters. It is felt the system of government advocated is even more radical in some respects than the program endorsed by the Socialist Madrid government.

Starts Rival Militia.

Gen. Franco foresaw a growing danger in the activities of this "Phalanx against Marxism" several weeks ago and started the formation of the non-political National militia in an attempt to prevent the Fascists from dominating the rightist movement. With hired gunmen and the lower middle class numerous in the Phalanx, Franco is now faced with punitive action at a delicate moment or probable Fascist domination of the revolutionary movement.

The Fascist program calls for the development of a system of government to be known as "national syndicalism," a strange coincidence, in view of widely credited reports that rich land owners and others hired anarcho-syndicalist gunmen to keep up constant disturbances in various parts of Spain as an excuse for launching the military rebellion.

The Fascist program provides for something akin to a totalitarian state, with the individual submerged, a corporative system of government and militarism. Beyond that, however, the new doctrine of national syndicalism calls for the destruction of the capitalist class, division of the large estates, and state domination of the church.

Provides No Payment.

Regarding the nationalization of public services—a matter in which Americans are directly interested because of their $60,000,000 investment in the Spanish telephone system—the Fascist manifesto does not mention payment for expropriation, merely asserting:

"We defend the tendency toward the nationalization of banks and large public service companies."

Under the Fascist plan agriculture would be regimented by the state, which would move the peasants about. Large estates would be bought at "a minimum price to be set by the state."

It is further asserted that the state "can expropriate without payment if the land has been acquired and administered illegally." Many large and some of the smaller Spanish estates have come down from feudal days, when they were taken forcibly. Such land titles have never been questioned.

Educate Youth for Army.

Regarding the church, the manifesto says:

"The church and the state will make a concordat regarding their respective spheres, but the state will not allow any activity that might menace the dignity of the state or national integrity."

While it declared that education facilities will be retained by the Catholic church, it is stressed that the principal object of education will be to give "preliminary education to prepare men for joining the army."

That the army which is carrying out the revolt would be forced to take a back seat is made clear, although it is stressed the military force will play a large part in the Spanish Fascist plans.

"We intend," the manifesto continues, "to assure the army a dignified position without permitting the military to dictate Spanish policies. We intend to create a Spanish empire and to demand for Spain a preeminent position in Europe."

BARCELONA FIRING SQUAD EXECUTES 4 LEADERS OF FASCISTS

BARCELONA, Spain, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Four Fascist rebel leaders were executed tonight following a court martial aboard the prison ship Uruguay anchored in Barcelona harbor.

The condemned men were Commander Bernardo de la Fuente, Capt. José Miguel Fernandez, Lieut. Bernardo Arduaga and Lieut. Raimundo Anadon. A civilian, Arturo Vazquez, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

When the court passed sentence yesterday, it was announced a day of grace would be given before the firing squad was called into action Monday morning, but the extra day of promised life was not given. In Lerida, David Rodrigo was condemned to death on an espionage charge and immediately executed.

SPANISH EMPLOYERS ORDERED TO PAY FOR TIME LOST IN REVOLT

MADRID, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Spanish workers won a 12 million dollar victory over their employers tonight when Spain's labor tribunal ordered they be paid for time lost during the radical revolt of October, 1934.

Employers had appealed to the tribunal against a decree forcing them to indemnify all workers discharged for political reasons during the uprising, and under the decision of the tribunal they must pay workers in full for the period of their idleness. Some cases cover only a few months, but others were for more than 19 months.

Employers protested the measure would send them into bankruptcy, but pending the appeal they were obliged to deposit the indemnity with government controled banks. The tribunal's decision carried the provision the workers must be paid immediately an amount estimated in well informed quarters at 100,000,000 pesetas, nominally around 12 million dollars.

[D]EMAND BRITAIN [E]ND NEUTRALITY [I]N WAR IN SPAIN

[He]lp for Madrid Is Issue at Labor Parley.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

The strongest boss of the labor movement, Ernest Bevin, secretary of the transport workers' union, reversed his previous stand for [neu]trality and is preparing to demand [aid] for the Socialist-communist-govern[men]t at Madrid. He will have the [full] support of the communists, who [are] urging joint action of workers of [all] nations to support Madrid.

[T]he crushing defeat of the Spanish [Soci]alists by the rebel Fascists at Irun [and] the growing proofs that other [pow]ers are not neutral were given [as] the causes of Bevin's about face. [It a]lso is believed he is bidding for [the] leadership of the Labor party. [C]. C. R. Attlee, the present leader, [is] considered as not sufficiently ag[gre]ssive by the militants.

Communists Make Overtures.

[T]he bitterest fight, however, prom[ises] to center about the communist [ove]rtures for the formation of a Brit[ish] Popular Front resembling the [Fre]nte Popular in Spain and the [Fro]nt Populaire which is directing [Fra]nce. Most of the leaders of the [con]gress consider this a crafty at[tem]pt to overthrow the Laborites, [sin]ce the communists are unable to [do] it otherwise.

[T]he general council of the congress, [com]bined with the Laborite executive [com]mittee, issued a statement on [com]munist efforts "to subvert the [Bri]tish labor movement." This will [be] submitted to the congress for en[dor]sement. It contains an element of [con]demnation of communist tactics [and] aims.

[A]ttempts to overthrow the Labor [par]ty have been replaced, says the [doc]ument, by a subtler method—the [Pop]ular Front proposal.

Charge Moscow Backs Move.

This insidious method has been [pro]moted in almost countless ways as [sug]gestion after suggestion, direction [afte]r direction, and plan after plan [em]anated from the comintern," it [con]tinues.

[T]he statement declares the cam[pai]gn is sustained by heavy subsidies [fro]m Moscow and "it is common [kno]wledge that heavy subsidies [amo]unting to many thousands of [pou]nds were received by the com[mu]nist party in this country from [abr]oad."

[T]he statement suggests guardedly [tha]t the consequences of the Popular [Fro]nt in France should serve as a [war]ning to Laborites here. It de[clar]es the chief electoral gains fell [to] the lot of the communists though [the]y were numerically far inferior.

BLUM DEFIES CRITICS

By EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[P]ARIS, Sept. 6.—A barely veiled [thr]eat to resign the premiership [rat]her than change the policy of non[inte]rvention in the Spanish civil war [wa]s made by Leon Blum today be[for]e a huge audience of Socialists at [Lun]a park.

[T]o appease the crowd, part of [whi]ch kept interrupting him with the [cry] of "Guns and airplanes for [Spa]in," Blum gave a certificate of [goo]d conduct to Rome and Berlin, [ass]erting the French government had [no] evidence that others had violated [ple]dges of neutrality. His policy, he insisted, had saved Europe from a general conflagration and was the only one possible in the future.

To forestall the argument that France has a right by international law to furnish war supplies to the leftist government at Madrid he pointed out that nothing would prevent other countries from recognizing the Burgos rebel junta as legal and starting competition with France by supplying arms to the Fascist insurgents.

Sees France as Loser.

In such a game Blum showed France was bound to lose on account of the "concentration of powers in the same hand, the intensity in rearming and industrial equipment" which the others possess—meaning Germany and Italy.

The deduction was that even if neutrality toward both sides does not please the French public and himself personally—and he openly expressed sympathy with the Madrid loyalists—it was the only course possible "without opening in Europe a crisis the consequences of which are only too easy to foresee."

Blum reaffirmed his intention to maintain peace, but he said he also remains faithful to the French Popular Front which brought him to power. Furthermore, the premier demanded a frank statement of any fraction of the Popular Front which thinks he is not observing his election pledges by keeping Spanish neutrality.

In plain language that is a challenge to the communists who are carrying on feverish agitation to force Blum to break the "blockade on the Madrid government" to come into the open.

If the communists do that Blum said his cabinet "will examine the consequences to be drawn from this violation of our political contract." This is interpreted to mean he is ready to resign and leave the communists with the responsibility, an action which some fear would lead to war.

RAID DIXIE JAIL, SEIZE COLORED MAN, HANG HIM

Dalton, Ga., Sept. 6.—(AP)—A mob lynched a 21 year old colored man accused of an attempted attack on a white woman near here early today after hustling the prisoner away from the Whitfield county jail in this north Georgia community.

Sherif J. T. Bryan said the crowd of about 150 men stormed the jail at 1:30 a. m., forced Jailer John Pitt to hand over his keys at the point of pistols, and seized the prisoner, booked as A. L. McCamy.

The sherif found the body on a roadside four hours later beneath a tree from which the victim had been hanged. Bryan said the slain man recently completed a chain gang sentence for an attempted attack on a 10 year old girl.

The prisoner was arrested Friday night when he was trailed by bloodhounds from a residence here.

"I planned to question him today, but they got him first," the sherif said, adding the colored man had made no statement concerning the reported attack attempt.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 6.—The price of bread will be raised twenty-five centimes [1.64 cents] starting tomorrow when it will cost two francs, fifteen centimes [13.15 cents] per kilogram [2.2 pounds]. Although apparently small, the price increase is a serious matter to many millions of Frenchmen for whom bread is a major part of the diet and a gauge of the cost of living.

MISSING BABY TAKEN BY CHILDLESS WOMAN, DETECTIVES BELIEVE

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Detectives searching for 17 month old Harry Browe Jr., who disappeared from his perambulator in a park, today advanced the theory that he may have been taken by a childless woman.

William Collins, deputy chief of detectives, directed a force of 19 men in a hunt for the baby and a woman with whom his older brothers said they left him while they went to a store last evening to buy ice cream and candy.

The boys, Charles, 9, and Edward, 7, told officers the woman had been admiring their baby brother and gave them money to buy ice cream. They said she kept the baby while they went to a nearby confectionery and when they returned the baby's carriage was empty and he and the woman were gone.

More than 10,000 employés are now signing the printed oath before notaries.

BURDICK UNDER HOSPITAL GUARD IN BYRAM CASE

Father-in-Law's Condition Described as "Good."

Norwalk, Conn., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Don Burdick, 36, New York broker charged with "intent to murder" his 72 year old father-in-law, Harry E. Byram, retired railroad executive, was closely guarded tonight at the Norwalk general hospital, with bail for his release set at $100,000.

Prosecutor Earl H. Jagoe of Westport reported that the polo playing New York broker "was in pretty bad shape" as a result of a fractured skull suffered in an automobile accident which occurred more than 12 hours after his father-in-law was shot in the head Friday morning in his mansion in Greens Farms, a fashionable section of Westport.

Policeman on Guard.

Jagoe said a warant had been served on Burdick late last night by State Policeman Robert Herr, and a state policeman was immediately assigned to guard the man in default of the bail.

Because of Burdick's condition, Jagoe said, it will be impossible for state police to question him for "several days."

Byram, retired president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroad, also is a patient at the Norwalk hospital where his condition today was reported as "good."

Police did not enter the case until yesterday morning, when Byram, Sergt. Irving T. Schubert said, told authorities his son-in-law had shot him after telling him to sit in a chair and close his eyes because "I am going to have a surprise for you."

Report Marriage Upset.

The sergeant reported Burdick told a physician who came to attend Byram that the elderly man had shot himself.

The shooting was said to have upset plans for Byram's marriage to Mrs. Frances Evans, 40, of New York City. They had planned to go to New York yesterday for the ceremony. It would have been Byram's fourth matrimonial venture.

Burdick was found yesterday morning in the wreckage of his automobile at the foot of a steep embankment in Westport. He had lain in the wrecked car more than eight hours, Schubert reported, protesting to one would-be rescuer that he was unhurt and to "leave me alone" before two milkmen persuaded him to take a taxi to the hospital.

SCIENTISTS PREPARE TO MAKE STUDY OF NUCLEUS OF ATOMS

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 6.—(AP)—An electrical cage in which about 99 per cent of all the matter in the world is locked up out of man's reach will be analyzed this week at the Harvard tercentenary conference of arts and sciences.

The cage, a strong electromagnetic field, incloses the nucleus of atoms. This nucleus, a Harvard university statement today explains, although only one hundred thousandth the diameter of an atom, contains most of the mass of an atom.

The mass within this nucleus is computed as 99 per cent of the total weight and material in an atom. The atoms of all substances are formed in the same manner.

Nearly all the material stuff which scientists hope to explore for future industrial use is inside this to date virtually impenetrable nucleus.

FIND 10TH BODY IN PLANE RUINS; START INQUIRY

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Charred and tangled wreckage of a "joy hopping" airplane yielded the body of the tenth victim of a crash and roaring flames in isolated Buttermilk Hollow today.

"A thrill or your money back."

They had hoped to soar over the rugged hills and valleys surrounding the Allegheny County airport, look down on the brilliant lights of the county fair.

Crash Near Orchard.

They rode only a mile or two—died on the crest of a little knoll near a peach orchard in the little hollow.

Only the framework of the big ship remained, twisted and tangled by the flames.

Passengers Promised Thrill.

Before going to a hospital the 17 year old high school graduate who planned to enter college this fall, said:

"There were six in our party and we weren't particularly anxious about going up.

"But the man in the plane—he was from Miami, too—promised us a thrill or our money back."

Miss McDonald told, too, of trying in vain to pull her escort, John A. Powers, 19, of Miami, from his seat in the ship, and attempting to arouse other passengers before clambering from the wrecked plane and escaping the flames.

Airport attachés said there was doubt whether the pilot, Eric Beckley, 35, of suburban Hazelwood, and his nine passengers died from the crash or the flames.

List of Crash Victims.

The dead were listed as follows:

Ruth Ellinger, 16, of Pittsburgh.

Marcia Dennison, 16, Pittsburgh.

Phelan McShane, 19, Pittsburgh.

William Lehey, Pittsburgh.

Bradley Welfer, Pittsburgh.

Andrew Wibmer, Munhall, Pa.

Mrs. Blanche Wibmer, Munhall, Pa.

Mrs. Ruth Sliter, Utica, N. Y., sister-in-law of the pilot.

Col. J. Carroll Cone, assistant director of the bureau of aeronautics, department of commerce, came from Washington today to conduct an inquiry. He will work with the Allegheny county coroner's office and airport officials in an effort to determine what caused the ship to swerve suddenly from its accustomed circular course about the airport and plunge to the ground.

Meade Cunningham, inspector for the bureau of aeronautics, said the ship, a Stinson model T, had been given inspections regularly, and it wasn't time for another checkup yet.

"We are getting its log books and will go into the affair thoroughly," he declared.

GIRL TELLS HER STORY

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Linda McDonald, attractive 17 year old school girl of Miami, Fla., the only passenger to survive the fatal sightseeing plane crash, early today told the story of her miraculous escape from the burning ship.

She sat in the home of Ethel Davis, near the scene of the crash, an hour after the accident.

While her feet were being bathed and treated for cuts she told how she had tried and failed to save her escort, John Powers, who was killed in the crash.

Six in Girls' Party.

"There were six in our party and we weren't particularly anxious about going up," Miss McDonald said. "But the man at the plane—he was from Miami, too—promised us a thrill or our money back.

"In the air we hit several pockets, but I didn't think much of it. I simply thought they were air pockets.

"Then we hit the land and the plane went up into flames."

Miss McDonald was calm as she continued her story. An attractive, tall, slender blonde, dressed in a two piece brown print dress, she had recovered from the hysteria which gripped her shortly after the crash.

Two Fastened Belts.

"John [John Powers, her escort] and I were the only ones to fasten our safety belts," she continued. "The others said they never had fastened them before.

"So when the plane landed all the others were jerked forward in their seats except John and I.

"I tried to reach John. I crawled up a piece, but there was a fat man sprawled across him and I couldn't get to him.

"Then while the plane was burning I tried to get out. I finally found a window, but there was a bar across it. Somehow I crawled through there and reached the ground. I can't remember things very clearly after that."

SHOOTS AT FLEEING HOODLUMS.

John Krispin, 52 years old, owner of a restaurant at 1842 North Wells street, told police yesterday he had fired four shots at three men who fled after breaking the glass in the front door.

NEW U. OF C. FINDS LINK GREEK MYTHS, BABYLONIAN RELIGION

Discoveries of religious objects from the age of Abraham, 2100-1900 B. C., and also from the period about 3,000 B. C., have been reported to the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago by the field director of its Iraq expedition, Dr. Henri Frankfort. The expedition has been working on three sites, Tell Asmur, ancient Eshnunna; Khafaje, and Ishchali, northeast of Baghdad, between the Tigris and the foot of the Persian mountains.

At Tell Asmur the expedition found a relief from the age of Abraham which portrays a god, carrying bow and arrow, stabbing a one-eyed adversary with a broad bladed knife. Dr. Frankfort pointed out that the discovery linked the one-eyed Cyclops of Greek mythology to the religion of ancient Babylonia.

Two cauldron shaped pots, one placed upside down over the other, were found in a minor temple in Tell Asmur, with applied designs that glorify the power of the snake. The lower pot contained bones of small animals and birds, and an unbroken saucer which presumably contained water, indicating that a live snake was kept in the vessels.

movement and renewed use of affected parts were greatly improved or restored."

The drug was described as a white, crystalline salt "of distinct odor and taste," soluble in water and not decomposing in water solution or in the air. It is administered without the complications of other drugs.

Dr. Seydel pointed out that the use of the benzoates dropped into disfavor about 25 years ago but current research indicates "that the book of the benzoates must be opened again, so that several interesting chapters can be added."

Benzoic compounds are manufactured naturally by the body processes of man and animals, he added, as an aid in removing waste matter from the body humors, and their use for treatment of many conditions arising from malfunctions of the gastro-intestinal seems likely.

Dr. Seydel expressed the hope that the treatment he had discovered would receive widespread and immediate application since "chronic arthritis is considered in all countries of Europe and North America to be the most important economic problem presented by chronic disease."

Rate Higher Than Cancer.

One survey of the occurrence of arthritis in Massachusetts showed that the rate was higher than cancer, heart disease, and tuberculosis combined, he added, making it "one of the most wasteful of all the forces that interfere with the husbanding of human resources. It never has received the attention that should be paid to anything of such economic and humanitarian importance," the New Jersey scientist said.

The use of the new benzoate compound fits in well with the present trend of medical science toward general treatment of many ailments centering about the gastro-intestinal tract which formerly were considered the particular concern of specialists, he said.

Under such treatment the control of the micro-organisms in the digestive tract is considered of primary importance, Dr. Seydel added, "and from our own researches it would seem that benzoates accomplish this needed control of the bacterial flora better than many other substances."

COUGHLIN SLAMS PRESIDENT; VAST CROWD CHEERS

murder of priests and nuns in Mexico; one by Norman Davis, who makes treaties and keeps them secret from the people.

"Next, what do we find? The funny pictures! And there is John J. O'Connor [the New York congressman who said he would kick Father Coughlin down Pennsylvania avenue]—Gag-Me Johnny, Kick-Me-Down Johnny.

"And last we have Three-Fingered Jim—Jim Farley, postmaster general, chairman of the state committee of New York, chairman of the national committee. Three fingers—one in each pie."

Laughs with the Crowd.

He paused to let the roaring laughter and cheering of the crowd die down. He, too, laughed for a few seconds.

"Well," he said then, "we all know for whom we're voting if we vote for Mr. Roosevelt—for the communists, the socialists, the Russian lovers, the Mexican lovers, the kick-me-downers."

A moment later he asked all those who intended to vote for Roosevelt to say "Aye." There was almost complete silence. One woman was heard to scream "Aye" and then giggle as if she had discovered her mistake in thinking she was merely to follow a suggestion.

"Now," he continued, "all who are going to vote against Roosevelt say 'No.'"

The roar of response was tremendous.

Lemke's Name Cheered.

Earlier in his speech he had submitted the question of voting for Lemke in the same manner. The shout for the third party candidate seemed about on a par with the roar against Roosevelt.

Much of Father Coughlin's time was devoted to a discussion of the rights of labor. During it he mentioned William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. There was an instantaneous, widespread "Boo." Then the speaker went on to describe Green as "a fine gentleman but hopelessly ignorant" and was cheered.

Father Coughlin told his audience he did not intend to take any part in Illinois state affairs. There was no reference to the fact that this afternoon, in the same place as his meeting, there will be a meeting on behalf of the "Union Progressive" state ticket at which Congressman Lemke is billed to speak.

Deny Recommending New State Highway to La Salle

A denial of reports that it has recommended the building of a state highway 96 miles long from Chicago to La Salle on the old Illinois and Michigan canal right of way, was issued yesterday by the Chicago Regional Planning association. Instead the association has suggested that an eight mile section be built from 31st street southwesterly to Summit. In time this might be extended four miles further to the 79th street viaduct over the Des Plaines river valley.

FRENCH FLYER BEATS U. S. BEST IN AIR SPRINTS

Art Chester, Glenview, Is Third in Race.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Municipal Airport, Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Michel Detroyat, French racing and stunt pilot easily defeated the best speed flyers of America today in the feature event of the National air races. He made an average speed of 247.3 miles an hour, lapped the field, and cruised the last half of the 100 mile sprint at greatly reduced throttle.

The finish of the thrilling race was marred by two spectacular crashes as American flyers attempted to bring their tricky little planes to landings in front of a stand crowded by 50,000 spectators.

Jacobson in Second Mishap.

Joe Jacobson of Kansas City lost control of his Howard racer when it struck a rough spot on the field and it flipped over on its back. Instantly a crowd of mechanics on the side lines dashed out and began to tug and pull to extricate the pilot who was trapped in the cockpit.

Only a moment later with the field covered with men, trucks, and ambulances, R. A. King of Lemont, Ill., was given the signal to land his monoplane. The plane headed in to a good landing, then suddenly jumped into the air. Later it was learned that it had struck a wire support on the home pylon.

This sent the plane plunging into a truck load of aerial bombs which was parked close by. The wings were torn off and the fuselage slid to a stop.

Neither Hurt Much.

Both explained they had been blinded by the sun which shone full on their faces as they landed into the wind. Jacobson who on Friday had another close brush with death when his Northrop Gamma exploded, throwing him clear, when flying in the Bendix trophy race was facetious in describing cuts on his head and face. Kling's nose was skinned.

While the ceremonies were being concluded a dense sea fog suddenly rolled in and the races were called for the day.

Detroyat again served notice that he expects to better the three year old record of 252 miles an hour in the Thompson free for all race tomorrow. In starting today's race which was for $10,000 and the Louis W. Greve trophy, he reeled off 10 laps of the triangular mile course at a speed of 260 miles an hour.

His fastest lap was 264 miles an hour. In making these speeds he lapped all the other contestants, then, seeing he had no competition he eased up and cruised the rest of the way at 224 miles an hour.

The real competition was between Harold Neumann of Kansas City, a co-pilot for Transcontinental and Western Air on a busman's holiday, and Art Chester of Glenview, Ill. For 10 laps Chester held a lead over Neumann, who apparently had throttled back to conserve his motor. Then he stepped out.

Chester jockeyed with him on half a dozen turns while they fought neck and neck for two laps but Neumann's superior speed, perhaps 10 miles an hour more, won. Neumann averaged 225.858 miles an hour, Chester 224.682 miles an hour.

The unlucky Kling was fourth with 215.331 mile an hour and Jacobson, who considers himself extremely lucky to escape this series of accidents without serious injury, was fifth with 214.426 miles an hour.

Soldier Slashed on Neck During Attempted Holdup

Sergt. George M. Nelson, 39 years old, of headquarters troop of the Third field artillery at Fort Sheridan, was taken to Henrotin hospital by Chicago avenue police yesterday after he stumbled into the station and said he had been slashed on the neck with a safety razor blade by a colored man. The attack took place in a flat at 863 Sedgwick street during an attempted robbery, Nelson said. The flat was deserted when police went to the place.

APPROVE SITE OF NEW ARMORY AT WAUKEGAN

The Illinois armory board has approved the site of the new $200,000 National Guard armory at Waukegan, it was announced yesterday by F. R. Bairstow, chairman of the Waukegan business men's committee. The site, 175 by 340 feet, at Dugdale road and Butrick street, is to be obtained from Nicholas Keller and Mrs. James Berry of Waukegan for the nominal price of $3,500, which will be raised by popular subscription, Bairstow said.

Surveyors started work yesterday, and ground will be broken a week from today. Funds for construction of the armory will be provided by the state and by the Works Progress administration.

Ballots Mailed to Illinois Voters in Presidential Poll

Ballots for Chicago and other Illinois communities in the Literary Digest presidential poll are in the mail and should be distributed by the post-office within a few days, it was announced yesterday by the magazine's publishers. Returns will not be published until the Illinois results are known as a unit. The new poll is expected to reach 10,000,000 persons, according to the announcement.

OCEAN AVIATRIX FROM BRITAIN IS GREETED IN N. Y.

New York, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Thousands of New Yorkers cheered, police motorcycle sirens shrieked, and Mrs. Beryl Markham chewed gum today and announced:

"America, it's jolly grand!"

The English society woman, first of her sex to fly the Atlantic alone from east to west, came into Floyd Bennett field with another pilot, but happy and delighted over the reception of 5,000 spectators and hundreds others who waved to her over the 28-minute automobile trip to Manhattan.

It was her first trip to America. It was made in bad storms and ended when the gasoline of her little monoplane ran out over Nova Scotia, the tiny plane, the Messenger, was damaged badly in a landing in a swamp, but Mrs. Markham today showed her injuries only in a strip of adhesive over her left eye and another strip around a finger of her right hand.

She Wears Grey Slacks.

She was dressed in a blue silk shirt and grey slacks—her blonde hair, bobbed, was loose and long. She smiled continually, waving her hands in answer to the cheers.

Both the chewing gum and the motorcycle escort were new to Mrs. Markham. They are "not done" so often in England as in the United States. And she liked them both.

The plane in which Mrs. Markham arrived as a passenger stopped briefly at North Beach airport, Queens, before continuing to Floyd Bennett.

The British aviatrix, who followed the westward solo trail blazed by her fellow countryman, James A. Mollison, reached her destination at 3:16 p. m.

Lands Out of Gas.

She took off from Abingdon Friday afternoon, fought headwinds and fog most of the way across the ocean, and was forced by fuel exhaustion to come down in a swamp near Louisburg, N. S.

Her speedy little monoplane was left in the bog where it landed, damaged but not beyond repair.

The trip south from Sydney was made in leisurely fashion, with stops at Halifax, Portland, Me., and East Boston en route.

Owners of 18 Stolen Bicycles Identify Them

The owners of eighteen stolen bicycles identified them yesterday at a "show-up" at the Chicago avenue police station. The bicycles were among 75 stolen in recent months by Robert Anderson, 29 years old, 9352 South Wabash avenue, colored, a paroled convict. Anderson was arrested Saturday. Police said he and accomplices who are being sought, stole the bicycles on the south side and sold them on the north side.

HARRY RICHMAN AND MERRILL DELAY HOP BACK ACROSS OCEAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Plans to take off on a return flight to New York at dawn tomorrow were suddenly canceled tonight by Harry Richman, night club entertainer, and Dick Merrill, his pilot. After a test flight to Paris, the Americans sent word tonight that the return from Paris was postponed until tomorrow and perhaps until Tuesday.

It was decided today that the Speke airport at Liverpool is the most suitable for the particular needs of the trans-oceanic flyers. They flew there and took off again after a fifteen minute inspection.

"We could see before we landed that the Liverpool airport is ideal for us," said Merrill when he halted at Croydon airport on the way to Paris. "I have seen airdromes all over the world, but Liverpool is 100 per cent for a heavy plane like ours. We hope to be in New York in less than twenty hours after taking off."

POLICE TURN OFF SIZZLING HEATER IN NICK OF TIME

Sergt. Harry Pehrson answered the phone in the Shakespeare avenue station early yesterday and the caller identified himself as Frederick Meyer, 2630 North Maplewood avenue.

"I'm at Diamond lake in Lake county," said Meyer. "Saturday night my wife and I left home and we forgot to turn off the water heater. My father-in-law and four children are at home, but I can't awaken them by phone."

Sergt. Pehrson sent Policemen William Geisler and Casimer Kenar to the Meyer home. Entering the basement through an unlocked door they found the heater sizzling away with the gauge registering a dangerously high pressure. They quickly turned off the gas and went to a second floor sleeping porch, where they awakened Meyer's father-in-law, Charles Haake. He said he had not heard the telephone ring.

NEW YORK CITY ENTERS RETAIL MILK BUSINESS

Action After Price Boost of Cent a Quart.

New York, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The City of New York went into the retail milk business today after the four largest milk distributors in the city raised their price a cent a quart.

Municipal milk stations, drawing their supply from independent milk men, sold milk at 11 cents a quart to all comers, and at 8 cents to authenticated needy persons.

City Mobilizes Forces.

The city mobilized its forces after the Borden and Sheffield companies followed a cent a quart price boost for general consumption by giving notice of a similar increase on milk supplied to municipal baby health and welfare centers.

Harry Cronk, president of the Borden's Farm Products division, said the increase was made necessary by demands from farmers that the company pay a higher price for milk even than the half cent a quart increase granted by the commissioner of agriculture and markets three weeks ago.

May Issues Challenge.

"If they want war they can have it," said Mayor F. H. La Guardia.

Health Commissioner John L. Rice announced the milk sold by the city was supplied by 1,500 independent retailers who had not met the price increase.

Store and delivery prices to the consuming public yesterday were raised to 15 and 16 cents respectively for grade A quarts and to 13 and 14 cents respectively for grade B quarts.

ITALY OPENS NEW DRIVE TO CRUSH FOES IN ETHIOPIA

Troops on March to Conquer Interior.

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Viceroy Rodolfo Graziani opened his campaign to "pacify" the unconquered sections of interior Ethiopia today.

He sent a column of Askari warriors and Ethiopians out of Addis Ababa for cleanup operations on a wide scale. Thousands of troops mounted in trucks rolled out of the capital on what was called the second phase of the conquest of Ethiopia.

Graziani sent the troops off with all the formalities of war. Accompanied by high officials of the military and civil régime, he drove to the edge of the city and reviewed them as they marched away.

Italian Officers Ride Ahead.

Troops Sing War Chants.

The Eritreans went off singing their war chants, and the Ethiopians waved their guns over their heads. Many of Ailu's men brandished long curved swords which they prefer in hand to hand fighting.

The column was expected to get the jump on the anti-Italian natives in anticipation of the close of the rainy season. Although the season should close soon, the rain continued with only a few hours of sun a day.

Albermarle, N. C., Sept. 6.—(AP)—A slight tremor was reported here tonight. There was no damage.

HOWARD LEADING AIR RACE UNTIL CRASH, HIS FRIENDS REVEAL

Crown Point, N. M., Sept. 6.—(AP)—While medical science threw added strength into the fight to save the life of Benny O. Howard, Chicago transport pilot, friends today disclosed the Bendix racer was almost an hour ahead of the east-west air record when his speedy "Mr. Mulligan" crashed near here.

Fred Novenger, Howard's associate in Chicago who flew here, said Howard was in striking distance of a new cross-country mark when his ship threw a propeller blade and crashed Friday, seriously injuring Howard and his 22-year-old wife.

Novenger denied that the propeller blade struck Howard and that Mrs. Howard attempted to land the crippled ship.

Howard's legs and his left arm were broken in the crash. His wife, Maxine, suffered fractures of both legs.

HELD FOR STABBING WIFE.

Flora, Ill., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Ed Addudell, 44, was held in jail here tonight following the stabbing of his estranged wife, Mrs. Bernice Addudell, after a quarrel on a downtown street today. Hospital attendants said the woman was expected to recover.

AL SMITH STILL UNDECIDED ON A CAMPAIGN ROLE

New York, Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith still is undecided on what part he will play in the national political campaign, it became known today, although it was learned that Republican leaders are urgin him to make at least one anti-Roosevelt address in Pennsylvania, Indiana, Michigan, or Illinois.

Mr. Smith told friends last week that he had reached no agreement with former Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts to speak in Boston. He said further he had not promised John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, that he would take an active part in the anti-New Deal campaign. He indicated, however, that he would speak at least once, probably in October.

It is considered significant that Republican leaders would prefer to have Mr. Smith speak in Pennsylvania, Indiana, Michigan, or Illinois, if he decided to make only one address. It indicates they are confident of carrying the New England states, New York, New Jersey, and Ohio without Mr. Smith's help.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

SPIRITUAL SPREES

By CALEB

BECAUSE of their human traits and foibles, people are interesting to us. Their unexpected and unpredictable actions help make them likable. It would be a dull world, peopled entirely with predictable persons.

In the depths of 1932 we rode with a hard-luck taxi driver who said he made hardly enough to buy his children's daily quota of candy, and there was no money left for clothes!

We understand our customer friends who are led sometimes—but less extremely—by their hearts rather than their heads. We believe we understand the woman who enters the store for a waffle iron—and spends her money for a Chinese vase instead.

We understand the man who comes in for a box of shirts "on sale," but by some devious internal reactions, explicable perhaps not even to himself, departs instead with some first edition of Kipling.

Perhaps it is better this way. Usually our bodies are coddled more than our minds. Our animal requirements are generally met first. Our souls, therefore, need encouragement and sustenance.

In the long run both the "Chinese vase woman" and the "Kipling man" may be better off for their miscarried purposes. Ministers and lawyers and doctors can testify that many men and women would be benefited by occasional spiritual sprees—by occasional reckless subordination of the practical to the silently suffering esthetic or spiritual side of life.

Few people can get through a cold winter or a long hot summer without needing—whether they can recognize and satisfy the need or not—a digression from the routine paths of practical application and uninspired existence. That's one reason for vacations.

But we all differ. A bright new artificial flower may be all one woman needs to brighten her day and lighten her heart. Another woman may need a new mink coat or an antique Sheffield tea set to get the same degree of buoyancy for her jaded spirit.

Our backgrounds, our standards of living, our responsiveness to the beautiful, all affect the effect we get. But get it, we sometimes must, if we are to avoid becoming insignificant elements in a humdrum world.

LABOR UNIONISTS GIRD FOR BITTER INTERNAL STRIFE

Expect Federation Move to Destroy CIO.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Mobilized for a bitter internal war, organized labor will pause tomorrow to tell the country its problems and how it thinks they best can be solved.

Only unforeseen peace moves can stop the war the American Federation of Labor declared yesterday on John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and the ten unions affiliated with his Committee for Industrial Organization.

The issue is industrial unionism. Lewis and his associates, speaking for upwards of a million organized workers, maintain that only through enrollment of all workers in each big industry into one big union can the labor movement keep pace with industrial development. Working independently of the federation, their committee set out to effect this policy.

Steel Industry First Step.

They tackled the steel industry first and this move constituted "insurrection" in the federation, controlled by a faction which thinks highly skilled workers, as a rule, should belong to the union of their craft, no matter where they work.

The federation's executive council told the Lewis group to abandon the committee and its organization campaign upon penalty of suspension.

The Lewis unions defied the order. William Green, A. F. of L. president, said yesterday that they had "withdrawn" from the federation, and that the federation would proceed to try to bring all workers in all industries into A. F. of L. unions.

See War Without Quarter.

This was interpreted by labor men to mean the federation eventually would try to destroy the Lewis unions. Green would not deny it. Lewis said his group would continue its organization program, but had no plans as yet to fight already established craft unions.

This internal fight overshadowed all other issues before organized labor tonight, and was generally expected to come in for much discussion in Labor day speeches the country over.

The program included a talk by Green at Knoxville, Tenn., tonight. Frank Morrison, federation secretary, is to speak at Lancaster, Pa., tomorrow afternoon. Lewis is to make a radio speech here tomorrow night.

EXPECT RECORD VOTE TOMORROW IN COLO. PRIMARY

Denver, Colo., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Democratic party leaders predicted today a record vote in the Colorado primary election Tuesday while rivals for nominations for United States senator and governor drafted Labor day addresses to close their campaigns.

Gov. Ed C. Johnson and former Gov. William E. Sweet, opponents for the Democratic senatorial nomination, both will end speaking tours at Pueblo.

Although both publicly lauded the Roosevelt administration, fealty to the party and the "New Deal" remained the major issue between them.

Sweet called the governor "the anti-administration" candidate. Johnson responded with praise for the President, and the governor's supporters called Sweet a "deserter who stumped the south for Hoover in 1928."

BOY DIES AFTER AMPUTATION.

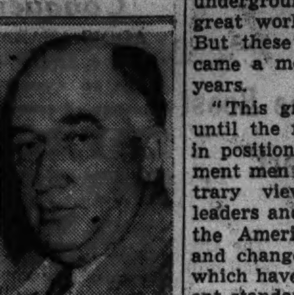
Throw Reds Out! Hutcheson Admonishes Nation's Labor

American labor was called upon yesterday by William L. Hutcheson, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America to uphold the American ideals of government and to throw out the radical element that threatens the downfall of the American Federation of Labor.



W. L. HUTCHESON.

In a Labor day statement Hutcheson, who also is director of the labor division of the Republican national committee, assailed "a group very much in the minority which has tried for years to change the non-partisan policy of the American Federation of Labor and force it to become entangled in the spider web of politics."

Calls Situation Acute.

"These evil forces of labor never become a real menace until the last few years," Hutcheson declared in his statement, "this group never has been satisled with the freedom for which America stands. The situation now has become acute."

"The history of labor is the history of the United States. The founders and leaders of organized labor and the labor movement were men of great vision, were patriots and believers in our form of government. They were American first and last in their fight to build this great organization which has brought the present standard of living to the workers of the United States.

"Because of their intense patriotism, belief in our form of government and our institutions, they were quick to resent any influences which would change that government and destroy our institutions.

"As in all movements for the betterment of humanity, organized labor has been forced to combat minority groups who attempt by evil and underground methods to destroy the great work labor has accomplished. But these evil influences never became a menace until the last three years.

"This group never was a menace until the fortunes of politics placed in positions of power in our government men and women who hold contrary views to many of our labor leaders and who advocate changes in the American form of government and changes to those labor policies which have brought to labor its present standards of living.

Radicals in Revolt.

"The American view as advocated by the American Federation of Labor, and the un-American view as proposed by the Communists and radicals came to a head at the last convention in Atlantic City.

"The Red and radical minority groups insisted that the American Federation of Labor abandon its time tested policy of nonpartisanship in politics and its methods of organization. Those proposals were overwhelmingly defeated, but the Reds and radicals, instead of accepting the rule of the majority are endeavoring to form a rival group organization whose aims are directly opposed to the policy of labor that has made this country the outstanding of all civilized nations."

Republican state candidates today will begin their second week of the most thoroughly organized campaign in the history of Illinois. Five crews of speakers headed by state candidates have been organized for campaign tours.

Wayland Brooks, candidate for governor, will speak today at the Jerseyville fair and at Canton. From there he will swing over to "Little Egypt" ending the week at Duquoin.

Charles W. Hadley, candidate for attorney general, will open his week's campaign tour at Marshall and will cover 24 towns in eastern Illinois, winding up at Pontiac.

TWO NEW SNAKES GET ACQUAINTED AT BROOKFIELD

An emerald tree boa and a South American bushmaster were getting acquainted at the Chicago Zoölogical park at Brockfield yesterday. They were selected on a snake shopping tour by Robert Bean, assistant and son of Director Edward H. Bean of the zoo.

The tree boa is a nonpoisonous constrictor and because of its brilliant color is one of the beauties of the reptile kingdom, said Mr. Bean. The new arrival is five feet long and about two inches in diameter. Director Bean also characterized as "pretty" the bushmacter, one of the most deadly snakes known. This new resident is brown with a pinkish red underside, and is four feet long.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Charles May, 65 years old, 1154 Monroe street, died of a heart ailment yesterday as Desplaines street police were taking him to the county hospital.

SEES NEED FOR LABOR LAWS TO PROTECT WOMEN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Miss Mary Anderson, director of the labor department's women's bureau, said today that "facts and figures show women's special need of labor laws to be just as great now as it has been in the past."

In a Labor day message to working women, Miss Anderson declared that "now as always women carry the double burden of home duties outside their employed hours, and they have not yet protected themselves through labor unions as have men."

She said the Supreme court decision invalidating New York's minimum wage law has brought an "impasse in regard to minimum wage legislation" among the states. This, she added, has created a "crucial situation" for women workers.

Miss Anderson said she saw "encouraging evidence of public sentiment the progressive labor laws."

VILLAGE QUIET PERVADES CITY OVER HOLIDAY

Dance Festival to Feature Labor Day Events.

Shifting clouds and brief showers made feeble threats yesterday against the recreational pursuits of Labor day week-end celebrants. Although scant trafic was reported on Chicagoland highways in the morning when intermittent showers fell throughout the area, the motorist throngs grew to a good summer normal in the afternoon when the sun appeared to be winning out.

County highway police said that Saturday's huge exodus of Chicagoans on holiday outings lightened trafic on the roads in this area yesterday. Most of Chicago was as quiet as a New England village, on the Sabath, but theaters reported large Sunday crowds. Although the afternoon sun was hot, there were no great crowds at the beaches. Air lines and railroads which reported a large number of outgoing and incoming passengers Saturday announced little trafic yesterday.

Cooler Weather Due Today.

Two light showers fell within the city in the morning and Forecaster J. R. Lloyd predicted thundershowers for today, with cooler temperatures this afternoon.

The Labor day event expected to attract the largest audience will be the first international folk dance festival at 8 o'clock tonight in Soldiers' field, where 1,600 dancers will perform the historic steps of 12 nations.

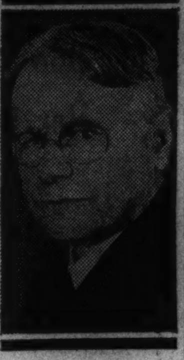
The program will be presented by the Chicago park district under the direction of Dorothea Nelson and the performers have been selected from 3,000 folk dancers who meet regularly in the various parks. American square dancing will be presented by park pupils of Guy Colby. The largest unit will be 400 German dancers directed by Paul Dunsing. Other nationalities represented will be Polish, Palestinian, Ukranian, Bavarian, Hungarian, Austrian, Irish, Lithuanian, Italian, and Mexican.

The Art institute, the Shedd aquarium, the Field museum, and the Adler planetarium will remain open today but the Chicago Historical society will be closed. A rally of unemployed and Works Progress administration workers will be held at 7 p. m. in the Coliseum under auspices of the Illinois Workers' Alliance of Cook county with speakers from the American Federation of Labor, the South Side Federated Council on Relief, and the American Federation of Government Employés.

Today also will open Chicago's third annual homecoming celebration sponsored by Mayor Kelly, an event observed specially in the outlying shopping neighborhoods.

REAR ADMIRAL UPHAM RETIRES OCT. 1 AFTER 45 YEARS OF SERVICE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Secretary Swanson announced today that Rear Admiral Frank B. Upham, chairman of the navy's general board, will retire from active duty Oct. 1 after forty-five years' service.



REAR ADMIRAL UPHAM.

Upham, who celebrated his 64th birthday today, has held flag commands in the United States fleet, been chief of the bureau of navigation, and for two years was commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet.

He was awarded the navy cross for service during the world war. He also received the French decoration of commander in the Legion of Honor.

Describes Invalid NRA as 'Substantial Progress.'

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 6.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, tonight called for a new national effort to regulate hours of work and increase purchasing power.

Emphasizing the "mental and moral deterioration" caused by unemployment, he declared there was an "inescapable duty of so organizing our production plans and rules that no one shall be crowded out of normal employment."

Calls NRA "Progress."

"Substantial progress had been made toward this end under the National Recovery act until that progress was halted by the Supreme court," he said. "New ways must be found to accomplish this purpose along the lines of regulation of the hours of work and increasing purchasing power for the lower income groups so that production can be expanded to a scale that would provide the comforts of life for all."

Green made no mention of the riff in the American Federation of Labor over the issue raised by John L. Lewis. He spoke mostly of things needed to aid labor in general.

Urges Housing Aid.

He urged "government assistance for low cost housing, both as an investment in national welfare and as a method of putting building tradesmen back to work."

Proclaiming a need for "social security," Green asserted that although "present provisions may be inadequate and incomplete," they represented an advance for labor.

LINER IS DELAYED BY UNION ROW OVER 1 SEAMAN

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 6.—(AP)—A deadlocked controversy over the status of a single deckhand kept the Dollar liner President Hoover tied up today while some of its 450 passengers fretted and joked about the delay in sailing for the Orient.

Two days behind departure schedule, the liner rested in dock while company and union officials sought to patch up their differences.

The deck crew was ready to go on the job. The company was avowedly anxious to have it do so, but didn't want Charles Brenner, a seaman, aboard. The crew declined to go aboard without him.

It all started several days ago when the President Hoover was eastbound out of Honolulu. Brenner, as "ship's delegate" wouldn't let his fellow workers perform their duties until a certain hatch was battened.

When she reached San Francisco the Dollar line refused to accept Brenner for another cruise.

4 KILLED WHEN AUTO PLUNGES FROM HIGHWAY

3 Injured at Woodville, O.; All from Chicago.

Four Chicagoans were killed and three injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding swerved off U. S. highway 20 at Woodville, O., mowed down a telephone pole, and then struck a concrete culvert. Sherif's deputies said the driver apparently had fallen asleep at the wheel.

The dead were Mrs. Virginia Linz, 40 years old; her sons, Richard, 11 years old, and Edward, 2 years old, and a cousin, Mrs. Mary Leprich, 56 years old, all of 5444 Prairie avenue. Seriously injured were Mrs. Linz's husband Mike, 40 years old; their daughter, Ruth, 9 years old, and Fred Krestel, 6030 Prairie avenue, the driver of the car. The party was on a vacation trip to Newcastle, Pa.

2 Brothers Killed by Train.

Britten Peterson, 26 years old, 3015 Emmaus avenue, Zion, and his brother, Walter, 11 years old, were killed yesterday when their light delivery truck was struck by the speeding Chicago bound Prairie State Limited of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad at the 29th street crossing in Zion.

The truck was dragged 500 feet and demolished. The crossing is guarded by electric wig-wag signals. Britten Peterson, who was driving, is a well known amateur baseball player.

Mrs. Catherine Arnold, 70 years old, 108 West Grand avenue, was fatally injured yesterday when she was struck by a Checker taxicab at La Salle street and Grand avenue while on her way home from mass at the Holy Name cathedral. Raymond Hoffman, 24 years old, 1734 North Clark street, driver, said Mrs. Arnold suddenly stepped into the path of his cab.

Trafic Victim Is Identified.

The man who was killed Saturday when he stepped from a safety island into the path of an automobile at Monroe street and Western avenue was identified yesterday at the county morgue as John F. Daly, 39 years old, 2055 Madison street.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 649 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 496 were killed in Chicago. In the same period 12,430 persons were injured in trafic accidents within the city.

Schoolboy Killed Trying to Scale 9,500 Foot Peak

Estes Park, Colo., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Forrest Hein, 16, Denver high school boy, was killed today in an attempt to scale the steep slope of 9,500 foot McGregor peak. His companion, Norman Lovett, 16, was injured seriously when they fell.

HOLD HUSBANDS OF NURSES FOR VERMONT QUIZ

Montpelier, Vt., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Jail bars kept two young husbands today from their brides of only a day, two pretty Vermont nurses, as police investigated the young women's disappearance last Wednesday and their subsequent double marriage at Inlet, N. Y., yesterday.

State's Attorney Webster E. Miller said the husbands, Fred Otto, 24, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Dale Ainsworth, 22, of Herkimer, N. Y., were "being held pending our investigation of this case."

"We want to find out the circumstances preceding the marriages," said Miller. "It is possible that we will ask the United States district attorney at Burlington to enter the case."

Relatives took the brides, Leila Ginette of St. Albans, who was married to Otto, and Lorena Hills of Williamstown, Vt., who was married to Ainsworth, to their homes.

Cigaret Smoker Falls Asleep; Dies in Flames

Francis McCormick, 36 years old, 4225 Oakenwald avenue, was suffocated early yesterday when fire occurred in the living room of his second floor flat. Police said the blaze apparently started when McCormick fell asleep while smoking and dropped a lighted cigaret on the rug. Three other families in the building fled to the street, but the fire was confined to McCormick's flat.

Quints Ride in Pony Cart as Movie Cameras Grind

CALLANDER, Ont., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Dionne quintuplets had their first ride in a pony cart yesterday, while motion picture cameras made a pictorial record of their trip. It was part of their new picture, "Reunion." The young stars all wanted to touch the five fat little ponies, but Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, their physician, firmly ruled against it. All clamored for another ride, unsuccessfully.

LABOR DAY 1936.

Labor day is a holiday distinctive to the United States. It is more particularly American today than at any other time in the half century it has been observed. The older trade unionists persuaded one legislature after another to make the day a legal holiday when members of trade unions could give a public demonstration of the strength, spirit, and dignity of voluntary labor organizations. Labor day is one of the most democratic of American institutions. Certainly it would have no place in a dictatorship of either the communistic or Fascistic variety.

We may be certain that there is no labor day in Germany, where the chief spokesman for labor recently was warned by the highest Nazi authority not to make demands for higher wages. The condition of labor under the German managed economy is reflected in a steady decline in the standard of living. There is a meat shortage at the present time in the country, and the government reports that the amount of meat consumed by families has fallen 11 per cent further during the last year. Butchers have just been notified that "until the temporary shortage is over" they will receive only half of their last year's quotas. Butter sells at 60 cents a pound.

Certainly there is no place for labor day and trade unions under the Italian managed economy. The peak wage rates for carpenters in Rome was 22 cents per hour, and for compositors 21 cents per hour. Under Fascism these rates have been substantially reduced.

Russian workmen are without the advantages of trade union representation. They do not celebrate Labor day. The standard of living there is still appallingly low. Possession of automobiles by American workmen is a commonplace, but in bolshevik Russia there is one car for each 5,000.

Labor unions and labor day would have no place in a dictatorship here. This was well known to Mr. Gompers and the old line labor leaders who did much to advance the cause of labor in this country. Gompers once wrote: "Experience of the workers in their efforts to abolish industrial injustice has demonstrated that legislation is ineffective for that purpose, but is destructive of liberty and progress. Time after time men have put their faith in theories, methods, and legislative devices. They have found all agencies impotent to secure the welfare of the people unless under the control of a people able and alert in their own interests." Mr. Gompers was opposed to government interference with trade unions. His opposition to communism was no less bitter than his opposition to the government regulation of wages, hours, and working conditions.

Mr. Roosevelt and his ally, John Lewis, want the government to dictate wages, hours of labor, and working conditions. To Mr. Lewis, who thinks that he will be a leading straw boss if Mr. Roosevelt is reëlected, the arrangement is appealing. But to union men who appreciate what their organizations have done for them the prospect should be anything but alluring.

If Mr. Roosevelt is reëlected, today may be the last Labor day the trade union men of America will have to celebrate. Should he triumph in November, trade unionism of the voluntary type, independent of government control, is done for, perhaps for all time.

SUGGESTION FOR MR. BOWERS.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde [Dem.] though now the bride of a kammerjunker [Den.] has not abandoned the Democratic party to its fate. She has resigned her position as minister to Denmark, but in loyalty to the man who gave her the job and no doubt in gratitude, as well, for the opportunity thus presented of meeting the kammerjunker, she has determined to campaign up and down the country in an automobile trailer. Though the wife of a gentleman in waiting, she is still a Bryan.

This is splendid and should encourage other Democratic diplomats to do as much for the cause. There is Mr. Claude Bowers, for example. Some weeks ago he concluded that the Spanish climate was unhealthful at this season and took up residence with a United States naval squadron. Outfitted as it was with cannon of substantial bore, not to mention about a thousand men at arms, the ship proved more healthful and more cozy.

An ocean voyage would do Mr. Bowers a world of good. He should return to our shores on his ship. He needs the rest. He needs the opportunity to catch, so to say, his breath. When he catches it he can put it to use. From time to time he can go ashore to address public meetings from Maine to Florida on the courage displayed by the men of his party in all the crises they have met.

Mrs. Rohde is hiring her own trailer as her means of conveyance on the campaign tour, but that departure from Democratic custom may be attributed to her husband's unfamiliarity with New Deal usages. It seems that in Denmark a distinction is still drawn between private and public property. The kammerjunker has much to learn about our country. Somebody should tell him how many battleships are required to enable a President to go fishing.

No, Mr. Bowers should have no difficulty in getting his squadron for the campaign. Mrs. Rohde in her time rated a coast guard cutter and she was only a minister. Mr. Bowers is an ambassador.

TOO MANY PLANS.

Irrigation enthusiasts, flood controlers, so-called conservationists, and inland waterway advocates appear to be doing a lot of loose thinking these days concerning the multiple uses of Mississippi valley water. Attention has already been editorially directed to the fact that flood control, navigation, and power projects cannot be efficiently coördinated for the very good reason that reservoirs filled with water to serve as navigation heads for hydro-electric plants are impotent to stop floods. Conversely, when they are emptied to accommodate the surplus discharge of rivers they are useless for power purposes or transportation facilities.

Now come irrigation projects in Colorado, Minnesota, and other states to tax further the water resources of the Mississippi and Missouri basins. Socialistic spellbinders can paint beautiful word pictures of controled water supplies led through ditches to make the desert bloom as the rose and later pass along to float barges and turn water wheels—all under government planning. Hard headed farmers and others, however, know that agriculture consumes water in vast quantities which the Analist has reduced to figures that can be understood by everybody. Surprising as it may seem, twenty-seven tons of water are required to grow one bushel of potatoes, twenty-five tons for a bushel of wheat, and twelve tons for a bushel of oats. Expressed otherwise, 200 to 375 pounds of water must be available to grow one pound of dry plants.

The short answer to the whole idealistic program is, "You can't have your cake and eat it." One of the expenditures must be wasted.

ESPERANTO SURVIVES.

A World's Congress of Esperantist Workers has just met in Manchester, England. We don't know what an "Esperantist worker" is, whether one who works and has Esperanto as a hobby or one who works to advance Esperanto as the world language, but the distinction is not important so long as the cause of Esperanto survives while so many hopes of world amity and international understanding have gone to wreckage.

We cannot pretend that Esperanto aroused much of our enthusiasm as a means of inducing the lion and the lamb to lie down in amity together. But that there are still faithful devotees, enough at any rate to hold a congress, is a warming if somewhat pathetic reminder of a day when hopes of reason and good will among men were higher. Amid wars and rumors of wars, with mankind seemingly more passionately determined than ever to destroy its civilization, the congress at Manchester shines like a candle in darkness, pale, but burning still.

And after all, as the Manchester Guardian recalls, Esperanto has outlived Volapuk, Cabeaban, Monario, Europan, Nov-Latin, Occidental, Romanal, and may survive into some age, however distant it must now seem, when Europe, at least, is no longer, as Clemenceau declared, made up of hates.

But that a world language, even if it could be adopted or imposed on the welter of warring humanity, would do much to bring and establish peace and good will among men seems more than doubtful. We observe that people manage to misunderstand one another in the same language, and to hate, fear, cheat, and oppress one another in spite of all the ties that bind. The prophets of new born liberal democracy thought trade would bring world peace. "Peace is the natural effect of trade," said Montesquieu. It has brought a good many wars. We must go deeper into the nature of man to find the sources of conflict, and the weakness of most theories labeled liberal is oversimplification.

A common language would be a utility, not a moral solution. But even its utility would be narrow. No language invented in a philological laboratory, though it borrowed richly from many natural tongues, could express the diversities of thought, feeling, and ways of life of the myriad peoples of the world. Language is a subtle and delicate product of life and there can never be one language for the world until there is one people in the world. That is a simplification as unlikely to be achieved as it is doubtfully to be desired.

Editorial of the Day

CROP INSURANCE.

[Rock Island (Ill.) Argus.]

After listening to a proposal made by Secretary Wallace, Mr. Roosevelt says he favors a post-election study of the advisability of establishing a system of crop insurance for farmers, protecting them against crop losses.

One of the President's advisers says that crop insurance is too large an undertaking for any private organization and therefore the government must finance it. He places the annual cost at $25,000,000.

In this connection it should be noted that the total life insurance carried by private companies in this country is about $100,000,000,000. Crop insurance is not something for the government to establish hastily. A great deal of information would have to be assembled, among other items the average crop of each insured farmer over a series of years. Deterioration through rust or stunted growth would have to be figured. No insuring organization, governmental or otherwise, can protect itself adequately against carelessness or bad management.

Would an insured farmer have the proper incentive to take measures to preserve his crop in view of a scanty rainfall? Would not the way be opened to fraudulent claims? Some of the problems are baffling in character. The private crop insurance that has been issued comprehends such limited hazards as hail or frost—not the greatest hazards. It will be difficult to determine the amount of the insurance to be written in the first place when the value of the commodity cannot be known at the beginning of the planting season. The matter of crop insurance in our opinion would turn out to be enormously complicated.

One reason why crop insurance is not written to any great extent by private concerns is that a great plague or a great drouth, falling upon great numbers of insured farmers, would mean that a big percentage of high risks would go bad at the same time, and that would mean very high losses for the insuring company.

MAN'S WORK.

We leash the lightning in our pride
And guide it for our gain,
We roll the river's course aside
To grind our golden grain;
The wanton wind becomes our slave
To work the wells we drill,
The mines give up their coal to save
Our bodies from the chill.

And yet how small our greatness grows!
The thousand things we do
Could never bring to life a rose,
Nor weave a sunset's hue;
We prate of power as we plod
That men our might may know,
Yet what artificer but God
Can mold a flake of snow?

EXPECTANCY.

The pastor of a church in a small Michigan town had designated a certain Sunday morning for baptisms, and had been informed two children would be presented. At the appointed time one youngster was in an ante-room, but even after a diligent search the other could not be found. The minister, noting that the congregation was becoming restless, announced: "We were planning to baptize two children today, but one of them has not yet arrived." Fred K.

PINKED ON A TENDER SPOT.

Early in the summer, father, a stanch Republican, reported a sunflower coming up in the back yard. For weeks he gave the plant tender care. Now it has put forth a lot of pink blossoms and father has learned that it is a "kiss-me-over-the-garden-wall." What to do? Mu Han.

ONCE UPON A TIME.

One of our division commanders in France was like Caesar in that he made orations. The last we had to listen to was delivered in the wet, gloomy woods not far from a railhead. Having gathered all the officers of the division into a clearing, the general mounted a platform. Medals gleamed on his chest and the wild light of sacrifice shone in his eyes. "Gentlemen," he said impressively, "We are about to go into the greatest battle of the world's history. When that battle begins I shall receive messages stating that some regiment has lost 30 per cent of its men; then that another has lost 40, or 50, or 60 per cent. I shall pay no attention to such reports. No unit will be relieved until it has lost 75 per cent of its effectives. That will be all, gentlemen—no, just a moment! We will have maneuvers in the woods tonight, and I hope it rains hard, so the men will get the maximum benefit." The general's determination to lay three out of four on the altar of Mars was balked, we add; he was relieved in the Argonne by a less oratorical commander before he had a fair chance to put his system into effect. General Pershing didn't like it much better than we did.

BLADDER DISCOMFORT.

THE bladder is an important reservoir wherein urine secreted by the kidneys collects. We pay but little attention to this pouchlike affair until something—a stone or an infection—hampers its function.

Inflammation of the bladder is annoying and distressing, and is often attended with considerable pain. The symptoms are not difficult to recognize, as the urine will be found usually to contain pus and bacteria.

In the great majority of cases the colon bacillus, which is routinely mixed with the contents of the large bowel, is the offending microbe. Curiously enough this particular organism is not dangerous provided it stays put; that is, within its own corral—the colon. Whenever it escapes, however, into the peritoneal cavity or finds its way into the bladder it behaves in about as friendly a fashion as an outlaw. It is a stubborn organism to rout out wherever it finds a favorable place for growth. It will resist most urinary antiseptics, although one of our valuable weapons in one type of the germ is the ketogenic [high fat] diet.

The symptoms of cystitis are pain and burning on urination and increased frequency. There is an almost constant desire to void. Sometimes the onset of the condition is characterized by a temperature of 101 to 103 degrees F.

Changing the acidity of the urine in order to destroy bacteria has been studied for many years, and only recently has the use of nitrohydrochloric acid been found to be effective. The reaction of the urine is thrown to the acid side; in other words, there is set up such a "sour" environment that the organisms can no longer survive. This means that if the urine is sufficiently acid the "bugs" will surrender unconditionally.

A highly alkaline urine may give rise to smarting and all the signs of infection. An examination, however, will disclose no pus or bacteria, merely a strongly alkaline reaction. A change of diet or some mild acid taken by mouth will usually bring prompt relief.

To what is an inflamed bladder due? Symptoms may not appear for a long time. The bladder wall is remarkably adaptable to varying degrees of distension, but no one should retain urine within this pouch after he is aware that it should be emptied. This regardless of circumstances. An overfull bladder means that the mucous lining may be thinned to the point of injury.

One bad result of overstretching is that veins and arteries may be so flattened that they cannot carry the needed blood supply. Thus contraction is interfered with whenever an effort is made to empty the structure. When distended normally the innermost lining is composed of three layers of cells, but contracted [collapsed] the inside coat may be eight or ten cells thick. This elastic arrangement is of remarkable delicacy and ingenuity.

When healthy the bladder wall possesses great power of withstanding infection. This is emphasized by the number of times in which it has been necessary to introduce an instrument—for example, a catheter. For a short while thereafter bacteria may be detected in the urine. Nevertheless after a few hours they disappear entirely.

We must not forget that a nervous impulse causes the bladder to empty and that occasionally disease of the spinal cord or injury may lead to the destruction of the nerve conducting pathway. This is the reason that unconscious patients may fail to void even to the point of rupture of the bladder. A catheter must be used to drain off the fluid.

The natural way to avoid cystitis is to empty the bladder promptly as soon as the sense of fullness is felt. Furthermore, strict cleanliness of the parts is necessary. We must recall also that in individuals past 50 a certain amount of weakening [atrophy] of the muscle occurs and we must not lose sight of the fact that hardening of the arteries [arteriosclerosis] can affect the vessels that supply the bladder as well as those of the brain.

But some one may say, "Cystitis isn't important after all!" Yes, but it is, because bacteria may invade the kidneys and set up the condition known as pyelitis.

HERNIA.

W. B. B. writes: I have a hernia caused by excessive coughing [asthma], and physicians have told me that operation would do no good. They say it would come back because of the continual cough.

1. After reading your article on the injection method, I was wondering if this would be satisfactory in my case?

2. Is it a permanent cure?

REPLY.

1. It depends on the type of hernia you have. A hernia which can be slipped back into the abdominal cavity and held in place by a truss can be treated by the injection method.

2. The method has proved to be successful in suitable cases.

CALLUS ON FOOT.

F. P. writes: Is there any home treatment for a large callus on one of the feet? I have to stand all day.

REPLY.

Calluses on the feet are usually relieved by soaking the parts in hot soapy water for an hour night and morning. This will loosen the dead skin and permit removal of the callus. Do not use a knife or scissors. The next step is to prevent recurrence. Usually readjustment of weight pressure is all that is required. Sometimes this may be accomplished by means of a pad placed in the shoe or fastened to an inner sole that will receive the weight of the body just back of the callus. A skilled chiropodist can aid you.

WATER IN EAR.

J. G. writes: Quite a few people are troubled, when swimming, by getting water in the ears. How can this be prevented? I have had some water in my ears for about a week and no amount of kicking, shaking my head, and blowing my nose removes it. What can be done?

REPLY.

The only way to keep water from getting in the ears when swimming is to wear ear plugs. Cotton will help. Water usually runs out naturally. If it will not, your family physician can relieve the situation. The chances are that a ball of wax is plugging the ear canal.

DAY BY DAY IN THE MAKING OF THE CONSTITUTION

BY JAMES MADISON

[Father of the Constitution and Fourth President of the United States.]

"The First Heir Apparent Who Ever Loved His Father."

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 7, 1787.—In convention. "The Vice President shall be ex-officio president of the senate." Mr. Gerry of Pennsylvania opposed this regulation. We might just as well put the President himself at the head of the legislature. The close intimacy that must subsist between the President and the Vice President makes it absolutely improper. He was against having any Vice President. Mr. Gouverneur Morris of Pennsylvania: The Vice President then will be the first heir apparent that ever loved his father. If there should be no Vice President the president of the senate would be temporary successor, which would amount to the same thing. Mr. Sherman of Connecticut saw no danger in the case. If the Vice President were not to be president of the senate he would be without employment. Col. Mason of Virginia thought the office of Vice President an encroachment on the rights of the senate and that it mixed too much the legislative and executive which, as well as the judiciary department, ought to be kept as separate as possible. [On the question shall the Vice President be ex-officio president of the senate the vote was eight aye, New Jersey and Maryland no, North Carolina absent.]

"The President, by and with the consent of the senate, shall have the power to make treaties, etc." Mr. Wilson of Pennsylvania moved to add after the word "senate" the words "and the house of representatives." As treaties are to have the operation of laws they ought to have the sanction of laws also. [On Mr. Wilson's motion to add the house of representatives to the senate, all no except Pennsylvania.]

The first sentence as to making treaties was then agreed to without dissent. Section 4: "The President, by and with the consent of the senate, shall have the power to make treaties. But no treaty shall be made without the consent of two-thirds of the members present." Mr. Madison moved to insert after the word "treaty" the words "except treaties of peace," allowing these to be made with less difficulty than other treaties. It was agreed to without dissent. Mr. Madison then moved to authorize a concurrence of two-thirds of the senate to make treaties of peace without the concurrence of the President. The President, he said, would necessarily derive so much power and importance from a state of war that he might be tempted, if authorized, to impede a treaty of peace. Mr. Butler of South Carolina was strenuous for the motion as a necessary security against ambitious and corrupt Presidents. [Mr. Madison's motion was defeated.]

GOVERNMENT HOUSING COSTS.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Bids have recently been opened on the near north side housing project. Two bids only were submitted, the project being so large that only the financially best heeled contractors could afford to bid. The United States Fireproofing company was low bidder at $2,234,000. At this figure the apartments will cost the taxpayer 60 cents per cubic foot, or approximately $1,500 per room. Three to five room apartments costing 60 cents per cubic foot would have to rent for from $75 to $105 a month. Even back in the "haydaze" of 1924-'29 the most optimistic promoter would have hesitated to put a similar deal over at these prices.

This project contains some 25 units. Under intelligent guidance separate bids for each unit could have been asked for, giving small contractors a chance, spreading the work over a much larger number of bidders, and thereby inviting real competition and saving much money.

It either is not the intention of the New Deal to assist small concerns or the whole situation is hopelessly in the hands of most incompetent direction.

OBSERVER.

PLEASED.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—After attending the football game between the Detroit Lions and the All-Stars I felt it my duty to advise you that I am very grateful for the postponement of the game from Tuesday to Wednesday evening. In the first place, nobody could have enjoyed watching the game, regardless of their sportsmanship, in that awful downpour Tuesday night, nor could the players have done justice to themselves.

I hope that in the future the sports department of your newspaper will continue to sponsor this annual game, and I believe that every one who attended feels likewise. I also wish at this time to congratulate you on the manner in which everything was handled. The postponement and everything was carried out with the soundest of judgment.

LOUIS R. CONNELL.

DISPLEASED.

Lake Geneva, Wis., Sept. 3.—I would like to send my regards to your sports department as one of the many thousands of football fans you inconvenienced by dragging us many miles and away from our regular business routine to a "football classic" and then called the game off until the next night. So I enjoyed the radio broadcast of the game instead. If THE TRIBUNE station insists on using two announcers, why have Bob Elson at the mike when a "sotto voce" in the background does all the factual broadcasting at his elbow? Keep Bob at the ball parks. G. R. FULLER.

SOUND DECISION.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—I am certainly thankful that your staf used such good judgment in calling off the All-Star football game last night. I attended the game last year and what a drenching I got! I know all the football fans of Chicago are thankful that they did not have to sit through another game in such a downpour. NICK G. HYDE.

THE PRESIDENTIAL HAT.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Sometimes the people who are associated with you go just a little too far in their effort to be clever. Your cartoon today depicting President Roosevelt with his hat on his head and Gov. Landon with his hat held so carefully and so conspicuously in his hand would have been a credit to your cartoonist except for the gross disrespect he has shown for the President of our United States. No doubt it was supposed to have been a clever stroke on his part, but it would be interesting to intelligent people to meet the man personally and hear from his own lips the real motive for persistently showing up President Roosevelt in a bad light. KANSAS YOUNG G. O. P. TO HOLD TOPEKA PARLEY

Delegations from Other States to Attend.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Topeka, Kas., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Young Republicans from every county in Kansas and delegations from many state organizations of this group will meet in Topeka next Friday, it was announced here today.

J. KENNETH BRADLEY.
[Acme Photo.]

Approximately 2,000 young Republicans are expected to attend the conference, the purpose of which will be to initiate and make plans for a more effective organization. Gov. Alf M. Landon will address the group.

A joint invitation to Young Republican committeemen and committeewomen in each state has been sent out by J. Kenneth Bradley of Connecticut, national chairman, and Fred Seaton of Manhattan, Kas., state chairman. County clubs of Kansas will be hosts to the gathering.

Motor Caravans Planned.

Headquarters of the National Young Republican federation in Chicago are arranging for motor caravans of Young Republicans from Oklahoma, Nebraska, Missouri, and Iowa, according to the call for the conference.

Meanwhile Gov. Landon left for Wichita tonight, where he will speak tomorrow morning before the convention of the Kansas department of the American Legion. He will return here tomorrow evening.

In his appearance at Wichita and in the call for the Kansas Young Republicans to come here, Gov. Landon is giving some attention to the presidential campaign in his own state.

Democrats in Heated Drive.

Reports from state Republican leaders show that the struggle in Kansas between the two presidential candidates cannot be minimized. Democrats are putting out a special effort to carry this state for Roosevelt. Republicans talk of "state pride" putting Landon across, but while it seems to be generally accepted that this will be an important factor, it is not necessarily a determining one.

Democrats are depending on something else—organization and federal funds, plus the Roosevelt appeal. Millions are being poured into this state in new WPA projects, checks to farmers, and in relief. Whether votes will follow checks is the problem of this campaign.

"It is almost as bad as that story about the boys who built a snowman and put two outstretched arms on the figure and a government man came along to put a check in each hand," said one political observer.

Paper Seeks WPA Facts.

The Topeka State Journal, edited by Henry J. Allen, former governor and one of Gov. Landon's chief supporters, recently has made an effort to get the facts about the WPA pay rolls in this state, but has been unsuccessful to date.

Evan Griffith, state director of WPA, has not yet given his decision as to whether the public may have the facts.

"The State Journal has no resentment at relief. It realizes that the public can not ignore its obligation to protect every man, woman, and child in the possession of the necessities of life. Its resentment is against the waste of this trust fund—a waste that sometimes has climbed as high as 60 per cent out of every dollar of relief.

Eligibility Only Question.

"The State Journal has no criticism upon the thousands of unemployed who are drawing their $35 to $42 a month. Even when the ludicrous nature of some of their pretended employment is pointed out, it doesn't seem very serious to us. It is really a system of direct relief and the only question about any of those on the rolls is as to their eligibility.

"But when we realize that there are a dozen men in Kansas drawing from $7,000 to $10,000 a year as administrators of the relief; that there are half a dozen persons drawing from $4,000 to $6,000 a year as assistants to the administrators; that in every county there is an expensive setup of men who were appointed for political reasons who do not need the money for their own purposes, but who consume the lion's share of relief funds—we are full of resentment. And we fail to see any justice in the reluctance of those in charge to allow the public to see the books.

Must "Do Business in Open."

"Every endeavor carried forward by taxes owes an obligation to the public to do its business in the open. When the endeavor deals with trust funds taken from the taxpayer for the alleviation of human misery, that particular fund is surrounded by a special sanctity. Politics should keep its dirty hands off it.

"Doubtless Mr. Griffith, the state director, is working under orders, and the determination he reaches about enabling the public to have the facts will depend upon the permission he receives from Washington. But if those who manage this system from the top wish to deal frankly and fairly with this situation they will let the public look at the books."

DR. BUTLER ATTACKS DELAY IN RECORDING 'POLL OF THE STATES'

Southampton, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Clarification of the procedure of constitutional amendment was cited today by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, as one of six problems that must be solved if the federal government is to "avoid great embarrassment in years soon to come." He spoke at the Parrish Art museum here.

"Surely it is reasonable to hold," Butler argued, "that when the secretary of state announces the submission to the states of a proposal to amend the constitution of the United States, he is in effect calling the roll of the states.

"Surely he should make public announcement, if and when 36 affirmative votes have been recorded, that the amendment is ratified, and surely he should make announcement, if and when thirteen negative votes have been recorded, that the amendment is rejected."

Dr. Butler declared the direct primary system "has almost entirely eliminated real public opinion from any controling part in the choice of nominees, let us say, for the senate of the United States, and has substituted for public opinion the influence of persistent, ambitious, well organized and self-seeking groups gathered about the personality of some one highly self-centered candidate."

BEER KEG BURSTS FROM PUMPING; PUMPER MAY DIE

Paul Dickover, 36 years old, 645 West 64th place, a chauffeur, was injured, probably fatally, yesterday when a small wooden beer barrel burst while he was putting it under compression with a small hand pump in a cottage at Williams park, a resort three miles west of Wauconda. A piece of wood from the barrel sheared Dickover's forehead, fractured his skull, and shot through the roof of the cottage. Dickover was taken to the Condell Memorial hospital in Libertyville by Dr. J. A. Ross of Wauconda.

COURTS TO START CLEARING DOCKET UNDER NEW RULE

Tomorrow Marks Change in System.

New rules of the Superior court, which are to control the assignment and trial of more than 15,000 law cases during the coming court year, will be placed in effect tomorrow, according to an announcement yesterday by Judge James J. Kelly, chief of the law division.

More than 1,000 lawyers representing the litigants in 500 cases are to appear tomorrow in Judge Kelly's courtroom in the county building to have the cases assigned for trial. The same procedure will be followed day by day until all law suits now on file have been assigned.

Both Sides Must Respond.

If the attorney for the plaintif or if attorneys for both sides fail to appear when a case is called, the new rules provide for the dismissal of the case. If the plaintiff responds and the defendant does not, a default judgment will be entered.

Dismissal of cases under these rules is expected to clear the court docket of many suits that have been on file for years, according to Judge Kelly. Under the old rules of court such cases have been carried over from year to year, assigned and reassigned to perhaps a dozen judges.

Many Are Pauper Suits.

Listed among the 10,500 cases now on file which Judge Kelly is to assign immediately are 3,054 so-called pauper suits started by persons unable to pay the court costs demanded. Court costs average $20 in each case. Under the new rules such suits now can be started only after a thorough investigation of the ability of the plaintif to pay the costs.

Recent disclosures of fraud in the filing of pauper suits has led to a check up of all such cases disposed of in the last two years, Judge Kelly said. During the last two months more than $1,000 has been collected from those who filed suits as paupers and who subsequently settled their cases out of court or received favorable verdicts before juries. This procedure will be followed in all pending pauper suits, Judge Kelly announced.

All cases before Judge Kelly, in which both lawyers respond, will be assigned to the sixteen judges of the law division, who will commence active trial of the cases Sept. 21, the opening day of the new court year.

ROOSEVELT WILL ADDRESS PARTY RALLY IN N. Y.

New York, Sept. 6.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will address the New York state Democratic convention in Syracuse at its closing session the night of Sept. 29.

Announcement of the President's plan to address the convention was made today by James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, after Farley had a telephone conversation with the President.

President Roosevelt will speak after Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and other nominees on the state ticket have made their acceptances addresses. Gov. Lehman's renomination is expected by acclamation.

WINNETKA G. O. P. WOMEN TO OPEN VOLUNTEER UNIT

Inaugurate Headquarters on Landon Birthday.

The patriotic activities of THE VOLUNTEERS will be extended to the north shore district this week with the opening Wednesday of VOLUNTEER headquarters for New Trier township at 742 Elm street, Winnetka.

The headquarters, which will serve as a clearing house for other VOLUNTEER units along the north shore, will be under the direction of the Women's Republican Club of Winnetka, aided by similar groups from Glencoe and Kenilworth.

Landon's Birthday Wednesday.

VOLUNTEER leaders have chosen Wednesday for opening of the headquarters as that day marks the 49th birthday of Gov. Alf M. Landon. Many other parties celebrating Gov. Landon's birthday will be held by VOLUNTEER units throughout the city and state.

Several hundred north shore precinct workers, well trained in house to house canvass, will attend the opening of the headquarters at 2:30 p. m. They will be given instructions and VOLUNTEER literature by Miss Ruth De Young, chairman of the women's division of THE VOLUNTEERS.

After a two hour meeting the headquarters will hold "open house" for the public. Mrs. Edward B. Hall is president of the Women's Republican Club of Winnetka. Mrs. John P. Hooker of Winnetka, vice president of the club and another VOLUNTEER leader, will act as chairman of the headquarters. Other vice presidents are Mrs. Edward B. Hall, Mrs. W. W. Darrow, Mrs. Walter Buchen, and Mrs. Ira Keller. Mrs. Howard C. Phillips is social chairman.

Registration Drive Planned.

Mrs. Phillips announced that the organization through its VOLUNTEER workers would make a special drive urging voters to register. Particular attention, she said, will be given to college students of voting age who will soon leave the state to attend schools elsewhere in the country.

These students, she explained, will be told the importance of immediate registration as they may send in their absentee ballots.

Other VOLUNTEER leaders of Glencoe are Mrs. Alfred Taylor, Mrs. Samuel Rothermel, and Mrs. Percy B. Eckhart of Kenilworth.

Hellenic Society Enrolls.

Directors and officers of the American Hellenic society met yesterday in the La Salle hotel and pledged their organization as a VOLUNTEER unit. The society is composed of persons of Greek parentage. Paul Demos is president. Other officers are George Chiamis of Peoria, vice president; John L. Manta, treasurer; William Belroy, secretary; Andrew Fassias, director of organization, and Peter S. Lambros, director of publicity.

Lambros declared that the VOLUNTEER concepts of Americanism would be passed on to members of the society throughout the state.

Ninth Ward Rally Tomorrow.

A VOLUNTEER massmeeting is scheduled in the Ninth ward tomorrow night in the home of Mrs. Virginia Akerlund at 10018 Calumet avenue. Mrs. Perry Newport, who will be in charge, reported yesterday she had secured 300 VOLUNTEER registrations.

Another VOLUNTEER meeting tomorrow night will be held in the 36th ward at 4746 North avenue. Recruiting of VOLUNTEERS will be in charge of Mrs. A. H. Johnson, leader of the west side unit of the women's division of the organization.

Charles R. Gerds, Republican committeeman of the Seventh ward, has called a meeting of workers in his ward tomorrow evening at 7517 Exchange avenue to be organized as VOLUNTEERS.

Landon-Knox Songs Popular.

VOLUNTEERS throughout Chicagoland are singing Landon and Knox songs, Phil Maxwell, director of the music division of the organization reported yesterday.

Eugene L'Hote of Milford, Ill., manager of the Iroquois Advertising company, wrote Maxwell that he has organized a high school girls' quartet, and Frank R. Leeds of Michigan City, Ind., sent word that VOLUNTEERS of that city are forming a mixed chorus of 100 voices to sing the two official VOLUNTEER songs, "The Campaign Hymn" and "Our Landon."

COL. KNOX RETURNS TO MICHIGAN COLLEGE TO MAKE ADDRESS

Alma, Mich., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Frank Knox, of the Alma college class of '97, who arrived in this little town in 1893 with $25 to work his way through school, came back today in a special campaign train as Republican vice presidential nominee.

Knox will make his Labor day address, one of the major speeches of his 22,000 miles of campaign travels, on the college campus tomorrow afternoon. Gratiot county Republicans and Alma alumni are staging a combined party rally and college homecoming.

Another Alma student of those days came back with the candidate. Townspeople remembered her as Annie Reid, the pretty daughter of a farm family living near Alma. She now is Mrs. Knox. The two met in Alma college and married after Knox, quitting school in his senior year to join Theodore Roosevelt's Rough Riders, returned from the Spanish-American war to get his first newspaper job.

'JOBS FOR ALL' IS ROOSEVELT'S 'FIRESIDE' VOW

President Defends Huge Cost of New Deal.

Washington it was disclosed that his special committee had prepared their report before leaving Washington on their tour of inspection. They arrived at their conclusions in advance, and then went out to look for supporting evidence.

Disclosure Rocks Administration.

Admission by Morris L. Cooke, rural electrification administrator and chairman of the President's committee, that this procedure was followed created a sensation in administration quarters today.

Preparation of the President's speech was said to have been delayed on that account, and it was not available to the press until about an hour before he began speaking at 9:45 p. m.

The President was not specific in outlining his plans either for the long range drouth program or the broader "sound national agricultural policy in which a permanent land use program will have an important place."

Discounts "Panaceas."

"I want to make it clear that no simple panacea can be applied to the drouth problem in the whole of the drouth area," he said. "Plans must depend on local conditions, for these vary with annual rainfall, soil characteristics, altitude and topography. Water and soil conservation methods may differ in one county from those in an adjoining county. Work to be done in the cattle and sheep country differs in type from work in the wheat country or work in the corn belt."

As for agriculture, the President said the farmers wanted assurance against another year like 1932, "when they made good crops but had to sell them for prices that meant ruin, just as surely as did the drouth." Sound policy, he said, must maintain farm prices in good years as well as in bad crop years—"it must function when we have drouth; it must function also when we have bumper crops."

"I have not the time tonight to deal with other and more comprehensive agriculture policies," the President added.

Renews Pledge of Help.

The President was specific, however, in his promise, reiterated throughout the 5,000 mile trip, that he would take care of the farmers in need.

"We have the option," he said, "in the case of families who need actual subsistence, of putting them on the dole or putting them to work. They do not want to go on the dole and they are 1,000 per cent right. We agree, therefore, that we must put them to work for a decent wage, and when we reach that decision we kill two birds with one stone, because these families will earn enough by working, not only to subsist themselves, but to buy food for their stock and seed for next year's planting.

"Into this scheme of things there fit, of course, the government lending agencies which, next year, as in the past, will help with production loans."

Seeks to Shift Blame.

In defending his administration against the charge that it has fomented class hatred, the President inferred that his political enemies were the guilty ones.

In hailing Labor day, the President apparently took cognizance of Gov. Landon's assertion, made in proclaiming the Kansas labor holiday, that there is no room in such a holiday "for class divisions and prejudices."

"Labor day in this country never has been a class holiday," the President said. "It always has been a national holiday.

"Tomorrow, Labor day, belongs to all of us. . . . The Fourth of July commemorates our political freedom. . . . Labor day symbolizes our determination to achieve an economic freedom for the average man which will give his political freedom reality."

All Officers Renominated by Federation of Labor

All present officers of the Chicago Federation of Labor were renominated without opposition at a meeting yesterday. They will be reëlected on Sept. 20. They are John Fitzpatrick, president; Anton Johannsen, vice president; E. N. Nockels, recording secretary; Maurice Lynch, financial secretary; L. P. Straube, reading secretary; Christian M. Madsen, treasurer, and Charles Hayman, sergeant at arms.

Text of President Roosevelt's "Fireside Chat" on Drouth Conditions

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's radio speech, delivered from the White House tonight, follows:

"I have been on a journey of husbandry. I went primarily to see, at first hand, conditions in the drouth states; to see how effectively federal and local authorities are taking care of pressing problems of relief, and also how they are to work together to defend the people of this country against the effects of future drouths.

"I saw drouth devastation in nine states.

"I talked with families who had lost their wheat crop, lost their corn crop, lost their live stock, lost the water in their well, lost their garden, and come through to the end of the summer without one dollar of cash resources, facing a winter without feed or food—facing a planting season without seed to put in the ground.

Thousands of Less Extreme Cases.

"That was the extreme case, but there are thousands and thousands of families on western farms who share the same difficulties.

"I saw cattlemen who, because of lack of grass or lack of winter feed, have been compelled to sell all but their breeding stock, and will need help to carry even these through the coming winter. I saw live stock kept alive only because water had been brought to them long distances in tank cars. I saw other farm families who have not lost their everything, but who, because they have made only partial crops, must have some form of help if they are to continue farming next spring.

"I never shall forget the fields of wheat so blasted by heat that they can not be harvested. I never shall forget field after field of corn, stunted, earless, and stripped of leaves, for what the sun left the grasshoppers took. I saw brown pastures which would not keep a cow on fifty acres.

Discounts Permanent Disaster.

"Yet I would not have you think for a single minute that there is permanent disaster in these drouth regions, or that the picture I saw meant depopulating these areas. No cracked earth, no blistering sun, no burning wind, no grasshoppers are a permanent match for the indomitable American farmers and stockmen and their wives and children who have carried on through desperate days, and inspire us with their self-reliance, their tenacity, and their courage. It was their fathers' task to make homes; it is their task to keep those homes; it is our task to help them with their fight.

"First, let me talk for a minute about this autumn and the coming winter. We have the option, in the case of families who need actual subsistence, of putting them on the dole or putting them to work. They do not want to go on the dole and they are one thousand per cent right.

Demands Work at Decent Wage.

"We agree, therefore, that we must put them to wor': for a decent wage; and when we reach that decision, we kill two birds with one stone, because these families will earn enough by working, not only to subsist themselves, but to buy food for their stock, and seed for next year's planting. Into this scheme of things there fit, of course, the government lending agencies which next year, as in the past, will help with production loans.

"Every governor with whom I have talked is in full accord with this program of providing work for these farm families, just as every governor agrees that the individual states will take care of their unemployables, but that the cost of employing those who are entirely able and willing to work must be borne by the federal government.

Question Is Type of Work.

"If then we know, as we do today, the approximate number of farm families who will require some form of work relief from now on through the winter, we face the question of what kind of work they should do. Let me make it clear that this is not a new question, because it already has been answered to a greater or less extent in every one of the drouth communities.

"Beginning in 1934, when we also had serious drouth conditions, the state and federal governments coöperated in planning a large number of projects—many of them directly aimed at the alleviation of future drouth conditions.

"In accordance with that program, literally thousands of ponds or small reservoirs have been built in order to supply water for stock and to lift the level of the underground water to protect wells from going dry. Thousands of wells have been drilled or deepened; community lakes have been created, and irrigation projects are being pushed.

Expounding Water Conservation.

"Water conservation by means such as these is being expanded as a result of this new drouth, all through the great plains area, the western corn belt and in the states that lie further south. In the middle west, water conservation is not so pressing a problem. Here the work projects run more to soil erosion control and the building of farm to market roads.

"Spending like this is not waste. It would spell future waste if we did not spend for such things now. These emergency work projects provide money to buy food and clothing for the winter; they keep the live stock on the farm; they provide seed for a new crop, and, best of all, they will conserve soil and water in the future in those areas most frequently hit by drouth.

"If, for example, in some local area the water table continues to drop and the top soil to blow away, the land values will disappear with the water and soil. People on the farms will drift into nearby cities; the cities will have no farm trade and the workers in the city factories and stores will have no jobs. Property values in the cities will decline.

"Spend in Order to Save."

"If, on the other hand, the farms within that area remain as farms, with better water supply and no erosion, the farm population will stay on the land and prosper and the nearby cities will prosper, too. Property values will increase instead of disappearing. That is why it is worth our while as a nation to spend money in order to save money.

"I have, however, used the argument in relation only to a small area—it holds good in its effect on the nation as a whole. Every state in the drouth area is now doing and always will do business with every state outside it.

"The very existence of the men and women working in the clothing factories of New York, making clothes worn by farmers and their families; of the workers in the steel mills in Pittsburgh, in the automobile factories of Detroit, and in the harvester factories of Illinois, depend upon the farmers' ability to purchase the commodities they produce.

"In the same way it is the purchasing power of the workers in these factories in the cities that enables them and their wives and children to eat more beef, more pork, more wheat, more corn, more fruit, and more dairy products, and to buy more clothing made from cotton, wool, and lether.

All Members Bound Together.

"In a physical and a property sense, as well as in a spiritual sense, we are members, one of another.

"I want to make it clear that no simple panacea can be applied to the drouth problem in the whole of the drouth area. Plans must depend on local conditions, for these vary with annual rainfall, soil characteristics, altitude, and topography. Water and soil conservation methods may differ in one county from those in an adjoining county. Work to be done in the cattle and sheep country differs in type from work in the wheat country or work in the corn belt.

"The great plains drouth area committee has given me its preliminary recommendations for a long time program for that region. Using that report as a basis, we are coöperating successfully and in entire accord with the governors and state planning boards.

Sees Decline in Relief Load.

"As we get this program into operation, the people more and more will be able to maintain themselves securely on the land. That will mean a steady decline in the relief burdens which the federal government and states have had to assume in time of drouth; but, more important, it will mean a greater contribution to general national prosperity by these regions which have been hit by drouth.

"It will conserve and improve not only property values, but human values.

"The people in the drouth area do not want to be dependent on federal, state, or any other kind of charity. They want for themselves and their families an opportunity to share fairly by their own efforts in the progress of America.

"The farmers of America want a sound national agricultural policy in which a permanent land use program will have an important place. They want assurance against another year like 1932, when they made good crops, but had to sell them for prices that meant ruin just as surely as did the drouth.

Envisions Fixed Price Level.

"Sound policy must maintain farm prices in good crop years as well as in bad crop years. It must function when we have drouth; it must also function when we have bumper crops.

"The maintenance of a fair equilibrium between farm prices and the prices of industrial products is an aim which we must keep ever before us, just as we must give constant thought to the sufficiency of the food supply of the nation, even in bad years. Our modern civilization can and should devise a more successful means by which the excess supplies of bumper years can be conserved for use in lean years.

"On my trip I have been deeply impressed with the general efficiency of those agencies of the federal, state, and local governments which have moved in on the immediate task created by the drouth.

"In 1934 none of us had preparation; we worked without blue prints and made the mistakes of inexperience. Hindsight shows us this. But as time has gone on we have been making fewer mistakes.

Decision Up to Local Bodies.

"Remember that the federal and state governments have done only broad planning. Actual work on a given project originates in the local community. Local needs are listed from local information. Local projects are decided on only after obtaining the recommendations and help of those in the local community who are best able to give it.

"And it is worthy of note that on my entire trip, though I asked the question dozens of times, I heard no complaint against the character of a single works relief project.

"The elected heads of the states concerned, together with their state officials and their experts from agricultural colleges and state planning board, have shown coöperation with and approval of the work which the federal government has headed up. I am grateful also to the men and women in all these states who have accepted leadership in the work in their locality.

New Methods Accepted.

"In the drouth area, people are not afraid to use new methods to meet changes in nature and to correct mistakes of the past. If overgrazing has injured range lands, they are willing to reduce the grazing. If certain wheat lands should be returned to pasture, they are willing to coöperate. If trees should be planted as wind breaks or to stop erosion, they will work with us. If terracing or summer fallowing, or crop rotation is called for, they will carry them out. They stand ready to fit, not to fight, the ways of nature.

"We are helping, and shall continue to help, the farmer to do those things, through local soil conservation committees and other coöperative local, state, and federal agencies of government.

"I have not the time tonight to deal with other and more comprehensive agricultural policies.

"With this fine help we are tiding over the present emergency. We are going to conserve soil, conserve water and conserve life. We are going to have long-time defenses against both low prices and drouth. We are going to have a farm policy that will serve the national welfare. This is our hope for the future.

Turns to Reëmployment.

"There are two reasons why I want to end my talking about reëmployment. Tomorrow is Labor day. The brave spirit with which so many millions of working people are winning their way out of depression deserves respect and admiration. It is like the courage of the farmers in the drouth areas.

"That is my first reason. The second is that healthy employment conditions stand equally with healthy agricultural conditions as a buttress of national prosperity. Dependable employment at fair wages is just as important to the people in the towns and cities as good farm income is to agriculture. Our people must have the ability to buy the goods they manufacture and the crops they produce. Thus city wages and farm buying power are the two strong legs that carry the nation forward.

Takes Credit for Jobs Pickup.

"Reëmployment in industry is proceeding rapidly. Government spending was in large part responsible for keeping industry going and putting it in a position to make this reëmployment possible. Government orders were the backlog of heavy industry; government wages turned over and over again to make consumer purchasing power and to sustain every merchant in the community.

"Business men with their business, small and large, had to be saved. Private enterprise is necessary to any nation which seeks to maintain the democratic form of government. In their case, just as certainly as in the case of drouth stricken farmers, government spending has saved.

Industry Takes Up Burden.

"Government having spent wisely to save it, private industry begins to take workers off the rolls of the government relief program. Until this administration, we had no free employment service, except in a few states and cities.

"Because there was no unified employment service, the worker, forced to move as industry moved, often traveled over the country, wandering after jobs which seemed always to travel just a little faster than he did. He often was victimized by fraudulent practices of employment clearing houses, and the facts of employment opportunities were at the disposal neither of himself nor of the employer.

"In 1933 the United States employment service was created—a coöperative state and federal enterprise—through which the federal government matches dollar for dollar the funds provided by the states for registering the occupations and skills of workers and for actually finding jobs for these registered workers in private industry.

"The federal-state coöperation has been splendid. Already employment services are operating in thirty-two states, and the areas not covered by them are served by the federal government.

Nation-Wide Service on Jobs.

"We have developed a nation-wide service with seven hundred district offices, and one thousand branch offices, thus providing facilities through which labor can learn of jobs available and employers can find workers.

"Last spring I expressed the hope that employers would realize their deep responsibility to take men off the relief rolls and give them jobs in private enterprise. Subsequently I was told by many employers that they were not satisfied with the information available concerning the skill and experience of the workers on the relief rolls.

"On August 25 I allocated a relatively small sum to the employment service for the purpose of getting better and more recent information in regard to those now actively at work on WPA projects—information as to their skill and previous occupations—and to keep the records of such men and women up to date for maximum service in making them available to industry.

2½ Millions More Cash.

"Tonight I am announcing the allocation of two and a half million dollars more to enable the employment service to make an even more intensive search than it has yet been equipped to make to find opportunities in private employment for workers registered with it.

"Tonight I urge workers to coöperate with and take full advantage of this intensification of the work of the employment service. This does not mean that there will be any lessening of our efforts under our WPA and PWA and other work relief programs until all workers have decent jobs in private employment at decent wages.

"We do not surrender our responsibility to the unemployed. We have had ample proof that it is the will of the American people that those who represent them in national, state, and local governments should continue as long as necessary to discharge that responsibility. But it does mean that the government wants to use resource to get private work for those now employed on government work and thus to curtail to a minimum the government's expenditures for direct employment.

Appeals to Employers.

"Tonight I ask employers, large and small, throughout the nation to use the help of the state and federal employment service whenever in the general pick-up of business they require more workers.

"Tomorrow is Labor day. Labor day in this country never has been a class holiday. It always has been a national holiday. It never has had more significance as a national holiday than it has now. In other countries the relationship of employer and employé has been more or less accepted as a class relationship, not readily to be broken through.

"In this country we insist, as an essential of the American way of life, that the employer-employé relationship should be one between free men and equals. We refuse to regard those who work with hand or brain as different from or inferior to those who live from their property. We insist that labor is entitled to as much respect as property.

"But our workers with hand and brain deserve more than respect for their labor. They deserve practical protection in the opportunity to use their labor at a return adequate to support them at a decent and constantly rising standard of living, and to accumulate a margin of security against the inevitable vicissitudes of life.

Two-fold Opportunity Necessary.

"The average man must have that two-fold opportunity if we are to avoid the growth of a class conscious society in the country.

"There are those who fail to read both the signs of the times and American history. They would try to refuse the worker any effective power to bargain collectively, to earn a decent livelihood and to acquire security. It is those shortsighted ones, not labor, who threaten this country with that class dissension which in other countries has led to dictatorship and the establishment of fear and hatred as the dominant emotions in human life.

"All American workers — brain workers and manual workers alike—and all the rest of us whose well-being depends on theirs, know that our needs are one in building an orderly economic democracy in which all can profit and in which all can be secure from the kind of faulty economic direction which brought us to the brink of common ruin seven years ago.

No Cleavage of Class.

"There is no cleavage between white collar workers and manual workers, between artists and artisans, musicians and mechanics, lawyers and accountants, and architects and miners.

"Tomorrow, Labor day, belongs to all of us. Tomorrow, Labor day, symbolizes the hope of all Americans. Any one who calls it a class holiday challenges the whole concept of American democracy.

"The Fourth of July commemorates our political freedom — a freedom which without economic freedom is meaningless indeed. Labor day symbolizes our determination to achieve an economic freedom for the average man which will give his political freedom reality."

This Man knows how to Grow Hair

HE IS a trained Thomas scalp specialist. He knows the symptoms of the fourteen external causes of baldness and he knows specifically how each should be treated. He knows exactly how to end the various forms of dandruff; how to stop falling hair; and how to rejuvenate your scalp to a normal healthy condition conducive to the growth of strong new hair.

Your particular scalp disorder should be treated by this trained Thomas specialist who does nothing but examine and treat the various forms of hair and scalp troubles. In growing hair and preventing baldness he replaces guesswork and general "cure-all" remedies with scientific treatment designed to meet your own particular needs.

Eighteen years ago Paul A. Thomas discovered the proper method of stimulating the dormant sources of hair growth. His method has been improved each year and today is as near perfect as any scalp treatment can be. First, Thomas treatment overcomes all local scalp infections, stops scalp itch and abnormal hair fall. It then stimulates the tiny glands in the scalp which nourish the hair. Thus, "sleeping hair" obtains sufficient strength to grow again and become visible on the scalp.

You, Too, Can Have a Good Head of Hair

Last year The Thomas' successfully administered 344,183 treatments in their forty-five offices throughout the United States and Canada. This treatment grows hair, stops falling hair, ends dandruff, and makes the scalp healthy. What The Thomas' have done for others with their eighteen-year proved treatment they can do for you. JEWS IN GERMANY FEARFUL OF NEW BLOWS BY NAZIS

Hitlerites Rally; Begin Convention Tomorrow.

NUREMBERG, Germany, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Nazi Germany moved on its Nuremberg shrine tonight, officially united in a glowing hatred of communism, but with thousands of Jews and Catholics anxiously awaiting the repercussions.

National Socialism's annual party convention begins Tuesday. A million Nazis, and the sympathizers they left at home, will hear the shouted words of the fuehrer and chancellor, Adolf Hitler. Scores of lesser lights will review the past year of party power and outline the program for another twelve months.

Dr. Robert Ley, leader of 25,000,000 members of the German labor front, has coördinated the addresses—"The fight against communism will be the central theme," he says. The Spanish civil war, in which Socialists, Communists and other factions of the United Left are opposing army Fascist rebels, may provide a new vehicle for the familiar crusade.

Jews Are Fearful.

But the Jews, remembering the Nuremberg racial laws of 1935, are saying:

"Last year they took away our citizenship. This year they will deprive us of our passports."

And Catholic circles have voiced fears the convention may be featured by repressive measures against lay activities of the church. They were apprehensive lest the church's influence over its youth be curtailed; lest the assembled Nazis seek to make capital of the recent arrests of nuns and priests on charges of smuggling money from the country.

Jews based the "passport" hint on the increasing difficulty met by them in leaving the country.

Many signs pointed to possible drastic restrictions of Jewish activity in the business field.

Seven Restrictions Visioned.

There were seven restrictions which many believed would become law after the convention either by simple decree of Hitler or, as last year, by vote of the reichstag in special session. They were:

No non-Aryan may be administrator of property or manager of an apartment house or houses.

No non-Aryan may engage in the real estate business.

Jews whose property is encumbered by first mortgages must submit to foreclosure in favor of the Gentile mortgage holder.

Non-Aryans may no longer be professional advisers on taxation, foreign exchange and business law matters.

Loan and mortgage brokerage may be forbidden to non-Aryans.

Non-Aryans may no longer function as experts in courts or before arbitration boards.

Youth Marches on Suburb.

The first big display of Nazi power will be the march of 50,000 tanned, hardened and militarily disciplined members of the Hitler Youth organization on Fuerth, a suburb of Nuremberg, from 25 directions to attend the convention.

Arranged in 380 groups from every part of the reich, they started July 23 on a six week hike to Nuremberg. Gradually the 380 group merged into 25 bands which will reach Fuerth at the same time tomorrow.

They will move into a tent city and await the moment Thursday when the dream of their young lives is fulfilled. That dream will be the privilege of appearing before Hitler in the vast Nuremberg stadium and listening to his admonition for them to become real Nazis and carry on the Fuehrer's work.

The marching distance from Berlin to Fuerth is 385 miles, and the Berlin boys did 11 to 12 miles each day on marching days. Every third day was set aside for sight seeing in cities or sports programs in the country.

In many ways the youths resembled an army. The discipline was strict, rations were prepared in field kitchens and they were made under army-type of regulations.

ADAM CALLS ON HIS GIRL; THEN COMES HIS WOES

Adam Tillinger, 22 years old, of Youngstown, O., and his mother have been visiting relatives who live at 3460 Overhill avenue, on the far northwest side. Saturday night Tillinger went to visit his girl, who lives on the far southeast side. On the long ride back to Overhill av... early yesterday morning Tillinger fell asleep at the wheel of his car and it crashed into the window of a tailor shop at 3746 West 63d street.

The owner of the shop signed a complaint charging reckless driving, and Tillinger was taken to the Bridewell hospital for treatment of a broken arm and other injuries suffered in the crash. He was unable to tell the Chicago Lawn police the address of his relatives.

All day yesterday Tillinger's mother waited for him to return. Finally, with a kinsman, she went to the Irving Park police, who sent out a bulletin to other stations that the youth was missing. At the Chicago Lawn station Lieut. William Keith read the bulletin. He sent word to the Irving Park police. There was a happy reunion last night at the Bridewell hospital.

Thief Upsets Woman, but She Falls on Purse; Saves It

Miss Lillian Pons, 35 years old, 2433 Orchard street, was knocked down by a thief last night at Geneva terrace and Fullerton avenue as she was returning home. He tried to snatch her purse which contained a few dollars, but Miss Pons dropped on it as she fell. She was not seriously injured.

PATRIARCH, 111, AT FAMILY REUNION

"Grandpa" Davis (seated), 111 years old, of Wilmington, O., has 12 children ranging in ages from 42 to 68 years. He has 49 grandchildren, 102 great-grandchildren, and 18 great-great-grandchildren, 181 descendants in all. He is surrounded here by his sons and daughters. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

SENATORS URGE MOVE TO BENEFIT PALESTINE JEWS

Wire Hull to Address Britain on Subject.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—The Zionist Organization of America today made public messages from 30 United States senators and members of the house of representatives expressing deep concern over the troubled situation in Palestine and expressing the hope and belief that Great Britain would not interfere with Jewish immigration or otherwise hinder rebuilding of the Jewish homeland in Palestine.

Seventeen of the senators joined in a telegram to Secretary of State Cordell Hull, asking him to address Great Britain on the subject.

Distressed by Disorders.

The organization made public the text of the telegram, which read in part:

"The American people, through their President and through the houses of congress, on frequent occasions have manifested their sympathy with the effort of the Jewish people to reëstablish in Palestine a center of safety and security for great numbers of Jews who do not share the freedom and liberty of America, but who live in lands of intolerable oppression.

"Having watched with sympathy and approval the steady progress in Palestine of benefit alike to Arabs and Jews, we are distressed at the continuation of rioting and destruction that can only bring harm to all inhabitants.

"We note with satisfaction the restraint and discipline displayed by the Jewish pioneers in the face of provocation and we admire the spirit of courage and social idealism which gives them the strength to go forward with their tasks of peaceful reconstruction.

Urge Plea to Great Britain.

"Will you be kind enough to convey for us to the representatives of his majesty's government in the United States our hope that the British government, as mandatory for Palestine, will, undeterred by violence, fulfill the obligation assumed in letter and spirit in unertaking trusteeship for the establishment of the Jewish national home in Palestine, and that nothing will be done at this time to penalize or to hinder the Jewish people whose sole aim has been the reconstruction of a progressive cultured land whose benefits would accrue to all its citizens.

"We join in expressing the hope that rumors of the suspension of Jewish immigration into Palestine are without foundation, and that no decision will be made that would serve as encouragement to the exponents of terrorism and that would demoralize the men and women who in their daily lives exemplify the spirit of peace and good will."

HOLY LAND JEW DIES OF WOUNDS; TWO ARABS SHOT

JERUSALEM, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Violence and disorder were intensified tonight in Palestine at the beginning of the 21st week of the Arab general strike protesting Jewish immigration and land owning.

The 79th Jewish victim died as the result of wounds received Sept. 1 when the bus he was driving was smashed in a mine explosion set by Arabs.

The government anounced two Arabs were wounded when a band surrounded a military patrol near Gaza and was repulsed under heavy gunfire.

French Fete Anniversary of First Battle of Marne

PARIS, Sept. 6.—(AP)—French patriotic organizations celebrated tonight the 22d anniversary of the first battle of the Marne with ceremonies at Meaux, twenty-seven miles from Paris on the Marne river. Speakers recalled the four day battle from Sept. 5 to 9, 1914, with the French and British pitted against invading Germans. The latter were turned back from the very gates of Paris in the first successful resistence offered in the world war.

Stop New Bleeding Attack on Former Crown Prince

New York, Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Another attack of bleeding, the hereditary scourge of the Bourbon line, alarmed physicians this morning as they treated Alfonso, count of Covadonga, for hemophilia. The erstwhile Spanish crown prince has been in Presbyterian hospital since Aug. 26, bleeding internally after a minor operation. Today's attack was stemmed quickly and his general condition was reported as satisfactory.

Churchgoers Beat Radicals in Warsaw Riot Over Spain's War

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 6.—Hundreds of Jewish Socialists were beaten in a riot on Nowy Swait street in the center of Warsaw at noon today. The congregation of the Trinity cathedral and other churches poured into the streets to encounter a Socialist parade with red banners and placards urging help for the Socialist - communist government of Spain.

After having listened to special prayers for suffering Catholics in Spain, the red flags infuriated the churchgoers and bitter street fighting developed. Women and girls of both sides joined in the fray. The Jews were outnumbered and were forced to retreat. A large number of wounded received first aid treatment in drug stores. Twenty arrests were made.

Socialists Assail Police.

After the fighting Socialist headquarters complained that police reserves were conspicuously slow in appearing to restore order.

Answering Socialist charges that the police permitted the churchgoers to attack the paraders, Warsaw officials said the Socialists should have known better than to have routed their parade past the largest churches in Warsaw just when the congregations were leaving. They charged that the radical leaders wilfully were provoking riots. Anti-Semitic feeling flamed high during the day and many minor fights in which Jews were attacked were reported.

Poland is preparing to celebrate the return Tuesday of Gen. Edward Rydz-Smigly, inspector general of the army, as a national holiday. The general is completing a visit to Paris, where his mission was reported to have been crowned with success.

Legionnaires to Cheer General.

All Polish Legionnaires along the railroad from the border to Warsaw have been ordered to congregate as Rydz-Smigly's train passes to salute and cheer him. The general is successor to the late Marshal Josef Pilsudski as political leader of the country.

Warsaw also is preparing a warm welcome for Paul Bastid, French minister of commerce. He is expected to arrive Friday when the question of a combined loan and credit of $65,000,000 to Poland for war munitions will be discussed.

Differences on the matter of the loan still exist. Poland desires cash to be expended in her own munitions factories, while France prefers to furnish equipment to the Polish army from her factories. The Poles emphasize they are going further into debt and are enlarging their armament solely to safeguard peace. Among the equipment they claim is urgently needed is a large number of heavy bombing planes.

BAVARIAN CHURCHES MAP DEFENSE AGAINST NEW CURBS BY NAZIS

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Both Catholic and Protestant church authorities of Bavaria took up a stiff defensive tonight against repressive measures which, they believe, may come out of this week's Nazi party convention at Nuremberg.

A pastoral letter, read from Catholic pulpits here and elsewhere in Germany, charged unjust treatment of a Franciscan lay order in Nazi press reports of the trials of some 200 on immorality accusations at Coblenz.

From Bavarian Evangelical pulpits, Bishop Hans Meiser broadcast a strong protest against the Nazi propaganda campaign, believed impending, for a so-called national church.

"A national church is an impossibility while there is no unity of religious conviction in the land," said Bishop Meiser's statement. "Moreover, such a church would admit people who do not believe in Christ."

1 KILLED, 3 HURT IN CRASH.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Ignatz Viles of South Bend is dead, his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Wells of Indianapolis are in a serious condition in Epworth hospital as a result of an automobile accident this afternoon.

CANNES, FRANCE, VILLAS MENACED BY FOREST FIRES

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York News.]

CANNES, France, Sept. 6.—With a high gale blowing and the temperature near 90 degrees forest fires which broke out in the Esterel mountains, a few miles back of Cannes, are threatening great property damage and danger to fashionable villas.

Since June 15 there has been practically no rain, so the drouth has increased the difficulties of firefighters. Blazes are raging at La Napoule and Theoule, five and seven miles west of here, and have threatened both places where there are many villas. The greatest danger is to the place of Henry Clews of New York, containing millions of francs worth of art works. Hundreds of citizens are aiding the soldiers in trying to fight the fires.

Cannes today was darkened by smoke and cinders, while at Vallauris villagers were hastily leaving their homes and seeking a lower level by the sea to escape suffocation. Vallauris lies east of Cannes and it is thought the famous Cannes Country club near there is endangered. Unless the wind abates the fire may reach Californie, the fashionable Cannes quarter, with many hundreds of villas.

FRENCH LINE UP POLAND AS ALLY IN CASE OF WAR

Seal Treaty to Match Germany's Army.

PARIS, Sept. 6.—(AP)—France sealed tonight a military pact with Poland as part of the program for strengthening both her foreign alliances and army to match Germany's war machine.

Franco-Polish financial and military agreements, described as of great importance, were signed after a dinner given by President Albert Lebrun in honor of Polish Gen. Edward Rydz-Smigly.

The inspector general of the Polish army from whom military circles said "the French army has no secrets," concluded negotiations with diplomats, generals and bankers before returning tonight for Warsaw. He came to France for extended conferences following a similar visit to Warsaw by the French army's chief of staf.

France to Offer Loan.

Sources close to the government said Poland will be given credit in France to purchase war supplies and possibly a direct loan to build up her army.

Reinforcement of the Franco-Polish alliance of 1923, they said, would "end" Berlin's influence over Warsaw.

Delbos received the British ambassador and the Czechoslovakian and Jugo-Slavian ministers to tell them details of the Franco-Polish agreement.

40,000 Mass at Maneuvers.

More than 40,000 troops gathered at Draguignan for maneuvers which started nearly two weeks ago with a mock battle between defending forces and invaders marching from the Mediterranean coast or the Italian border.

Daladier announced creation of a superior college of national defense, which will combine courses in military strategy, and political, financial, economic and moral subjects. A decree which constituted the college will be presented tomorrow to President Lebrun for signature.

"It was indispensable," Daladier said, "that we unite in one group the high officers of the three defense branches—army, navy, air force—with leaders in civilian life as well as prominent men in foreign affairs, finance, national economy and public works."

Vice Admiral Raoul Caste was named director to supervise the four-month term of study.

FIGHTER ACCUSED OF SLAYING.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Gerald Koole, 50, was arrested last night on a charge of manslaughter following the death of Maurice Evans, 30, of injuries received in a fist fight. Police reported that Evans received a fracture of the skull when his head struck a curb as he was felled by a blow from Koole.

MOTHER OF NINE KILLED AS AUTO PLUNGES IN TENT

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Josephine di Feda, 39, was injured fatally today when an automobile ran off a highway north of here and plowed into the tent in which she and her husband were sleeping.

Mrs. Di Feda, the mother of nine children, suffered a fractured skull when a wheel of the car, driven by George McFadden, 23, of Loves Park, passed over her head. Her husband, Joe, was in a serious condition with a fractured ankle and hip.

The Di Fedas, who lived here, pitched their tent about 25 feet from the road to be on hand this morning to sell watermelons to motorists.

McFadden was placed in the county jail, held without charge pending the outcome of the inquest. He told police he was on his way home from here and had fallen asleep.

SQUIRRELS IN PARK SO WELL FED THEY SUFFER FROM GOUT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Some of Uncle Sam's squirrels have gotten so lazy they have the gout!

The National park service let it be known today that the golden manteled squirrels in Crater Lake National park, Oregon, "have allowed themselves to become increasingly dependent, year after year, upon the handouts of admiring tourists.

"As a result of too much food and too little exercise the little rodents are now suffering from a complaint which may be compared to what human beings know as gout."

CHURCH RECTORY BURGLARIZED.

To the Man who Works

THE Chicago Coal Merchants Association takes this opportunity to pay tribute to the man who works. He is the Nation. He produces the nation's goods . . . and uses them himself. He makes the nation's machines . . . and then supervises the turning of their wheels. He mines and delivers the nation's coal, and in this role we know him and like him best.

Once a year the man who works pauses at his task, surveys what he has done, and meets his comrades as fellow craftsmen to celebrate the dignity of honest toil. To the man who works we owe the solidarity of our national enterprise and the forward march of our industry and commerce. The Members of this Association salute him this Labor Day with full appreciation of his contribution to the best things in our national life.

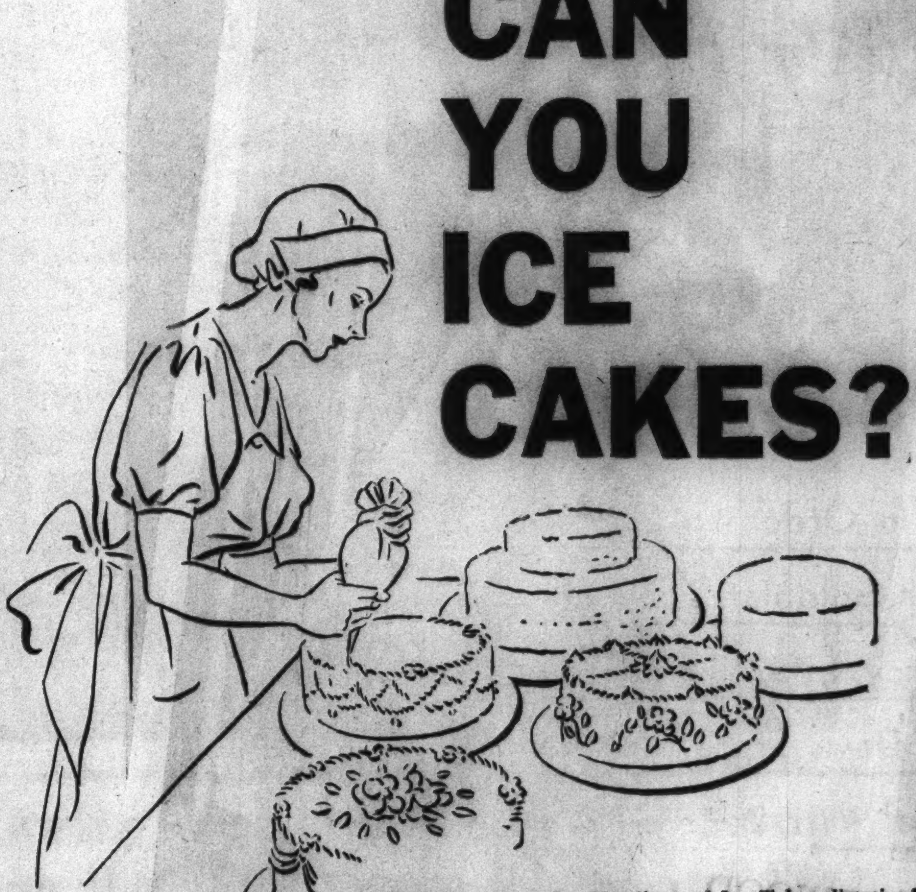
CAN YOU ICE CAKES?



Make draperies? Handle cash? Take dictation? Keep house?

These employment offers appeared in the Chicago Tribune during the last few days. They typify the wide variety of job opportunities now listed in the help wanted columns.

Every month this year the Tribune has printed more help wanted advertising than in the same month of last year. The gain for the first seven months this year amounted to 35%.

Individual employers and employment agencies are now seeking workers for practically every kind of a job. To find competent help they place three times as much help wanted advertising in the Tribune as in any other Chicago newspaper.

To find a good job, or a better one than you now have, keep tab on the increasing number of offers in the Tribune help wanted columns.

The Tribune does not knowingly accept help wanted advertisments which misrepresent the nature or terms of employment, or advertisments for sales help which do not indicate the type of product or service to be sold, and the form of compensation.

DICTATORSHIP IN GREECE APPLIES STERN MEASURES

Gen. Metaxas Keeps Post by Army's Consent.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

BELGRADE, Jugo Slavia, Sept. 6.—Nearly a month has elapsed since Gen. John Metaxas virtually assumed the dictatorship of Greece by proclaiming martial law and dissolving parliament, but it is still impossible to forecast the future of the experiment.

At present Gen. Metaxas' government is meeting with no visible reaction, as the press is gagged, politicians are scared and most of the labor agitators are in jail. Army leaders, always important in Balkan politics, seem satisfied, but their support of Gen. Metaxas probably depends on King George II, to whom they are mostly loyal.

Measures Unpopular.

On the other hand the government meets little spontaneous response, even among those classes which it supposedly "saved from a communist revolution."

The reason is that Gen. Metaxas immediately imposed a series of the severest economic and financial restrictions, especially hard on the middle and wealthy classes. Decrees forbidding Greeks to travel abroad, ordering all holders of gold and foreign currencies to hand them over to the bank of Greece, the opening of all inward and outbound mail so as to make sure of private citizens' monetary transactions abroad—all are highly unpopular measures.

It is also feared that restrictions imposed on travelers may unfavorably affect the tourist trade. No one can visit a foreign ship in port and even foreign diplomats must obtain special permits to approach the quay. These restrictions were imposed by the Bank of Greece when the government signed the London agreement with bondholders on Greece' foreign debt agreeing to pay them 40 per cent of the past two years' interest.

Cash Is Scarce.

The Bank of Greece fears it will not be able to meet the payment if it tries to scrape together every dollar to prevent even the minutest leakage of foreign exchange. The governor of the bank, Emmanuel Isouderos, is reported to have resigned.

Nobody seems to know what the real intentions of King George are. He consented to Gen. Metaxas' dictatorship under the double pressure of impending labor trouble and parliament's decision to overthrow the cabinet, but he has not given approval to the dictatorial plans and Fascist ideas of Gen. Metaxas. It is also reported that he warned Gen. Metaxas against appointing too many cabinet undersecretaries from among his own friends.

WOMAN OFFICIAL SHORT $128,925, AUDIT REVEALS

Aberdeen, S. D., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Absence from her office led to discovery of shortages in the funds of Aberdeen's woman city treasurer, State's Attorney Frank L. Sieh said today as he continued a check of the records.

Meanwhile Mrs. Marie Brown, a divorcee, was under guard in a hospital, charged with embezzlement and awaiting action by the Circuit court. She waived examination at a preliminary hearing at which she was accused of embezzling $79,158 in nine years.

Mrs. Brown, ill from high blood pressure and failing eye sight, has made a written confession, to State's Attorney Sieh and City Attorney Frank Noll, but the officials added that she "couldn't or wouldn't tell" what she had done with the money.

In addition to the shortage of $79,156 in city cash, Sieh said an audit had revealed a shortage of $49,769 in the Aberdeen independent school district fund, of which Mrs. Brown also was treasurer.

PRIMARY BALLOT BECLOUDS VOTE IN WASHINGTON

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 8.—(AP)—A multiplicity of issues and a record number of candidates confronted Washington voters today as they considered choices to be made Tuesday on a type of primary ballot they never have used before.

The gubernatorial race presented a more varied picture. Issues such as the Seattle Post-Intelligencer newsroom strike, the Townsend pension plan, the Washington Commonwealth federation's "production for use" program, and a split between old line Democrats and a liberal element afforded talking points.

For the first time the voters may skip from Democratic to Republican candidates and back, if they choose.

NEW DEAL'S COST IS MAIN ISSUE IN GEORGIA VOTING

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Georgia, the state President Roosevelt calls his "other home," will decide in a Democratic primary Wednesday between anti-New Deal Gov. Eugene Talmadge and pro-New Dealer Richard B. Russell Jr., for its junior United States senator.

A governor and half a dozen statehouse offices are to be nominated, but the senatorial campaign in which the national administration is the major issue overshadows the other races. Nomination in the primary is tantamount to election.

Talmadge is running on a 10-point platform including reduction of the federal budget to $1,000,000,000 annually, opposition to social security legislation and repeal of federal income taxes, with this power to be delegated to the states.

HOLD SUNDAY COURT TO CLEAR CROWDED CELLS

A few of the prisoners at East Chicago avenue court promising Judge Justin F. McCarthy to "behave" over Labor day. They were all released. Judge McCarthy gave up a two day holiday in order to hold court in four districts when the ordinary Saturday night arrests more than filled the available cell space. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

45 SOBER GENTS GIVE COURT A SOLEMN PROMISE

Kind Judge Lets 'Em Out for Holiday.

Judge Justin F. McCarthy of the Municipal court faced a motely crowd of men yesterday. Their mass appearance indicated it was no new experience for them to be facing a judge for drunkeness.

Judge McCarthy had given up a two day holiday in order to hold court in four districts where the ordinary Saturday night arrests more than fill the available cell space. It was his idea to release those offenders whom he considered punished sufficiently by a night in a police cell, so they would not have to wait until Tuesday for trial. There being no other courts in operation Labor day he will do the same again today.

"All Sober Today?"

Forty-five men were brought up from the cell rooms of the Chicago avenue station when Judge McCarthy arrived there at 2 p. m. They were culled out by Lieut. Patrick Connors from the ninety prisoners on hand.

"Are you all sober today?" asked Judge McCarthy.

Many of the prisoners probably had not been actually sober in months, perhaps years, but all answered "yes" or held up their hands.

"Some of your faces seem familiar," said the judge, adding that he had been sitting in that court for some months past. "You may be repeaters but I believe none of you is really bad. The harm you do is to yourselves. Your biggest fault is that you drink too much.

They Give Their Promises.

"I believe your word is still good and if you will give me your promise you will not imbibe too much today and tomorrow I will release you. How many will give me their promises?"

The right hand of every prisoner went up. They were warned they had better not be among those present Tuesday morning, and then Judge McCarthy went to the Racine avenue station, where there was a similar scene.

CIVIC LEADERS TO MAP TRIBUTE TO CONSTITUTION

Final arrangements for Chicago's Constitution day observance to be held Sept. 17 in the Chicago Stadium will be drawn at a luncheon Wednesday of more than 300 civic leaders in the Palmer house, Julius H. Miner, executive director of the event, announced yesterday.

Speakers at the observance, designed to pay homage to the makers of the constitution and to inspire true Americanism, will be United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan and Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood. Homer Guck will preside, while Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will introduce the speakers.

Rehersals will start tomorrow on the series of tableaux of patriotic events which are to be presented in the Stadium. More than 100 actors, singers, and entertainers will participate in the spectacles.

Insures for $1,000 Against Twins and Gets One Son

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Taking precautions against the chances of his wife's bearing twins cost Sylvan L. Orenstein $46.53 when the Orenstein household was blessed today with the arrival of an eight pound son. Because of the prevalency of double births in his family, Orenstein took out a policy whereby he was to receive $1,000 in case his wife bore twins. The Orenstein's are out a premium payment but say their blue-eyed new addition is worth the insurance they might have won.

Atlantic City Attracts 600,000 Sunday Crowd

500,000 at Asbury Park.

Asbury Park, N. J., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—A crowd of 500,000 persons thronged the boardwalk today, climaxing a banner season here. City Manager Milford G. Farley, who made the estimate, said that the influx was the greatest for a Labor day week-end since 1929.

Gov. Horner and Brooks at Purple Heart Banquet

Wayland Brooks and his Democratic opponent for the governorship, Henry Horner, met last night for the first time since the start of the governorship campaign when both appeared as guest speakers at a banquet of the Military Order of the Purple Heart at the Hotel La Salle. In an amiable encounter before the banquet began, Gov. Horner saluted his rival as "Candidate Brooks." Their discussion of their campaign swings was interrupted by Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey, another speaker, who said:

Horner Applauds Brooks.

Both Brooks and Gov. Horner made friendly references to their contest from the speakers' platform and the governor remarked loudly, "Wonderful, wonderful" at the conclusion of his opponent's brief address.

Brooks was decorated with the Order of the Purple Heart, which is awarded for combat wounds and citations.

Serving in the 6th Marine regiment in France, Brooks was wounded seven times and decorated with the Distinguished Service cross and other awards for valor.

Horner Praises Veteran.

The cause of peace can most safely be entrusted to war veterans, said Gov. Horner in his address. "In less happy nations where organizations of war veterans are eyed askance and military organizations are sources of trouble, we of this nation view our soldiers' organizations as guarantors of our peace and liberties," he declared.

Brooks declared "there is less democracy today than at the close of the World war" and appealed for the continuation of American standards.

"In the last war," Brooks asserted, "we found the men of the enemy were the same sort as ourselves except that they fought for governments in which men ruled as autocrats. From that lesson we should devote ourselves to the continuation of personal liberty."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Hops, a New Crop.

Sept. 6, 1936.

WALLS of hops now hang on the trellises at the Tribune's Wheaton Experimental farm, indicating that this crop can be grown successfully for commercial purposes, providing producers can find brewers who will buy the cones at a fair price. The hop yard was established last year for exhibition purposes. The vines have produced such a heavy crop of cones this year that farm workers have decided to harvest them if they mature before frost. This may prove to be another profitable crop for northern Illinois farmers.

The small plot of hops now growing in test field A at the farm was started in the spring of 1935 from crown roots grown in the Yakima valley in southern Washington, a region of scanty rainfall where irrigation is necessary. Some of the roots failed to grow, leaving several missing hills. All that did produce plants the first year lived over winter in good shape and sent up thrifty vines again last spring. At that time new root crowns were set in the vacant spots. Practically all of them lived and produced strong vines.

Stand the Heat Well.

Despite the dry summer, the hops have grown better this year than last. The vines were trained on trellises about 8 feet high. The trellises now look like a solid mass of vines. While it is difficult to determine accurately the length of the individual vines or the number of hop cones per vine, the caretakers say they are sure many of the vines are 20 feet long and contain as many as 1,000 cones. By actual count, one of the smaller vines had 309 cones.

When the hops are mature they will be picked from the vines and cured. Freshly picked hops are said to contain 65 to 75 per cent moisture and must be dried or cured before they can be safely stored. It is unsafe to store them when they contain more than 10 to 14 per cent moisture.

Where hops are grown commercially they usually are cured by some means of artificial heat. The men at the Wheaton farm think they can successfully cure the small quantity they will have by spreading the cones about three inches deep in a barn loft or shed and stirring them thoroughly about every two days until dry.

Date Back to 1808.

Hops have been grown in America since 1808, when James D. Cooledge set out some of the roots on his farm in Madison county, New York. The crop gradually expanded in that state until it reached a peak of 38,000 acres in 1879. During the half century from 1880 to 1930 the hop industry in New York dwindled to practically nothing, but it is being revived.

Authorities say the hop plant can be grown generally throughout the United States. Hop growing was once a thriving industry in many states, but it is now largely restricted to certain localities in the Pacific coast, where soil and climatic conditions are especially favorable for production.

The hop acreage in this country has been greatly reduced during the last 20 years. High production costs and the uncertainty of the market during prohibition years are said to have caused many growers to abandon the crop.

SO. CHINA HALTS REBELLION; BOWS TO NANKING RULE

Dictator Is Author of Peace Agreement.

NANKING, China, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Chinese national government in a mandate tonight declared the recalcitrant southern provinces of Kwangtung and Kwangsi have agreed to recognize the Nationalist authority vested in Nanking.

For more than three months the rebellion of the two provinces has threatened to plunge all of China into civil war.

The settlement, as reported here, concerned chiefly Kwangsi province, which continued its move for independence from Nanking central government authority after the leaders in the adjoining province of Kwangtung accepted Nanking's overlordship.

General Retain High Positions.

The agreement apparently was a compromise under which Gen. Li Chung-Jen, first in command of Kwangsi forces, and Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi, second in command, will continue in positions of high authority within the province, but will recognize Nanking leaders as China's national government.

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, generalissimo of the Nanking central government, was regarded as the author of the final agreement.

He has been in Canton, capital of Kwangtung province, for the past month carrying on negotiations and valiantly refusing to resort to war despite Kwangsi's repeated military thrusts against Nanking.

Final demands from Kwangsi before the agreement was revealed included war against Japan as one of the principal items of settlement. From the start of the Kwangsi-Kwangtung attempt to overthrow Nanking authority, anti-Japanese threats formed a keynote of action.

Fear Action of Army.

HONGKONG, China, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Official announcement tonight of the settlement of bitter differences between the Nanking central government and the southern provinces of Kwangsi and Kwangtung did not disclose whether the accord included disposal of the famed 19th route army, which defended Shanghai against the Japanese in 1932. Many feared the army might adopt an independent attitude, using anti-Japanese slogans. It still occupies southern Kwangtung, where it apparently intends to remain.

Some informed quarters believed the final settlement was hastened by the Chengtu, Szechwan province, incident in which a Chinese mob killed two Japanese visitors recently. The Japanese government from Tokio has demanded assurances from the Chinese government against other such occurances.

JUGO-SLAV MILITARY REVIEW HELD TO MARK KING'S 13TH BIRTHDAY

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Improvements in the equipment and organization of the Jugo-Slav army were revealed tonight in an impressive military parade in observance of King Peter's 13th birthday.

It was disclosed that Jugo-Slavia had established an Alpine regiment with special equipment for mountain fighting, and many tanks and light and heavy artillery were reviewed by Prince Paul, regent of the kingdom.

King Peter remained at Bled and attended church with his mother. Prayers for the king were said at services throughout the nation and in legations abroad.

HOW TAXATION RETARDS PROGRESS

In 1890 only five cents of the income dollar was taken for all government expenses, Federal, State and local.

America had the least government and least government expenses of any country in the world!

The large amount of savings thus left with the people for new enterprise accounts for 18 great new industries, such as rayon, radio, electric refrigeration, developed since 1890, employing today nine million wage-earners.

In no other country was a single great new industry created and developed during this same period. Too much went for government overhead.

By 1929 the five cents for our government expenses in the United States had grown to 16 cents.

In 1935, 35 cents out of each income dollar was spent by political agencies. Business—labor and management—should be alarmed lest America become government-ridden and the greater toll of taxation prevent opportunity for new industries in the future.

Labor—today is your day!

More than ever before in the crowded history of America, the working man and the business man face a common peril today.

That peril threatens to reduce the output of the nation's factories by forcing prices so high that fewer people can buy.

It threatens to stifle the growth of new businesses and the expansion of old ones, by which new jobs are opened up.

It threatens to reduce pay rolls by decreasing production.

It threatens to reduce the buying power of the workman's dollar by boosting his cost of living.

That common peril is Taxation.

Taxes put an invisible man on every pay roll

Each of the 40,000 employes (including plantation workers) of a large tire and rubber company received an average of $1,089 in wages last year. But his invisible competitor—the tax collector—was at the pay roll window just ahead of him and took $453 as his share for each man in the line.

The story varies but is always the same. In the power and light industry, and in the oil companies, the cashier, as he counts out one dollar to the wage-earner, gives another dollar to this invisible competitor.

As the worker leaves the pay window and climbs into his automobile, the tax man gets in beside him. When he stops at the gas station, the tax man collects his toll — a cool billion dollars in gas taxes last year. When he calls at the grocer's and the baker's; when his wife turns on the kitchen gas and the electric lights; when he meets the landlord at the front door, and the milk man at the back—his competitor is there demanding a further cut in the pay-envelope.

Even with those workers who are out of jobs, the tax man competes. How? The taxes paid by the steel industry in 1935, for instance, would employ 57,300 additional workers for a full year at full pay.

Higher taxation isn't simply the worry of business, for business is only the conduit through which taxes flow from the taxpayer—who is the consumer and the wage-earner—to the taxing power.

It's the worry—and the peril—of every American who sees that taxes are postponing the return of the good old days when labor demand exceeded supply—and every town and city enjoyed a bull market for wage-earners.

Labor, today is your day! But let's all think about tomorrow.

DE FOREST SEES PRINTED PAGE ON AIR WAVES SOON

'Father of Radio' Speaks at 'Hams' Conclave.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Transmission of facsimiles of newspaper columns, telegrams, and even private business correspondence at speeds that are fantastic compared to present telegraphic transmission will be realized within two or three years. This prediction was made yesterday by Dr. Lee De Forest, "the father of radio," in an interview prior to his appearance before the annual convention of the American Radio Relay league's central division in the Hotel Sherman.

Addressing the amateurs' gathering last night Dr. De Forest revealed that preliminary experiments which led to his invention of the three grid radio tube were conducted by him as an amateur at Armour institute on the south side in 1900. Thus Chicago may properly be called the birthplace of modern radio. Dr. De Forest was awarded A. R. R. L.'s gold medal for his contributions to radio last night.

Dr. De Forest flew here yesterday from Los Angeles where he is now engaged in television, facsimile and short wave therapy development of radio. His facsimile apparatus will be capable of transmitting columns of news matter 2½ inches wide, handling 2,000 to 4,000 words per hour, Dr. De Forest declared. Within a few years it will be possible to handle in two or three minutes what now requires an hour. Facsimile transmission will be by "wired radio." It will be done inexpensively, probably at less than one tenth of the present cost of telegraphic transmission, according to Dr. De Forest.

Television, Dr. De Forest estimated, will be ready for home use in a couple of years with receivers costing around $250. Motion pictures will be used, in the main, as material for transmission.

Dr. De Forest was interviewed over the Columbia network last night by E. K. Cohan, technical chief of the network and an oldtime radio amateur who is here for the convention.

Other features of the convention yesterday included an illustrated talk on radio in aviation by Fritz Franke of American Airlines. Franke told the "hams" that the development of high speed transport systems would have been utterly impossible without the use of the radio beam which makes possible blind flying.

Among the amateurs from distant lands introduced yesterday were Alfred Kerr of Australia, Signor Levi of Ecuador, and G. A. Van Bovene of Batavia, Java, who reported on amateur activities in their home countries.

The convention will continue today.

WONDER SHOW OPENS

Braving the peril of being run down by a horse and buggy parade, 3,500 citizens made their way last night to the Chicago Opera house to join in community singing at the opening of the W-G-N-Mutual network's "Wonder Show," and to tingle to that spine chiller of the Sepoy rebellion, "The Relief of Lucknow," presented on this program.

Theatrical and civic notables, attired in the resplendent regalia of the elegant '80s, arrived in horse drawn carriages giving an extra flourish to the radio extravaganza which was in the nature of a homecoming celebration for Chicago's young Orson Welles, described as an American Noel Coward in the making.

Young Mr. Welles, a former leading man for Katharine Cornell, conceived, adapted, and directed the all-Negro presentation of "Macbeth" here, and triples as author, actor, and director of "Horse Eats Hat," a farce soon to open on Broadway. And as the Great McCoy Welles pilots the Wonder Show. Last night he also played Nana Sahib, the villainous and rebellious rajah of Bithdoor.

Welles' henchmen from New York—Ned Wever, Jeannette Nolan, and John McIntyre—gave him good support, but the relief of Lucknow would never have been accomplished without the valliant efforts of a crew of Chicago's best known radio actors—Cornelia Osgood, Sidney Breese, Sunda Love and little Frank Pacelli.

The Wonder Show, doing a six weeks' stand here, will present next Sunday that old reliable tear jerker, "East Lynne."

Thos. A. Newnham Dies; Waukegan Ticket Agent

Thomas A. Newnham, 70 years old, ticket agent for the North Western railway at Waukegan for 42 years, died yesterday in his home at 508 North County street, Waukegan. LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Public Service

LORD MOYNIHAN, "MERCY DEATHS" DOCTOR, IS DEAD

Killed By Grief Over Wife's Passing

LEEDS, England, Sept. 7 [Monday]. —(AP)—Lord Moynihan, 70, prominent British medical authority who proposed legislation for legalization of mercy deaths, died today.

Baron Berkley George Andrew Moynihan died six days after his wife, Isabella, whom he married in 1895. He collapsed from grief a day after her funeral and became steadily worse.

His son and two daughters were called to his bedside when his condition became critical.

Lord Moynihan drew fire from Catholic groups last year when he advanced a plan to make legal the killing of "persons suffering from incurable disease."

He organized the "Voluntary Euthanasia society" after a British doctor was reported to have admitted five "mercy slayings." He became president of the organization.

In Heated Controversy.

The noted surgeon figured in a heated controversy following a speech in 1929 when he declared bombs carrying plague bacilli were dropped by Germans on British troops in France in 1916.

The German ambassador to London denied the charge but Lord Moynihan refused to retract his statement.

He was made first lord of Leeds in 1929 by King George V. The baron had been honored by medical societies in France, Serbia, and the United States.

Served in World War.

He served as senior consulting surgeon of the royal medical corps during the war and aided military medicine in the United States army in 1917.

He was chairman of the British medical advisory board.

SPREAD FIRE NET AS INSANE FATHER THREATENS BABY

New York, Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Firemen spread a net in the street in front of a Brooklyn tenement house late tonight as a dramatic precaution to save the life of a 2 year old child threatened by her insane father.

In a fit of madness, Robert Hynes, 36, who lives on the fourth floor, had driven his wife and 6 year old son from the house, threatening to kill them with a hammer. Later Hynes was seen swaying from a front window with the younger child in his arms, shouting that he was going to throw her to the pavement.

Some one turned in a fire alarm and while the firemen spread the net, four patrolmen tiptoed into the flat. They pulled Hynes from the window and grabbed the child.

Hynes fought fiercely and the patrolmen grappled with him for twenty minutes before he was subdued. They put him in a strait-jacket and he was taken to Kings County hospital where records showed that he had been released about two weeks ago. The family is on relief.

Miss Badgerow Is Betrothed to New Yorker

Polly Whipple Is Engaged to Pittsburgh Man.

BY JUDITH CASS.

SEVERAL interesting engagements were announced in the past two days. Yesterday at a tea given in their Winnetka home, Mr. and Mrs. Harve G. Badgerow announced the engagement of their daughter, Susan, to Winston Lewis May Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Winston Lewis May of New York City. The announcement came as a great surprise to most of the young people who gathered in the Badgerows' hospitable drawing room between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock, for not many of Miss Badgerow's friends had suspected her romance with the young easterner.

Mr. May and his parents were present yesterday, so the party was made triply gay, since the Badgerows' friends were able to congratulate the young man and to meet Mr. and Mrs. May Sr. After their wedding next June Mr. May will take his bride to New York to make their home.

Miss Badgerow was educated at Miss Wright's school in Bryn Mawr and at Mlle. Le Bouchere's in Paris, France, and in Switzerland. She was presented to society in the season of 1932-'33 and, like her elder sister, Mrs. Scott J. Dow Jr. [Louise Badgerow], she became a member of the Service club and of the Chicago Junior league.

Mr. May attended the Pawling school and was graduated from Williams college in 1933. He is a member of the Alpha Delta Phi and of the Williams club of New York.

Polly Whipple Engaged to Wed Pittsburgher.

At a luncheon Saturday in their residence at 4849 Kenwood avenue Mr. and Mrs. Charles John Whipple announced the engagement of their daughter, Polly, to John William Todd Jr. of Pittsburgh, Pa. Several of Miss Whipple's friends came from out of town for the announcement party, and many of the family's friends had the opportunity of meeting and congratulating Mr. Todd, both at the Whipples' home in town and at their summer place in Barrington, for he is spending the long week-end here.

Miss Whipple attended Wells college, and Mr. Todd is a graduate of Cornell university. Among the guests at the luncheon Saturday were five of Miss Whipple's former classmates at Wells, Miss Katrine Charnley of Cleveland, Miss Mary Waddell of St. Paul, Miss Cynthia Morgan of Toledo, Miss Nancy Peek of East Aurora, N. Y., and Miss Jane Worthington of Pittsburgh.

Joan Cotter's Betrothal to W. H. Fogarty Jr. Told.

At a cocktail party yesterday afternoon in their Evanston residence Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edwin Cotter announced the engagement of their daughter, Joan, to William Henry Fogarty Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Fogarty of Evanston. About one hundred young people gathered to drink a toast to Mr. Fogarty and his bride-to-be.

Both Miss Cotter and her fiancé attended Northwestern university, where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma and he of Sigma Chi.

McDonough-O'Brien Wedding Party Named.

Miss Anne O'Brien and her fiancé, John Justin McDonough, will be returning late this evening from a gay Labor day house party in Lakeside, Mich., where they and a group of close friends are spending the week-end. Among the crowd are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fiske Cutter, Mr. and Mrs. Erret Van Nice, Mr. and Mrs. H. Ferris White, Mrs. Glendon T. Gerlach [Caroline McNair], and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Beall Smith of Boston.

Mr. Smith, who is a well-known portrait painter, had a one man exhibit here two summers ago. He and his wife, the former Winn Revere, have come west for the McDonough-O'Brien wedding, which will take place on Sept. 18. Mr. Smith will be one of Mr. McDonough's ushers. Mr. Cutter will be best man for Mr. McDonough, just as Mr. McDonough was best man for the former at his marriage to Miss Audrey McGrath in June last year. Next week's bridegroom was an usher last November at Mr. Van Nice's marriage to the former Ruth Swift in Boston, and the latter will serve as an usher on the 18th.

Mr. White, Frank S. Sims, and John and Hayes O'Brien, brothers of the bride, complete Mr. McDonough's list of attendants. Miss O'Brien will have only two attendants, her sisters,

Rides in Dunham Woods Show

Weather Man Aids Success of Horse Show

Early morning rain laid the dust and helped to contribute to the great success that the Dunham Woods Riding club's hose show, held at the club in Wayne yesterday, was. By the time the entries in the first of the nineteen classes rode into the ring at 10 o'clock the sun was shining, the sky was blue, and the rolling fields of Wayne were looking their greenest and most lush. And every one who came from a distance to see the show felt amply repaid for his trip, even before seeing the spirited horses and their expert riders.

The 2,100 who surrounded the ring at the peak of the show—mid-afternoon—came from near and far, for there were horse lovers not only from Wayne, but from its neighbors, St. Charles, Geneva, and Wheaton, and from places as far away as Barrington and Lake Forest.

Again Miss Betty Morton, sub-deb daughter of the Joy Mortons, proved that she is a horsewoman of the first class, for she carried home to her parents' home in Geneva several ribbons to add to the already large collection that this family has.

She and her father and mother won the blue ribbon in the family class and she and her father, who was chairman of the horse show committee, were first in the parent and child class. Miss Morton was first in the three gaited pleasure horse class, in which there were thirty-nine entries, the largest class of the day.

A red ribbon fell to this young lady's lot in the class for pairs of three-gaited saddle horses and in the five-gaited horses Miss Morton, riding Rotarian, one of the Mills' horses, was awarded the blue ribbon. Another blue ribbon was hers in the ladies' five-gaited saddle horses.

The little town of Geneva carried away all the honors in the family class, for Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis and their children, Scott and Beth, were second and Mr. and Mrs. Edward McDougal and their son, Edward III., were third. Beth, who is only about 10 years old, was second in the three-gaited pleasure horses, and Billy Reichmann of Barrington was third. A red ribbon was given to Beth in the seat and hands for children under 13; Margery Lloyd of Winnetka on Fancy Rex was first in this class.

Miss Elizabeth Crawford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Crawford of Golf, won several ribbons, too; a blue one in the ladies' three gaited saddle horses and a ribbon of the same color in the pairs of three-gaited saddle horses.

Mrs. Louis F. Swift Jr., who as Libby Chase collected ribbons by the dozen, was first in the adult seat and hands, and Bradford Ripley, riding one of Mrs. Robert R. McCormick's horses, was second in this class.

Gold Standard, ridden by W. P. Rogovsky of West Chicago, was the blue ribbon winner among the three-gaited saddle horses, and Miss Crawford was second. Nathan McClure and his son, Nathan Jr., took home to Geneva a red ribbon in the parent and child class.

Walter B. Smith and Grace Ryan Wed in New York

The marriage of Miss Grace Mary Ryan to Walter Byron Smith of Lake Forest on Saturday in the rectory of St. Patrick's cathedral in New York was announced yesterday by the bride's mother, Mrs. Terence A. Ryan. Mrs. Ryan, who lives at 1322 East 53d street in Chicago, sent the announcement from New York. The ceremony was held there so that Mr. Smith's daughter, Mrs. Alfred McCormack, and her husband, who live in New York, could attend.

The couple left on a month's motor tour of the east and will return to live at Mr. Smith's home at 1175 North Lake road, Lake Forest.

Mr. Smith is a director of the Northern Trust company. Miss Ryan for several years has been the financial secretary to Miss Kate Buckingham and through this position became closely associated with Mr. Smith in the management of Miss Buckingham's business affairs.

Good Morning!

No picture featuring Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire—with Helen Broderick and Victor Moore in the same cast!—could be "bad." Just the same, "Swing Time" was a disappointment to me—and it's no fun to be disappointed when you're just back from a vacation and haven't seen a movie in three weeks.

The plot is completely silly, for which the film, being a musical comedy could be forgiven, had the story continuity. But the yarn, notably during the first reels, is presented in jerky and confusing fashion. Then, while there are plenty of Jerome Kern tunes—they're not especially tuneful. "A Fine Romance" probably will prove to be the most popular of them.

O, well, the dancing's swell and so is the acting. There's some comedy that gets across and the production is lavishly and effectively mounted.

The tale concerns a young dancing man [Fred Astaire] who, while engaged to one girl [Betty Furness] falls in love with his dancing partner [Ginger Rogers]. Idea is—to get out of marrying Betty in order that he may become Ginger's only-only. . . .

Action is fast, nutty, and complicated.

Hope you care for "Swing Time." I can be wrong.

Loretta Young Sails; in Tiff with Studio

Revives Report That She Will Wed Director.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Loretta Young was en route to Hawaii today, reportedly in a huff with her studio.

At San Francisco, where she boarded the Malolo for Honolulu, Miss Young denied she was running away from a rôle in the forthcoming Twentieth Century-Fox film, "Lloyds of London," saying she never intended to take a part in the production. Studio officials here, on the other hand, said they expect the actress back in time to play a part in the picture.

Miss Young's sudden departure quickened rumors that she may marry Eddie Sutherland, director. Sutherland leaves within the next ten days to direct a Bing Crosby picture on the islands.

Although only 3 years old, Patsy Lee Parsons, a newcomer to the films, was able to sign the court document which approved her contract with Lou Irvin, Inc. The child actress is to receive $135 to $900 a week over a five year period. The court at the same time approved the contract of Barbara Read, 18, film juvenile, who will receive $75 to $750 a week from F. A. Datig, theatrical agent.

Naomi Schaub, former Ziegfeld follies star and stage and screen actress, last night became the bride of Robert C. Dean, local construction engineer, in a quiet ceremony here.

Although she has been in Hollywood only a few weeks, Polly Rowles, a recent film find from Pittsburgh society, is reported to be one-half of a new screen colony romance. The other half is Walter Coy, University of Washington football star. The two have been signed as romantic leads in a Universal picture recently.

Director Ross Lederman was introducing members of his cast of "Come Closer, Folks," at Columbia studio. As John Gallaudet was brought over, the actor bowed to Wynne Gibson, the feminine star, and smiled.

"You two should know each other," the director said. Miss Gibson half laughed and Lederman blushed. "O, you've met before?" he inquired.

"Rather," said Miss Gibson.

"Yes," Gallaudet agreed, "you know, we used to be married."

Gallaudet, a New York stage actor, has been in Hollywood only six months.

Mary Nash, who is moving into a home here with her sister Florence, equally well known on the stage, has postponed her retirement to play in the Edna Ferber story "Come and Get It" for Producer Sam Goldwyn.

Two stunt men, Cliff Lyons and Bob Rose, had to smack two 1920 flivvers in a head-on collision for a scene in "Love Under Fire" at United Artists. Neither was hurt.

The makeup man at Fox studio confided that the wig for Tom Pogue to wear as Benjamin Franklin, with Pogue's facial makeup in "Lloyd's of London," was copied from a one cent green postage stamp photographically enlarged.

Gene Pallette's hotel on Hollywood boulevard permits him to do his own cooking in his apartment. The actor recently was host to the technical crew of his latest film, "Right in Your Lap." He served tamales which he prepared himself.

While waiting for Dolores Del Rio to recover from her illness and resume production as his leading woman, Richard Dix is in seclusion due to the necessity for letting his hair remain long.

Paramount has traded the services of Lynne Overman, adult comic of the hard guy type, for Carl "Alfalfa" Switzer, freckled child actor. Overman was wanted to play with Patsy Kelly and Lyda Roberti at Roach's and Paramount needed the juvenile player for "Right in Your Lap."

Metro studio sent John Hildreth of its sound department on a tour of the country investigating the releasing of "Romeo and Juliet." The studio wants all sound equipment in perfect order before permitting any theater to show the "superspecial."

Front Views and Profiles
By June Provines

WHEN a city editor told a new reporter to put more color into his stuff, the lad, writing a description of a man he had interviewed, wrote, Adjectives—Clock winder—Affair.

"Albescent cuffs, cineritious suit, dædal tie, niveous cuffs and collar. . . ." All in the dictionary, if you'll take the trouble to look.

IN a world where all is change—and we are thinking of moving ourself in a few weeks—it is comforting to know that Herman Stenbeck is still going his rounds, winding the clocks of patrons, some of whom he has been serving in that capacity for a quarter of a century. A neat, gray haired little man, carrying a little satchel, he is seen going into the apartment building at 6 Scott street to wind and oil the big clock in Miss Margaret Conover's apartment. He goes to Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler's home on Astor street to wind and oil her fine old English cuckoo clock which has springs instead of weights, and the lantern clock designed with only one hand—the hour hand. He goes to the home of Mrs. Wheeler's sister, Mrs. William Waller, to wind the clocks, to St. Chrysostom's, to the Mervin Pooles, to the John T. Llewellyns, to the D. M. Deiningers, and other homes on the near north side on Mondays.

Mr. Stenbeck keeps a list of his patrons, and when it is time for a particular clock on his list to have attention, he shows up, his little bag in hand, containing oil and brushes, chamois, screw drivers, and pliers, and a little light he uses when he looks inside grandfather clocks.

One of the fine clocks he kept wound and in repair for years was the great nine tube hall clock with Westminster chimes that belonged to the late Dr. Frank Billings at 1550 State parkway. Another clock he likes to tinker with is an antique French mantel clock that is sent to him from Iowa whenever it needs attention. Its face is inlaid with porcelain and a gilt eagle's nest surmounts the clock. Mr. Stenbeck made a key for this timepiece and put the initials of the owner in the key.

* *

BORN in Sweden, Mr. Stenbeck learned his trade there. He was with Graves, the jeweler's establishment formerly at Madison and Wabash for twenty-six years. Now he has his workshop and his office at his home on Bernard street. He has built two clocks, making even the hands and the numerals himself. One is a windmill clock, with a synchronized movement that moves the wings. His hobbies are Swedish gymnastics, which he formerly taught, and gardening, and his garden, which has a sun dial and a watermill of his own invention, is ablaze with roses and phlox and cosmos now. In the spring it is a triumph of planting, with iris and tulips in confusion. Mr. Stenbeck likes clocks and flowers. They both need the right kind of care and respond gratefully to it, he says.

A TELEPHONE rang in the city room, and a woman's voice, low and intimate, came over the wire.

"I'm having an affair at the Sherman house," she said. "I'd like to get a little publicity. . . ." It turned out she wanted to talk to the club editor.

Women Close Their Symphony Series in Park

Rosalinda Morini, Ginsburgh Are Soloists.

The Woman's Symphony orchestra made its final contribution last night to the 1936 Grant park concert series, playing a program that offered a movement of the Schubert Unfinished Symphony and a miscellany of smaller things. Gladys Welge conducted.

Two soloists added to the interest of the evening. Rosalinda Morini sang Mozart's "Il Re Pastore," and demonstrated in its performance the beauty and delicacy of her pianissimo. The vocal arrangement of the Liszt Second Hungarian Rhapsody, which followed, turned out to be a terrifically difficult tour de force that left much to be desired as far as perfection of balance between voice and orchestra is concerned.

Ralph Ginsburgh, solo violinist and leader of the famous Palmer House ensemble, brightened the Sarasate Gypsy Airs with his skilled and sensitive playing. His second offering was the "Gypsy Love Song" of Victor Herbert.

Although the Woman's orchestra will not appear as a unit in Grant park again this year, its musicians are to be part of the super-orchestra of 300 pieces scheduled for a gala post-season concert next Sunday under Frederick Stock's direction.

The regular series ends today with afternoon and evening programs by the Armin Hand and George Dasch bands, respectively.—E. B.

Move to Sell Movie Folk Sites on Which Malibu Homes Stand

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Hollywood film folk and others who own homes along Malibu beach, but not the land on which they are built, soon may be given opportunity to purchase the property.

Under a plan to be submitted to United States District Judge Yankwich by T. R. Cadwalader, trustee of the Marblehead Land company, owner of the beach frontage on which a fashionable film colony has grown, house owners would be given opportunity to extend their short term leases or purchase the land. The company is in process of reorganization under the federal bankruptcy act.

Under the plan to be reviewed Sept. 14 by Judge Yankwich leaseholders whose contracts expire in December would be permitted to purchase the property at $225 per front foot. Leaseholders also could renew their present leases for three years with an option to purchase during 1937 at $275 per front foot.

Among those whose leases expire Sept. 30 are Constance and Joan Bennett, Clara Bow, Alice Joyce, Corinne Griffith, Anna Q. Nilsson, Estelle Taylor, and Frank Fay.

SYNOPSIS.

Shortly after the world war, Roger Mallard, handsome young Englishman, is embittered by the loss of hearing in one ear from a war injury. Mal has been raised by his godfather, William Grimwold, an actor. At a New Year's eve party Mal meets lovely young Pamella Wyeth, though he forgets her on meeting Zelda Manners, whom he marries a month later. The marriage ends disastrously. In a rage at his failure to make a living on the stage, Zelda flings a mirror at Mal and unknowingly destroys the hearing in his other ear. Fourteen years later Mal, under Grimmy's tutelage, has become a great success in pictures, hiding his affliction from his public. Zelda has refused him a divorce. Pamella Wyeth has a home in Pasadena. David Barkley, son of an old friend, boards with her. David invites Ellen Greet, young law stenographer, to a New Year's eve party at the hotel where Mallard lives and asks Pamella along as chaperon. Mal is mourning the sudden death of Grimmy. David, as a joke, has a boy page Ellen with a message that Roger Mallard wants to meet her. Mal, skilful at lip reading, is sitting at the next table. Attracted by Pamella, Mal introduces himself and asks to join their party. Mal takes Pam home, where he drops on her couch unconscious. Pamella calls Dr. Ware. He says Mal has collapsed from shock and worry. Mal's business friends arrange to have him stay at Pamella's to recuperate. David is jealous of Ellen's interest in Mal, though Mal is only interested in Pamella. Mal leaves Pam's home, fearing harm to her reputation. Zelda plans with her so-called cousin, Alfred Chetwyn, to blackmail Mal.

INSTALMENT XXXVII.
A DIVORCE WANTED.

The following Monday morning started off at the office, so Ellen thought, completely haywire. It began with a letter from her father waiting for her in the firm's mail.

"What's all this talk about a movie actor?" Mr. John Charles Greet wrote in his vigorous way. "I didn't get you a job with Gordon Geddes to have you fall for a picture fellow with an eye cocked on your rapidly dwindling inheritance. Why didn't you take up with some kid who thinks you're nothing but a poor stenographer? I leave by plane tomorrow for the coast to attend to business, part of which is concerned with you, my dear young lady. . . ."

Ellen was still frowning over this when Mr. Geddes' buzzer summoned her to his private office. He sat barricaded behind an imposing desk littered with wire cages containing legal papers, among which a framed photograph of his wife introduced a touch of sentiment.

He looked up at his secretary.

"Good morning, Ellen. You seem disturbed."

"Capital! Capital! I'll be glad to see him. We must have some golf. I shall give him an excellent report of you, Ellen."

"Thank you," she said without enthusiasm.

"I've a busy morning," Mr. Geddes dropped the tone of old friend for that of the disinterested employer. "Miss Waterbury made a number of appointments while you were away Saturday, one of which does not appeal to me. Domestic difficulties, I should judge. A woman by the name of Mrs. Roger Mallard."

"What?" cried Ellen.

"Preliminary move for a divorce, I take it, by a Mrs. Roger Mallard," Mr. Geddes repeated.

Ellen dropped down with a plop in her chair slightly to the right and back of Mr. Geddes. Her mouth hung open just a little; her eyes stared at him.

"She'll be here any moment now—9:30 was the time, I believe. Do you know anything about this husband of hers, Ellen. I'm not a movie fan, but I've seen Mallard's last picture——"

"He's considered one of the—the greatest," said Ellen very low.

"That was my impression. New theater named for him recently. Very rich and famous, eh, Ellen? Getting married and divorced about every other year. Why they take the trouble to marry, is a mystery to me. At any rate, it's nothing I care to handle. But the relative who phoned for this woman was surprisingly insistent. I consented to talk to them."

Before Ellen, sunk in a vast confusion, could say anything, the door opened, and Miss Waterbury entered.

"Mrs. Roger Mallard and Mr. Alfred Chetwyn to see you, Mr. Geddes."

"Tell them to come in. Stay where you are, Ellen, and take careful notes of the interview. This may interest an ardent movie fan like you," he added dryly, and then turned to greet a woman and a man who were coming through the door.

Ellen kept her eyes lowered while she made a shaky note of the date and the name, and while a man's dry, cultivated voice said easily:

"Mr. Geddes? This is Mrs. Roger Mallard. My name's Chetwyn. I have acted in the capacity of Mrs. Mallard's guardian and business adviser since her girlhood."

"Ah! Won't you sit down. From London, I take it?"

"Yes. And you, too, Mr. Geddes?"

"Forty years ago. I'm a real Californian now. How long have you been in the state?"

"Mrs. Mallard has been here off and on for two years. I arrived shortly before the holidays."

Ellen at last looked up to find a pair of cold, gray eyes flicking over her with poorly concealed distaste. Definitely middle aged, he was a tall, painfully thin man faultlessly turned out in a gray morning suit. His close-cropped graying hair was slicked over his compact skull like a neatly fitting cap. His face was rather handsome, but the lines in it, deeply carved and too bitter, were all wrong, Ellen decided.

And this woman. . . . Ellen stole a look at her. She sat with an undeniable charming grace in her chair. She'd been slender once, but her figure was growing a little full so that there was a stateliness about it. This was contradicted by the petulant and uneasy discontent of her narrow face which looked too thin for her body. Ellen thought she had never seen a more perfect assortment of features, but somehow they, too, were all wrong. Perhaps it was the lines from the nostrils to the corners of the thin, darkly rouged lips, the slightly crafty droop of the long, narrow eyelids, or the dyed auburn hair which pointed up her age and hardened it. . . .

Her clothing, a black-brown frock over which she wore a superb coat that certainly looked to be sable, was too smart in that it added to the artificial effect she produced, as did the tiny hat tilted so low over her greenish eyes that she had to hold her head up haughtily to give a direct look. She was doing this now as she, too, bestowed on Ellen a glance of distaste.

Ellen dropped her eyes discreetly to her notebook, determined on making herself appear to be merely a part of the office furnishings. She hoped she didn't look pale and flustered.

Mr. Geddes leaned comfortably back in his desk chair.

"Mr. Geddes——" the woman said at last in a throaty voice which Ellen thought dreadfully stagy.

"Mrs. Mallard finds the matter she has to state extremely painful," Mr. Chetwyn offered with an exploratory laugh. "This is it in a nutshell. After years of very great unhappiness, she at last feels compelled to divorce her husband."

Mrs. Mallard titled back her head and looked at Mr. Geddes tragically from under her hat.

"My husband has been——"

"Do you mean," Mr. Geddes suggested, "that he's been mistreating you?"

"Yes. Cruel mental mistreatment. He refuses to see me."

"Ah. Then you are not living together?"

"No. He left me fourteen years ago, two years after our marriage. He declines to see me and talk with me. Keeps turning me over to his attorneys. Yet there have been no proved grounds for divorce—until lately."

"But you say—at least you implied—that he deserted you."

"Yes. By sending me away and refusing to let me come back. This did not constitute sufficient grounds for divorce in England."

"Did he fail to provide for you?"

"Well, no. Not exactly. During the two years we lived together he provided nothing. I endured the most wretched poverty for his sake. Then directly he got rid of me, he began to have a huge success in the cinema which eventually made a rich man of him. Instead of turning over my full share, he made me a negligible allowance."

GASOLINE ALLEY—NIGHT NOISES

Being Partial to One Child Harms Others

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"My second baby is so easy going and has such a sunshiny nature, but my older child always has been rather difficult to manage. The baby is a sociable little one, and everybody loves him."

This is an oft-told tale. Frequently the second baby is a winner of hearts, and parents do not realize the bad effect this may have on the first born.

There are various explanations of why the second baby often is a happier and more manageable infant. This baby's mother has profited by the raising of her first child. Her early anxieties have been replaced by a new confidence in herself and her ability to care for the child properly. This more easy-going attitude is reflected in the rearing of her second baby. He is freed from too much overseeing, and too much concern about a little food [more or less], a little sleep [more or less], etc.

But this does not account for every contrast between an older and a younger child. The difference between them may be a deep seated one of temperament. The older child may be more sensitive, more highly keyed, more thoughtful. He may have inherent qualities which make him a more difficult child with whom to deal. He may need more intelligent handling.

Be careful if your children present the problems described. The older one is apt to suffer if you're not.

This subject will be discussed tomorrow.

Cubes and Tile.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Much Cheering! Sports Hats Get Style, at Last

BY RHEA SEEGER.

For some reason, hat makers in the past treated sports hats like disagreeable stepchildren, no fussing and darn little sympathy and understanding, and the result, pluggy looking shapes and styles that did nothing for the dissatisfied but helpless owners. We just had to have simple hats for tweeds and sports clothes and after rushing around till we were dizzy and disgruntled with everything, we took the best of the lot and tried to forget the whole mess.

Finally, a man's hatter went into the business of shaping and styling some highly exciting new feminine sports hats. And even though we're still considerably shocked with the lavish selections possible, the grand new fuzzy textures, and [thank goodness] new crowns with plenty of dash and swagger, we're passing the information on to interested buyers while we try to catch our breath.

Young folk will hail the off-the-face models, hats that are just as gay and young as anything in town. The brims are wide and flare high up off the headline in front and are sliced down to a mere trifle at the back. Thus all hazards of coat collar interference have been banished for good. The fuzzy, cozy looking textures leave nothing to wish for. You'll like the heathery browns, the forest greens, and a stunning wine red, all of which go with tweed and wool as well as velveteen or corduroy.

This is the first time we've viewed a sports hat with a feather stuck in the thing, without squirming . . . they've done it this time with a fine air of swank, maybe because the crown is high, tilted rakishly and a fit mass in which to jab a feather. The green ones are honeys, with a curled pheasant feather slanting well into space.

The crowns still intrigue us . . . what a difference a crown does make! These new sports hats will have you in a state at first sight. Try the wickedly gleaming black velours, perfect affairs for the older face line. They're good enough looking to wear anywhere, so sleek and glistening is this thick rich velour, the deftly designed turned-down brim, the better than usual high crown, tucked and pulled into a most effective silhouette.

BY MARY MEADE.

A dive into the grab bag of different desserts brings us up beaming and holding high a blazing platter of crêpes Suzette flambé! See the echoing flame of delight in the eyes of the dinner guests as this burning beauty is placed before them!

Brandy or curacao will do it. Poured over the crêpes and ignited, either liquor will transform these dainty French pancakes, nice enough by themselves, into a gorgeous glowing dessert fit for any king, queen, or guest.

But burning crêpes Suzette should be reserved for occasions. For something a little less than an occasion the crêpes may be served with Suzette sauce, or they may be rolled around fruit and topped with a fruit sauce. Crêpes Suzette are nothing if not adaptable.

CREPES SUZETTE

1 cup cake flour
2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1½ cups milk
¼ teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon orange extract
1 tablespoon rum [may be omitted]

Sift the dry ingredients. Beat the eggs until very light and add the milk and flavorings. Add the liquid to the dry ingredients, beating with a rotary egg beater or a wire whisk until smooth. The batter will be quite thin. Drop it by large spoonfuls onto a hot, lightly oiled griddle or frying pan and fry rather slowly on one side. Turn carefully with a pancake turner and cook on the other side until golden brown. The crêpes should be very thin and about five inches in diameter. Dust them with confectioner's sugar, roll them or fold in halves and then in quarters, and serve at once with Suzette sauce. Two crêpes Suzettes to a serving usually are allowed.

CREPES SUZETTE SAUCE

½ cup butter
1¼ cups confectioner's sugar
Juice and grated rind of 1 orange

Cream the butter and sugar and blend the juice and rind with it.

A Suzette sauce with a little more elegance is made with the addition of brandy and curacao, and is served hot. It is called Suzette butter.

SUZETTE BUTTER

6 teaspoons sugar
Grated peel ½ orange
Grated peel ¼ lemon
¾ cup orange juice
1 tablespoon currant jelly [may be omitted]
3 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons curacao
1 tablespoon brandy

Mix the sugar and the grated orange and lemon peel. Add the orange juice and heat the mixture to boiling. Add the jelly and simmer the sauce for five minutes. Add the butter. Place the curacao and brandy in a small pan and cook over low heat until mixture is bubbling and slightly browned. Add the sauce. Serve immediately.

House Frock Smart for Fall

WOMAN'S HOUSE DRESS.

Every smartly attired homemaker desires fall house frocks which are designed distinctly for the autumn season and the winter months to follow. Now that the excessively warm weather is a thing of the past, home dresses may take on decidedly tailored effects and be created in dark fabrics. Such frocks are appropriate for household tasks, hostessing, and informal occasions in the afternoon. The dress illustrated today is designed especially for the rather heavy silhouette. The skirt seaming minimizes breadth through the hips, and the cleverly cut bodice, with tab closing, is slenderizing to shoulders and bust.

This dress is exceedingly easy to make. The attractive sleeves are cut in one with the shoulder line, and the effectively tailored trimmings are simple to make. The original of this model is created in wine and white percale, with the tab closing and neat collar in white piqué. The apron is a smart accessory, matching the frock in fabric. It is delightfully easy to make, since it is cut in only two major sections.

If you prefer some of the attractive rayon novelty fabrics to the sturdy cottons, this dress style is suitable for those, too. Dark shades should be the rule, however, for both practicality and chic.

Style No. 2962 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 35 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting. The apron is included in the pattern, and requires only 1⅛ yards of 35 inch fabric.

Ugly Duckling at 16, May Be Fair at Forty Don't Give Up if You Are Not Born Beautiful.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Was it Fra Lippo who said that no woman is to blame for not being beautiful at 16, but has only herself to blame if she is not beautiful at 40? Anyway, it does not matter who said it, or who has said the same thing since. If one is not born with a full quota of beauty there is no need for mourning.

This occurred to me recently when I unexpectedly met a young woman who in her teens was so unprepossessing a girl that she was in danger of becoming a complete victim of the well known inferiority plague. She wouldn't go out anywhere. She moped and mourned and was well on the way to becoming a mental problem. For two years her patient mother urged, argued, and coaxed her out of this state.

Then she turned about and went to the extreme in beautifying methods. I hadn't seen her since she was nearing 20. She's 26 years old now and has no more resemblance to the awkward, shrinking, unpoised, unattractive miss of 16 than does a lovely flower resemble a shaggy little scrub tree. The girl has everything—carriage, charm, looks; she dresses well and is exquisitely groomed.

But there is no particular news in this kind of transformation. It's being accomplished daily. So, when one like "Disgusted" commits her discouragement to pen and paper and gives up at the age of 21 I feel more like spanking the girl than anything else. At 21 a girl must have many points on which to work. Perhaps her skin may not be good. She may be overweight. Her hair may be drab in tone.

But good gracious! Aren't young women overcoming these defects every day? Who has to go on with lifeless, colorless hair when one can do things oneself to give it tone and gloss—when one may avail oneself of harmless rinses to give life to it?

And skin! One does not have to go on with a skin punctured with blackheads and pimples. There are fine products available for local care, and hygienic information on internal care of the system that may be had for the asking. Any girl of 21 can make her figure over completely if she sets her mind to it and is willing to eat sanely and take exercise.

So, if I get a little impatient with the discouraged girls it is because I know they simply aren't willing to try for greater personal attractiveness. They're fundamentally lazy about themselves. That's what it boils down to.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We never cease to marvel at the way some women can keep their hair dresses looking smart. Ringlets and rolls don't faze them. Others, like ourselves, just can't cope with such things, no matter how well cut the hair is nor how simple it is, what with permanent or natural curl, to keep the rolls rolling and the ringlets ringleted.

It's probably a knack some women have. Recently, since the beautiful coils became the fashion, we've become enamored of them, but couldn't keep them in place until we learned a few tricks.

First, remember that shaping is everything. If you fall into the hands of a hairdresser who WAVES your hair into a style, instead of cutting, thinning and shaping it into the actual outline of a grand coiffure, give him the go-by and shop around until you find a real craftsman. And remember that the chances are a hundred to one that you'll find the good man in the good shop, where training, experience, and skill are what he is well paid for. He'll cut your hair well and show you how to comb it.

Then, between visits to the shop, coddle that coiffure as you would an appealing baby. Don't slam-bang when you put on your hat. Sleep with a net on if you possibly can. Don't go out in a high wind without a protective headpiece if yours is the sort of hair that disarranges easily and unbecomingly.

Invest in a "rat tail" comb. This is a comb most hairdressers use for round ringlets and puffs. It tapers at one end almost to a fine point. Lots of the stores have them—and some beauty shops will sell them. You'll be charmed at how much more deftly you can take care of the trimmings on your hair style with one of these.

And don't forget brushing. It's brushing that gives hair the luster and body that make any coiffure, however simple, a crowning glory.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Heart Case Needs Tricycle.

From a small town north of Chicago:

"Dear Miss Brown: You have helped so many poor children I wonder if you could help mine. I have a daughter 6 year old, who could start school this fall if she had a tricycle. We live on a small farm and the school is almost a mile from our home. She has heart trouble, which they say she may outgrow if given proper care. The doctor forbids her walking to school, and as we have no car, he said a tricycle would be our best alternative. My husband is out of work and we have five children, ranging from 2 to 7 years. If some reader has a discarded cycle, a friend who owns a car has offered to call for it.

Eleanor Holm Cracks Olympic Jokes on Stage

Appears with Husband in Songs and Banter.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Eleanor Holm, whose method of training for swimming matches in the Olympic games provided the sports news pages with a lively controversy last month, has bounced back into the theatrical world and is now on view, with her husband, Art Jarrett, on the stage of the Chicago theater.

They do not evade the subject of her expulsion from the American Olympic team in their night club songs and chatter; on the contrary, they grasp the nettle boldly and endeavor to crack jokes at the expense of Avery Brundage, the Spartan disciplinarian of gay little backstroke girls.

The act begins with movie flashes of Miss Holm winning the Olympic backstroke championship of 1932 and then brings on the Jarretts for songs and banter. Art chants a mighty love ditty; Eleanor chirps popular rhymes into the microphone; and then comes the quick change from a smart frock to a snappy bathing suit. A whoopee western song—"I'm an Old Ranch Hand from the Rio Grande"—forms the finale, in which the Chicago theater's ballet girls participate. One line of the refrain is adapted into a reference to Mr. Brundage, which gives Mr. Jarrett a chance to cap the rhyme with, "There's a man I'd like to choke."

The version of "Macbeth" with an all-Negro cast, now at the Great Northern theater under WPA auspices, will end its engagement next Saturday night. The company will return to New York after an engagement in Detroit.

A revised edition of last season's "Ziegfeld Follies" will begin an engagement in the Winter Garden theater, New York, next Saturday night. The production will come to Chicago in October for a run at the Grand Opera house. Fannie Brice and Bobby Clark will be the stars of the cast.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily instalments.

THE RULE OF EIGHT.

The defensive honor tricks control the first two top leads or rounds and possibly the third lead of each of the four suits. Since each suit is worth two plus to two and a half defensive honor tricks, the deck contains between eight and nine honor tricks. As a rule the materialization of the ninth trick will depend on a finesse. Hence there are about eight and a half honor tricks which for simplicity's sake we shall call eight. This gives us the simple basis for one of the most valuable rules in bridge—the rule of eight.

The total of defensive honor tricks that will be won at any bid [trump or no trump] after each deal is about eight out of the thirteen tricks.

Aces will win four tricks and the lower honors will win slightly less or more than four additional tricks. It does not matter how the honor values will combine, the final result, as a rule, will average around eight and a half honor tricks. Theoretically, it is possible to set up a hand that will show a count even of ten defensive honor tricks. But it is sufficient for any one to deal out a few hands and count the total of honor tricks made after the play to notice that its number always varies between eight and nine.

Since the number of defensive honor tricks is constant the more honor tricks there are in one hand the less there remain for the others, and vice versa. It is like four poker players starting a freeze-out game, each with an equal number of chips.

Today's Hand.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: In a recent game I sat West, playing with a partner who is usually a conservative player; in fact, all four players usually play a conservative game. In making the five club bid I received a great deal of criticism by both North and South, criticism in which my own partner later joined. Their criticism was that I decidedly overbid my hand, that under the Culbertson system such a bid should never have been made.

"Will you kindly check on the bidding and discuss this hand in one of your coming articles?

"Thanking you in advance for your kind criticism and help, I am,

"Yours very truly, A. H. P."

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	2 clubs	2 hearts	5 clubs
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

For purely strategical bids such as West's neither the Culbertson nor any other system can lay down hard and fast rules. All that can be done is to point out the proper general course of procedure. Therefore, West's critics were quite wrong in their contention that he overbid according to the Culbertson system. I strongly approve his boldness as quite necessary to the circumstances.

It is North's double of five clubs that I think should be criticized. Five hearts would have been much the better bid, and against normal defense might very well have been fulfilled. East hardly could have guessed he should have opened spades or have shifted to spades after cashing two club tricks.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: My partner opened the bidding with one no trump. There were two passes and fourth hand bid two spades. My partner doubled. Was this a takeout or a penalty double?

Answer: A penalty double.

CUBS LOSE; SOX WIN TWO, TIE FOR 2D PLACE

THE GUMPS—O, MIN!

PIRATES HAND CHICAGOANS 2D SETBACK, 5 TO 4

ShakyChamps Leave 11 Men on Bases.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 6.—The Cubs, for the second successive day, this afternoon suffered from fainting spells caused by golden opportunity bulletins posted on the scoreboard anent the troubles of the Giants and the Cardinals. After their gulping and cold sweats were over, the Cubs had blown another one to the Pirates, 5 to 4.

BILL SWIFT.

The defending champions made 13 hits, and a two base error with two runners on base was thrown in by the Pirates. But the net of all this was the inadequate four runs and eleven runners left on bases.

The prime swoon of all was in the sixth, when Johnny Gill, Gabby Hartnett, and Bill Jurges, who in their previous time up had singled successively with two out, for a run, rapped out three singles at the start of the inning for a run. The so-called supporting cast could not muster another run out of the situation despite a two base throwing error by Bill Brubaker.

Collapse Again in Eighth.

Rivalling the sixth inning flop was the collapse of the defending champions in the eighth when Hartnett and Jurges collaborated for the third straight time, Jurges driving in the fourth Cub run with a double and none out. Then followed Manager Grimm's unorthodox theories on the sacrifice and Jurges never got off second with the potential tying run.

Today's foldup now confronts the Cubs with the necessity of winning all their remaining games if they are to accomplish that 21 game winning streak they have been anticipating so smugly all summer.

Allen Starts Scoring.

The first run of the game, scored by Allen in the first inning, was almost entirely attributable to Ethan's talents, so painfully negligible later on. He led off with a single to right, moved up on Cavarretta's sacrifice, stole third standing up and raced home on Herman's fly to Jensen. Demaree popped to Suhr.

The Pirates were rather rough, withal a bit lucky, in their first inning. With one down Jensen socked a single to center and P. Waner beat out a bunt to Davis. Vaughan dropped a double to the left foul line, scoring Jensen and P. Waner. Vaughan moved to third on Suhr's out and scored on Brubaker's single to left. Young fouled to Hack.

Fadeout Process Begins.

Hack led off the second with a single to center and the fadeout technique was invoked immediately thereafter. Gill bounced to Suhr, Hartnett was called out on strikes, and Jurges was given a more or less intentional pass. Then Davis fanned.

The Pirates added a run in the third. With one out P. Waner again beat out a bunt, this one to Hack, advanced on Vaughan's sacrifice and scored on Suhr's triple to right center. Brubaker was called out on strikes.

The Cubs scored a run and had the bases full when their half of the fourth came to an end. After Demaree had flied to L. Waner and Hack had been called out on strikes, Gill, Hartnett, and Jurges lined out singles, Gill scoring on Jurges' lick and Hart-

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 6.—The Chicago Bears, outstanding professional football team for the last decade and three time champions in that period, tonight finished preparations at the Cotton Bowl for their pre-season contest here tomorrow night with the All-Stars of the 1935 college season. The All-Stars have been recruited from the list of players chosen in the national poll conducted by THE TRIBUNE, who played the Detroit Lions to a 7 to 7 tie last week, and from the southern states.

This game tomorrow night, high point in the athletic program of Texas' Centennial exposition, has been promoted by the Dallas News, which coöperated with THE TRIBUNE in the national players' and coaches' poll.

Westerners on Squad.

The southern All-Star team is a misnomer to the extent that Bob Reynolds, Stanford university star, who was the outstanding tackle in THE TRIBUNE game last Wednesday night, and Lary Lutz, California tackle, are members of the squad. The All-Stars also include Wes Muller of Stanford at center, and Sklar of Kansas at guard in the starting lineup. Chuck Cheshire of the University of California at Los Angeles, is another of the coast favorites who is billed for the Cotton Bowl game.

Matty Bell, coach of the Southern Methodist eleven which last year won 12 consecutive games before losing the Rose Bowl contest to Stanford by a touchdown margin, is generalissimo of the All-Star forces. He has marshalled an excellent squad. Stanford and Southern Methodist will be represented as well as Vanderbilt, Texas Christian, Louisiana State, Kansas, Rice Institute, Arkansas, Ohio State, and Oklahoma. Stan Pincura of Ohio State, is the forward passing star who will substitute for Bobby Wilson, of Southern Methodist, in this department of the game.

Reynolds, Mickal Captains.

Reynolds, who comes from Okmulgee, Okla., and went west to gain fame at Stanford, and Abe Mickal, of Louisiana State, have been named co-captains of the All-Star squad. Bill Hewitt, former Michigan end, now playing his fifth year as a member of the Chicago Bears, was voted captain of the invading professionals.

Darrell Lester and Tillie Manton, of Texas Christian, and Truman Spain, of Southern Methodist, are other All-Stars who faced the Lions in Chicago and nearly won, a fourth period fumble by Tuffy Leemans giving the Detroit team opportunity to forge a tie. Manton will start at full back. His place kicking ability may be called upon to equal any work by Jack Manders of the Bears, since the goal posts will be placed on the goal line as in the professional league games.

Manton Joins Giants.

Manton will report to the New York Giants after tomorrow's game. Two other All-Star veterans of the battle at Soldiers' field are here with the Bears. Dan Fortmann, of Colgate, hailed as the outstanding collegiate guard, will play for the Bears, as will Joe Stydhar, of Western Virginia, whose tackle play rivalled that of Reynolds' in Chicago.

Fortmann hopes to fly from Dallas to New York in time to appear with the All-Stars against the New York

New York Will Battle to Restore Prestige of Pro Teams.

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 6.—The New York Giants, decisively beaten by the Detroit Lions in the National Professional league championship game last December, will try Tuesday night to accomplish what their conquerors failed to do in Chicago. They will attempt to whip the College All-Stars and redeem partially, at least, the prestige professional football lost by the 7 to 7 tie and moral defeat incurred by the league champions at Soldiers' field.

While the Giants collapsed before the attack of the Lions in the 1935 league playoff, the New York team for a decade has been near the top of the National league standings, and this year's squad is said to be the most promising of recent seasons.

Weak Ones Weeded Out.

Coach Steve Owen has rid the team of some weak links. Art Lewis, 225 pound tackle from Ohio university, and Gene Rose, 200 pound end from Tennessee, are among the newcomers who have impressed the Giants' coaching staf.

The All-Stars, who have been in training for almost four weeks, have had to ease up in their work since the Chicago game because of shortage of personnel. There were 53 on the squad in Chicago, but the New York unit has only 31.

Fordham Stars to Start.

The Herald Tribune, sponsor of the New York game, is not requiring the coaches to start the All-Star team selected by the fans. It would be impossible to present the complete front, because Truman Spain of Southern Methodist, who was elected to a tackle berth, is with the Dallas unit that meets the Chicago Bears tomorrow night. It is likely that two Fordham boys, Amerino Sarno, tackle, and Joe Maniaci, half back, will be given the honor of starting the game.

Bierman today planned to start with this group:

From Smaller Schools.

While most of the All-Stars who played in the Chicago game come from schools of national football prominence, it is interesting to observe that the Giants' lineup as announced for Tuesday night includes several players from small schools and none from teams that were given national rating. This is the array Steve Owen will send against the collegians:

Ends, Singer, Syracuse, and Mitchell, Davis Elkins; tackles, Morgan, Oregon, and Lewis, Ohio university; guards, Phillips, Oklahoma Baptist, and Isola, Fordham; center, Hein, Washington State; quarter back, Danowski, Fordham; half backs, Richards, Simpson, and Burnett, Emporia Teachers; full back, Corzine, Davis Elkins.

The All-Stars will remain at the Westchester Biltmore Country club in Rye until time to leave for the Polo grounds Tuesday afternoon. Phillies Release Kowalik, Former Cub, to Boston

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies today announced the release of Fabian Kowalik on waivers to the Boston Bees. The right handed pitcher, obtained by the Phillies this year from the Chicago Cubs, has a record of one victory and seven defeats. Officials said they had recalled Harold Kelleher, pitcher, from Baltimore, in the International league.

FAST FIELD TO RACE TODAY IN $10,000 STAKE

Handicap Is Washington Park Farewell.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Summer's ending today will also marshal out the annual racing season of the Washington Park Jocky club.

Chief among the ceremonies arranged in commemoration of the two events will be the annual running of the $10,000 added Washington Park handicap at a mile and a quarter. Because Labor day stands out as the most popular racing day of the year the Jocky club has saved this—its richest stake—for the occasion.

It naturally follows that the best field of the season has been attracted. In that field of eleven is found handicap stars that have been winning fame both east and west throughout the season. Although they are owned by Chicagoans, two that have come from New York for the race are Mrs. John Hertz' four year old Count Arthur and Dale Shaffer's St. Bernard, which on June 27 in his last appearance in Chicago won the Illinois Owners' handicap at Hawthorne.

Many Favor Where Away.

This pair along with Black Gift which has done most of his racing in the east this year will attempt to wrest honors from the stout-hearted Where Away owned by Tony Pelleteri of New Orleans.

Where Away, stalwart brown gelding, son of Stimylus-Bob O'Link II., has been noted as a sprinter until Pelleteri unexpectedly sent him into the Arlington handicap a month ago. Turfites who watched this battle—he was beaten a nose by Warren Wright's Sun Teddy—will not soon forget the thriller.

Not long afterwards in the Great Western handicap at Washington Park, he ran confidently under the fine horsemanship of Jocky Charley Corbett and swept over a mile and an eighth to an impressive triumph.

This victory moved him into challenging position as a favorite for the holiday final at Washingtong Park this afternoon. And as they go to the post it will not be surprising if the fans keep him there although in the overnight betting St. Bernard was a slight favorite at 2 to 1, with Where Away at 5 to 2, and Count Arthur the third choice at 3 to 1.

Stout on Count Arthur.

Jimmy Stout, the little ridder who fell off Granville in the Kentucky Derby, but who has since piloted the great 3 year old to a championship has been brought on from New York to ride Count Arthur. This Stout-Count Arthur combination proved to be a happy choice at Saratoga on Aug. 18 when the big chestnut son of Reigh Count walked off with the Champlain handicap, defeating Esposa, Mantagna and others. This was a mile and an eighth contest.

Count Arthur showed a liking for the Washington Park racing strip last year when he had Col. E. R. Bradley's champion Black Helen all out in order to beat him in the American Derby.

St. Bernard, one of the famous Bulldog progeny, has been somewhat of a trial to his owner, young Mr. Shaffer. He's an in and outer, running like a champion one day and like a very bad hide the next. That holds good for New York as well as Chicago. He is a 4 year old—powerful bay and a noted front runner—

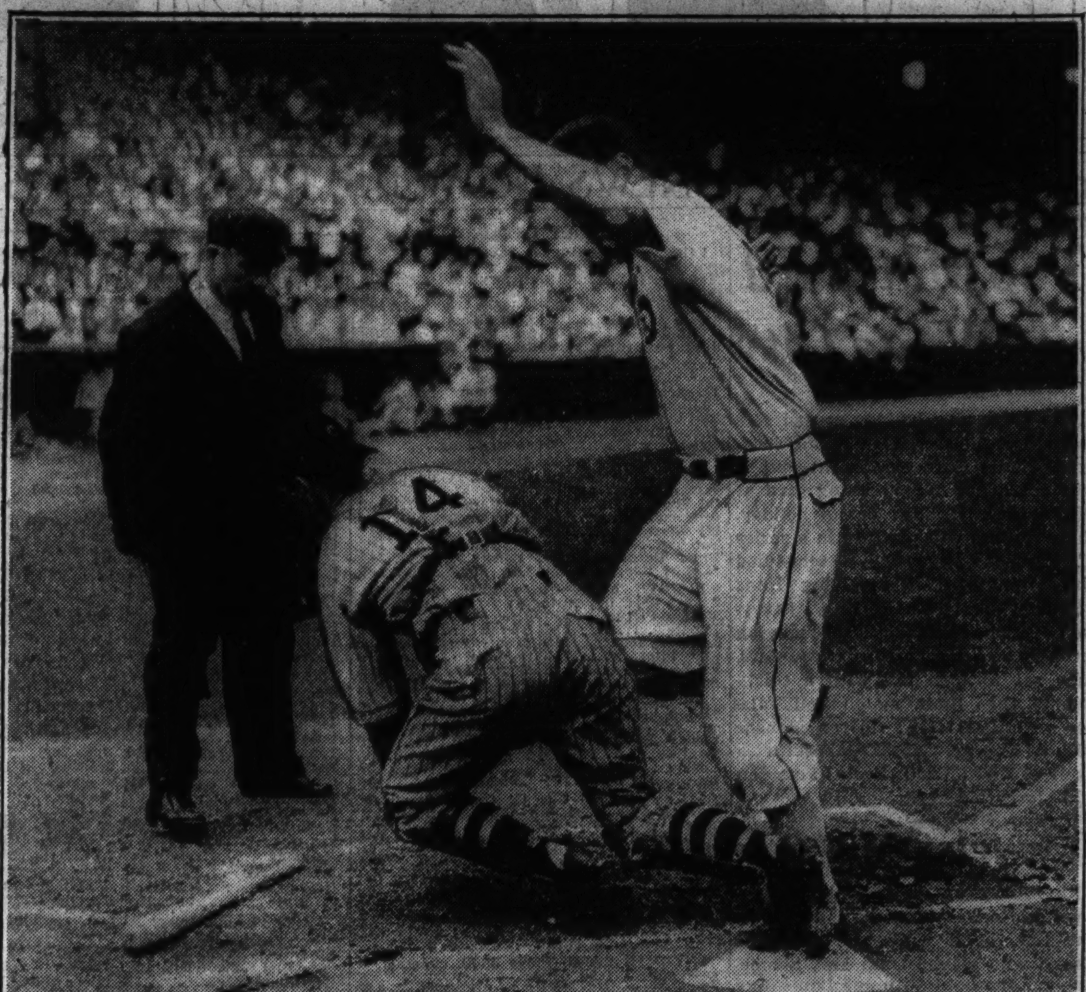
BIG ZEKE TRIPS HOME WITH RUN



Zeke Bonura, White Sox first baseman, comes charging home with the Sox first run in the first inning of their 15 to 1 triumph over the Cleveland Indians in the first game of a double-header at Comiskey park yesterday. Note Zeke's foot tangled up with Catcher Billy Sullivan's. An instant later both sprawled on the ground. The umpire is John Quinn. [Associated Press Photo.]

McDiarmid Is Pushed to Win in U. S. Singles

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Johnny McDiarmid, young political science instructor at Princeton university, staged a lion-hearted five set battle on the grandstand court today to defeat Frank J. Bowden of New York 8-10, 8-10, 6-2, 7-5, 6-2, in the outstanding match of the National tennis singles tournament.

All other seeded players who went to the courts today survived, although there wasn't a brilliant spot in the entire program. Don Budge, the American favorite from Oakland, Cal., muddled through a 6-3, 6-4, 9-7 victory over blond Joe Hunt of Los Angeles; Frankie Parker tumbled Charlie Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla., 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, 7-5, and Gregory Mangin of New York and Bernard Destremau and Yvon Petra of France won easy victories.

Women Stars Advance.

It was the same in the women's tournament with the three seeded players in the lower bracket, Alice Marble, San Francisco, Gracyn Wheeler, Santa Monica, Cal., and Helen Pedersen, Hartford, Conn., all winning without a struggle.

Though Bowden is 16th and McDiarmid 18th in the national rankings, McDiarmid was seeded seventh in this tournament and was generally a favorite to win. He could not fathom Bowden's service nor play effectively against the wind in the first two sets, however, and he lost them both.

At this point McDiarmid seemed lost, for he lacked Bowden's ruggedness, and the New Yorker was placing and serving beautifully. Nevertheless McDiarmid summoned a great rally to take the third set and then fought his heart away to square it in the fourth.

Wins Battle in Fourth Set.

McDiarmid really turned the battle midway through the fourth set by breaking Bowden's service in the eleventh game to lead, 6-5. Then on his own service he reached set point six times before winning it with an ace serve.

Bowden served first in the final set and each won his own service until the fifth, when McDiarmid broke through and then held service to win the set, 6-4.

Budge played well below his best form in beating Hunt, a promising youngster who was rated No. 2 in the 1935 Pacific coast junior rankings. Budge miss-hit in the rallies all through the day and, although the youngster gave him some tough chances, the favorite made an inordinate number of errors. In the three sets he netted the ball 52 times and served 6 double faults.

Dorothy Bundy Wins.

Dorothy May Sutton Bundy of Santa Monica, whose upset of Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Cambridge, Mass, is still the outstanding accomplishment of the tournament, defeated Eunice Dean, San Antonio, Tex., 6-0, 6-2, and now will meet Edith Moore of Montclair, N. J., who today won a hard battle from Florence Leboutillier of Westbury, Long Island, 7-5, 8-6.

Frankie Parker fought until dusk before winning from Harris, and did it on his greatest rally of the tournament. Harris led, five games to two in the fourth set, but Parker came back to break service in the ninth and eleventh games to win the set, 7-5.

RALPH METCALFE TO COACH TRACK TEAM AT XAVIER

New Orleans, La., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Xavier university of New Orleans announced today the appointment of Ralph Metcalfe, former Marquette university sprint star, as professor of physical education and assistant in athletics. Authorities said he would be in charge of track.

Metcalfe was second in the 100 and 200 meters dashes in the 1932 Olympic games, and participated in the Olympic games again this year.

Duke Dinsmore Winner of Sharon Auto Race

Sharon, Pa., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Duke Dinsmore of California, won the thirty lap feature race at the Sharon Automobile speedway today. Howdy Cox of Dallas, Tex., was second; Wilson Shaffer, Chesterland, O., third; Gayle Lower, Fort Wayne, fourth, and Paul Jerome, Akron, fifth.

WHIP INDIANS, 15-1 AND 6-3; SWEEP SERIES

Clint Brown Rescues Stratton in 2d.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox blasted their way into a tie for second place yesterday. They advanced on the coveted spot by taking the Cleveland Indians apart 15 to 1 in the first half of a double-header. Then they moved into a deadlock with the champion Detroit Tigers by taking a sizzling second game, 6 to 3. And the Indians, who came into Comiskey park as second placers, went out two notches lower as the result of the beatings, which gave them a season's record in Chicago of one victory in eleven contests.

CLINT BROWN.

The second place tie will come up for settlement today when the Tigers come to Comiskey park for a double-header.

Ted Lyons had no difficulty attaining his ninth triumph in the first game. The old boy pitched far better than the occasion demanded. His pals did a swell job of making it easy for him, but he spurned the assistance. He yielded only eight hits, most of them widely separated. Meanwhile the Sox were amusing 17,000 spectators with a salvo of 19 hits which, among other things, enabled them to fashion two five run innings.

Allen Has His Trouble.

The second game was entirely different. Johnny Allen was on the job, showing not only a variety of his pitching, but goodly portions of his famous temper. The ex-Yankee, who pushes over clubhouse stoves and tips hotel fire extinguishers to drown his sorrow, had a two run lead at the start as the result of a home run by Earl Averill off Monty Stratton, but the Sox wore him down. The Indians also helped to disrupt his progress by erring. The Chicagoans, however, pounded home four of their runs, and that would have been enough.

Stratton, making his first start since appendicitis caught up with him late in May, was none too good. The Indians sent seven men to base in three innings, twice having a pair on with none out. Stratton escaped all this on two runs, so Manager Dykes let him stick. Stratton then settled down and sailed along smoothly, but when detached from two hits with one out in the ninth he was looked upon as a tired youngster and given help. Clint Brown, rescuer par excellence, was appealed to, and he set down two batters without ado.

Hayes Swings Big Stick.

A lot of the boys were fancy as hitters against Mel Harder, Willis Hudlin, and ancient George Uhle in the first game, but the honors in the second game were cornered by Jack Hayes, Luke Appling assisting. Hayes' triple was the corner stone of two runs in the fourth when the Sox went ahead. He singled to drive in another run in the sixth and singled again in the eighth to drive in one of the two runs which completed the day's production.

FIRST GAME

Bonura and Appling singled to center in the second inning of the first game and these items touched off a five run blast against Harder. A pass to Piet loaded the bases after Hayes had been tossed out. Sewell grounded to Hale and the latter's throw to the plate was too late to nip Bonura. Lyons slapped a single into center and turned loose all sorts of action. The hit scored Appling, Piet, and

DORELLO WINS SECOND LAP OF TRIANGLE RACE

Rubaiyat Is Beaten First Time in 15 Starts.

St. Joseph, Mich., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—The yawl Dorello, owned by George Murphy of Chicago, won the second leg of the annual triangular race from Chicago to Michigan City to this port today in fast time. Only 4 hours and 18 minutes were required to cover the 35 mile course.

Although Commodore Nathaniel Rubinkam's cutter Rubaiyat finished fifth, it lost on corrected time in class A. Robert Benedict's 54 foot yawl Southern Cross was the victor in this class, taking first on both actual and corrected time. It was the first race that Rubaiyat has lost. Its record was 14 straight victories. However, it was a close margin of loss, as Southern Cross won by 59 seconds in more than four hours.

Average Eight Miles an Hour.

In the steady southeast wind the two masted yachts made the best average speeds. The 58 foot Dorello, winner on actual and corrected time in the universal yawl class, averaged over eight miles an hour. At times its speedometer arose to 10 miles under press of total canvas of nearly 4,000 square feet area ballooning out. Gould Davis was Dorello's helsman.

Class B was won by Robert Williamson's Edith III. Breeze, Sumner Walter Dill Scott's seagoing ketch, won class C. Fred Wacker's new eight meter sloop Warrior defeated nine racing sloops to take first in that class.

Larry Holsingers Yrral won in class D.

Start Final Run Today.

Tomorrow morning the fleet assembles again off here and starts the final run of 56 miles back to Chicago. Small craft storm warnings have been posted by the coast guard here tonight.

Fast Field to Race Today in $10,000 Stake

Top Weight for Where Away.

Of the others the 3 year olds Sir Jim James and Gyral stack up as the best, although in the event of a muddy or heavy track the word has gone around that John E. Hughes' veteran silent Shot may stage the biggest upset of the Chicago season.

If the track should turn muddy, sensational Basil James will ride Silent Shot. If it is fast James will ride Gyral. Silent Shot goes into the Washington Park handicap fresh from an impressive victory scored here last week.

Black Gift until recently raced in Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloan's Brookmeade stable silks. He was under lease to that establishment. The lease has expired and today he will perform in the silks of his real owner, Leon Carter. He is a speedy fellow and might very easily be the life of a big surprise party.

Labor day for a good many years has provided the largest race track crowds of the year in Chicago. That's the reason plans have been made to handle a gathering of more than 40,000 this afternoon.

Weber Breaks World Fly Casting Record

Kansas City, Kas., Sept. 6.—(AP)—J. S. Weber of St. Louis, American champion long distance fly caster, today bettered the world's record for a ⅝ ounce distance plug which he set at the national fly casting tournament in Portland, Ore., last month. In an exhibition Weber cast 382 feet, 8 feet better than his Portland record.

Schnabel, Kay Top Mat Card at White City

The Labor day holiday caused cancelation of the scheduled boxing show at Marigold Gardens tonight, but it will not affect the wrestling card at White City. Holiday or no holiday, the wrestlers will perform in a series of matches topped by a scheduled sixty minute bout involving Hans Schnabel and Rudy Kay, heavyweights, who are adept at exchanging mean looks. Supporting encounters, each set for one fall with a thirty minute time limit, match Lou Talaber with Pat Kelly, George Mansor with Al George, Babe Kasaboski with Tony Falletti, and Ernie Peterson with Jerry Meeker.

The next show at Marigold Gardens is booked for a week from tonight with Milt Aron and Harold Brown, rival welterweight boxers, paired in the ten round windup. . . . Doc Casey, who helped train Max Schmeling for the bout with Joe Louis, and his wife will return to their home in Detroit today after spending the week-end here. . . . Jim McMillen, an old hand at the wrestling business, will open rehersals at Trafton's gymnasium Wednesday for his heavyweight elimination with Dean Detton at the Coliseum a week from tomorrow. . . . Jack Gracek, Omaha heavyweight, will be the opponent of Oki Shikina, clever Japanese matman, at Arcadia Gardens Wednesday.

Leo Rodak, who won the Chicago Golden Gloves flyweight championship in 1931, the bantamweight crown in 1932, and the featherweight title in 1933, has been matched to meet Frankie Wolfram, the fiery little battler from Winnipeg, Man., for ten rounds at White City Friday.

Charley Lucas, elderly little Australian promoter, has notified Sam Pian and Art Winch, co-managers of Barney Ross, that the $45,000 the welterweight champion will be paid for his fifteen round title defense against Jack Carroll at Sydney Dec. 8 will be deposited in a loop bank tomorrow. The sum, which is exempt of $10,000 in Australian taxes, does not include $5,000 for expenses. Ross, who is roughing it in the woods near Loretta, Wis., is expected back in the loop in a week, to prepare for his departure to Australia Oct. 1. The champion and his representatives, including Soldier Mickey Farr, and Frankie Battaglia, Palmyra, Wis., middleweight, will sail from Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 7. Battaglia boxes Fred Henneberry, Australian titleholder, at Sydney on Nov. 24. F. M.

George Dawson and Harold Mathison, who qualified at Skokie for the national amateur tournament, have been compelled to withdraw by business reasons. Kickers Beat Schwabens in Soccer, 2 to 1

BY OFFSIDE.

The Cincinnati Kickers defeated the Schwabens, 2 to 1, in a hard fought soccer exhibition game yesterday. Despite the brilliant goal tending by Steiner of the local eleven, the Ohio squad lost no time in driving into the net with a series of hard shots. After twenty minutes of play Maier, playing inside left for the visitors, scored with a hard drive.

In the second period, with about ten minutes gone, Abcill, the Schwabens' center, after missing two attempts, booted his third shot in to tie the score. Maier again came to the front and with the aid of some of the forwards brought the ball in close to score from a few feet out.

Bears to Meet All-Stars at Dallas Tonight

20,000 Tickets Sold.

"The addition of out of Texas players has made the team equal to the squad which played the Lions," Hailas said today. "Reynolds and Lutz will give Bell's team a fine pair of tackles. And the rest of the outfit know what it's all about."

The Bears worked out last night and finished preparations tonight at 7:30 at the Cotton Bowl. The intense heat—temperatures have been in the high nineties—has been a handicap. After the Bears left the field, which is within the Centennial enclosure, the All-Stars went through their final drill under the lights.

More than 20,000 have bought tickets. The Cotton Bowl seats 46,000 and it is evident that the game will be a financial success.

The Bears' squad of 29 players is in condition. Bronko Nagurski, the smashing full back who was incapacitated last season by arthritis, is ready to go. He will have Bernie Masterson calling signals and Beattie Feathers and Gene Rozani at half backs in support.

Play Tomorrow, Too.

The Bears are confident of licking the southern All-Stars. They have no excuses for the failure of the Detroit Lions to whip THE TRIBUNE's group of All-Stars. When they have finished here tomorrow night, the Bears will move on to Oklahoma City.

Tuesday night the Bears will meet an All-Star eleven in Oklahoma City which will be coached by Tony Greene of Oklahoma City university. He has for an advisory staf Biff Jones, former Army coach, now at the University of Oklahoma; Vic Hurt of Tulsa, Okla., university; Tom Stidham, once of the Northwestern university staf, and Ted Cox, who left Tulane for Oklahoma. The Bears then will return to Chicago to prepare for their opening game Sept. 20 at Green Bay, Wis.

Goodman in Quarter-Finals of Arcola Golf

Arcola, N. J., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Johnny Goodman, U. S. Walker cup player from Omaha, led seven other star golfers today into the quarter-final round of the Arcola Country club invitation tournament.

Continuing to dominate the field which he is heavy favorite to beat for his first victory in the annual tournament, he scored two clean cut wins.

He will meet Max B. Kaesche of Ridgewood tomorrow.

Other pairings, in order, are George Voigt of Winged Foot and Tommy Goodwin of Winged Foot; Art Lynch of Winged Foot and Charles Clare of New Haven, Conn.; Sid Noyes of Ardsley and Johnny Dawson of Chicago.

Lynch's Victory an Upset.

Lynch's defeat of Ernest Pieper Jr. of San José, Cal., the defending champion, was an upset. After Pieper's morning match, carried to the 20th hole by the youthful Tom Breslin of Yountakah Country club, the Californian was not impressive in his first round. He put up a battle before going down before Lynch on the 19th hole in the afternoon but was not up to form.

Goodman, medalist in the qualifying round, defeated Robert Brewer of North Jersey, 6 and 5, and Arthur Atkins of Shennescott, 3 and 2.

Goodman's Victory Easy.

Goodwin won his second round battle, 4 and 3, over Foy Porter of Rock Spring, who was secon dto Goodman in the qualifying round.

Dawson eliminated Paul Dunkel of Ridgewood, 8 and 6, in the first round but was pressed by Wilfred Crossley of Norfolk, Mass., in the second. He was not able to gain a decisive edge until late in the match, when he finally won, 2 up.

Two rounds are scheduled for tomorrow; the 36 hole final will be played Tuesday.

Roslyn Upsets Hurricanes in Polo Play

Port Washington, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Roslyn team opened the Monty Waterbury Cup polo tournament at the Sands Point club today by upsetting the Hurricanes, 11 to 7.

The Hurricanes, rated one of the strongest teams in the tournament—which attracted entries from all seven competitors in the National Open championships—conceded their rivals a two goal handicap. This was not needed, however, as the well balanced Roslyn team of Dunbar Bostwick, John Fell, Eric Tyrrell-Martin, and Raymond Guest, took a big lead on a four goal spurt in the fifth period. After that rally, the winners relied on their steady team play and successfully blocked the defense of the team led by Stephen Sanford.

The tournament, leading high goal handicap event of the year, will be continued Tuesday when Greentree, which retained the open title Saturday by a thrilling 11 to 10 overtime victory over the high powered Templeton quartet, meets Old Westbury. The same afternoon Templeton clashes with Aurora.

As a result of today's victory, the 24 goal Roslyn team will meet the winner of the Greentree-Old Westbury match in Thursday's semi-final. Texas, which drew a first round bye, will face the Aurora-Templeton winner. Lineups:

PICARD SHOOTS 287 TO WIN IN HERSHEY MEET

Equals Own Course Mark with Final 67.

Hershey, Pa., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Henry Picard, Hershey Country club professional, equalled his own course record of 67, six under par, today to win the fourth annual $5,000 Hershey open golf championship with a total of 287, five under perfect figures for the 72 hole route.

Picard holed a five foot putt on the 18th green, surrounded by a gallery of 2,000, to beat Jimmy Thomson, Chicopee, Mass. by a stroke.

It was the second time during a day of par-shattering rounds that Picard's mark was equaled. Jimmy Hines, Garden City, Long Island, performed the feat but it left him with only 292. Picard's total was one stroke over the tournament record of 286, set by Ky Laffoon in 1934.

Cooper and White Slip.

Harry Cooper, Chicago, and Orville White, Overland, Mo., who tied at 214 at the three-quarter mark, slipped in the final round. Cooper was in trouble on most of the holes, and finished with 289. White got a 76 for 290, and tied with Ed Dudley, Philadelphia.

Par—Out	445	435	443—36
Picard	444	434	443—34
Hines	444	435	333—33
Par—In	545	534	443—37—73
Picard	444	524	343—33—67
Hines	435	535	432—34—67

Picard's game, a bit ragged in the first three rounds, swung into high gear from the first tee of the last 18 holes, topped by remarkable putting. On eight greens he used only one putt, registering six birdies and 12 pars.

Thomson Shoots a 69.

Thomson, starting the day at 219, one over Picard, surged into the picture with a par cracking 69 in which he was out in 32, four under, and back in 37, even par. He missed a deuce by inches on the last hole.

Picard nearly forced a tie on the 18th. His tee shot was on, 25 feet from the pin. His first putt went five feet past, but he dropped the second.

Seven cracked par of 292 for the route, including Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, Va., and Ralph Guldahl, St. Louis, Mo., at 291.

Parks Comes In with 293.

Picard collected $1,200 and Thomson $750. Others in the money were: Cooper, $550; Dudley and White, $400 each; Guldahl and Snead, $285; Hines, $230; Nelson and Parks, $180; Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J.; Leo Walper, Bethesda, Md., and Craig Wood, New York City, $123.33, and Edward Oliver, Wilmington, Del., $90. Six others, at 296, collected $13.33 each, including Ted Luther, Wiffy Cox, Johnny Revolta, Charles Schneider, Felix Serafin, and Johnny Farrell.

BOSTON DEFEATS GIANTS, 3-2, ON HOMER IN NINTH

Thompson Delivers with Two on Base.

New York, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Tommy Thompson came through in Frank Merriwell style today with a pinch home run in the ninth inning, with two mates on base, to give the Boston Bees a 3 to 2 victory over the Giants and their third straight victory over the league leaders.

Up to that point Gabbo Gabler had the Bees shut out with four hits, and had a two run lead on the strength of a Giant run in the fourth on successive singles by Travis Jackson, Gus Mancuso, and Dick Bartell, and another in the fifth on Mel Ott's two bagger and Jackson's base hit.

The Giant lead over the loop went into the fire by the defeat today on top of the double beating yesterday, although the second place Cardinals had difficulty making any headway against the Cincinnati Reds.

PHILS, 7; DODGERS, 5.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Phils defeated Brooklyn today, 7 to 5, in the final game of the season for the Dodgers at Baker bowl.

Five errors, three of them by Frey, aided the visitors in wasting a five run lead, piled up by the fourth inning. Leo Norris' home run in the Phils' fourth with two men on base was the first effective blow off Jeffcoat. Both he and Steve Sivess, a rookie right-hander, yielded ten hits.

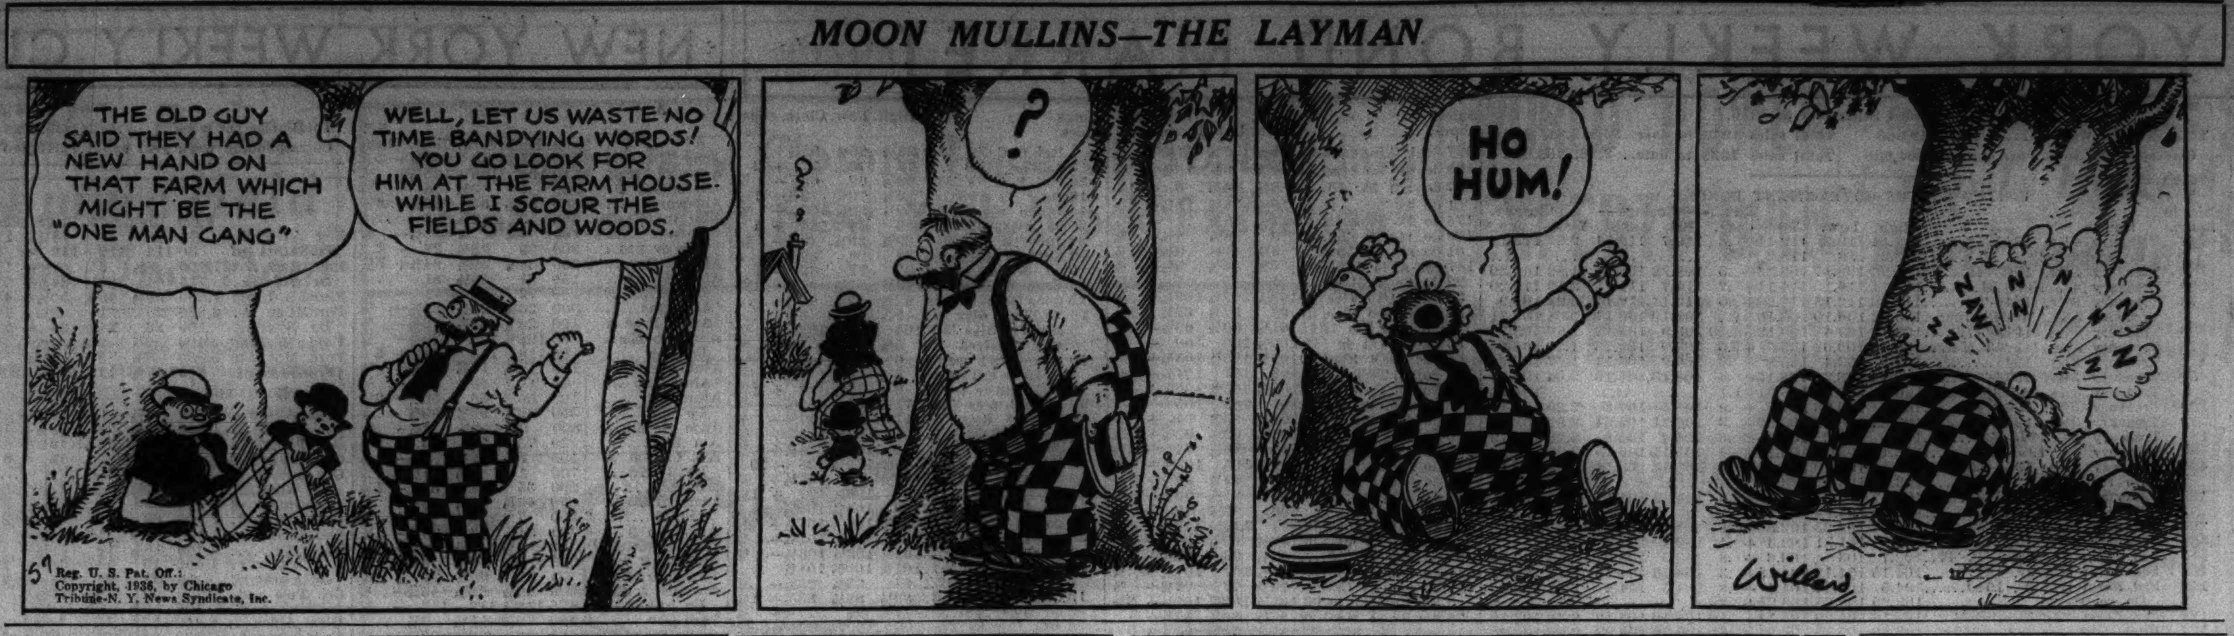
MOON MULLINS—THE LAYMAN



Sox Win Two; Tie for Second with Detroit

Sewell because Averill's throw to third was permitted to roll into the dugout. Lyons went to second on the error and scored the fifth run when Radcliff singled.

The Sox tossed more action into the fourth inning, two scoring and Harder going away. This affair got under way on Hale's wild throw to first of Piet's grounder. Sewell followed with a single to left. Lyons bunted to move the two runners along. Radcliff then moved them across by singling to center on the first pitch. This was where Harder disappeared. Hudlin stopped the fun temporarily.

The Indians broke into the game with a run in the fifth. Weatherly led off with a single, the second yielded by Lyons. Sullivan rolled out to Bonura, but Vosmik singled and Weatherly dashed home.

Five More for Sox.

Hudlin was properly decorated with four hits in the Sox fifth, three scoring. Bonura walked and had to run home without stopping when Appling doubled to left center. Appling went to third on Hayes' bunt and scored on Piet's single. Sewell also singled. Lyons popped out and Radcliff singled for the third time, scoring Piet.

Kreevich beat out a bunt to open the sixth and another five run sortie was under way. Haas forced Kreevich. Bonura walked and was forced by Appling. Trosky dropped the throw for a possible double play, and while he was searching for the ball, Haas scored. Singles by Hayes and Piet scored Appling and knocked out Hudlin. Old Folks Uhle then appeared. Sewell singled, Lyons singled and Radcliff doubled for the three runs needed to complete the five run incident.

SECOND GAME

Averill was responsible for a two run lead over Stratton in the first inning of the second game. With Hughes on base as the result of a single and one out, Averill took a 3 and 2 ball and pommeled it into the right field upper deck for his 24th homer. Trosky followed with a fluke double to left, but the next two fellows couldn't assist him.

The Sox responded with one run in their half, and along with it had a lot of fun watching Allen's temperature rise. Kreevich walked with one out and Hale threw wild to second on Haas' grounder. Mr. Allen didn't like that. When Bonura walked, Mr. Allen really started to talk, mainly to Umpire Geisel. Appling flied to Weatherly and Kreevich scored, but he probably would have been out if Trosky hadn't intercepted the throw. This made Allen pretty mad at Trosky. Allen felt better when Hayes grounded out.

Sox Come to Life.

The Sox went hitless for three innings, but in the fourth they turned loose a pair of hits and made them good for two runs along with a 3 to 2 lead. Appling singled over short for the first hit after Bonura had lined to Hughes. Hayes tripled to right center, scoring Luke. While Piet was at bat, Allen loosed a wild pitch, permitting Hayes to scamper home. Piet finally walked and was doubled on Shea's tap to Berger.

Piet didn't think he had been tagged and in the excitement of the moment accidentally collided with Umpire Quinn as he jumped back on his feet. For that Quinn chased Tony out of the game.

Monty Surrenders One.

The Sox were invited to a run in the sixth and accepted with pleasure. The invitation was in the guise of Berger's wild throw which permitted Bonura to go to second after he should have been out. Appling could produce only a fly to Weatherly. Hayes did better. He slashed a single into center, scoring Bonura.

Stratton wriggled through the seventh on one run despite a series of distressing events. Berger led off with a single and tried to go to third on Allen's single, but Kreevich threw him out. Hughes singled and Allen went to third. Kreevich scooted back into deep center for Hale's fly, Allen scoring and Hughes going to second after the catch. A wild pitch put Hughes on third with the tying run, but Averill helped clear up the situation by fouling to Shea.

Sox Increase Lead.

The Sox got themselves into a three run lead by scoring twice in the eighth. Kreevich set things in motion by dropping a double into short center. Haas sacrificed and Bonura was counted on to get the run home from third, but he fanned. Appling made good in the pinch by singling to center, scoring Kreevich. Appling stole second and scored a moment later on a single by Hayes.

Stratton got Vosmik, the first to face him in the ninth. Sullivan batted for Berger and singled past Bonura. Campbell batted for Allen and singled past Hayes. Then Brown was summoned to stage another of his brilliant rescues. He fanned Hughes for the second out and the battle ended when Hale fouled to Shea.

Whitehead and Dietrich Face Tigers Today

The world champion Detroit Tigers, who will shortly relinquish their title, will meet the White Sox today in a double-header at Comiskey Park. John Whitehead and Bill Dietrich will pitch for the Sox.

When Mule Haas was ejected from Saturday's game for tossing his bat in protest over a third strike he forgot about his glove and glasses in right field. Somebody picked them up when the game ended. Before yesterday's first battle the park announcer informed the crowd of the loss and added that Haas had offered a new glove as a reward. Just as the second game started the missing articles were brought to the bench by a boy who said another kid had given them to him to deliver.

Tomorrow was originally an open date in the schedule, but the Sox and Tigers will make use of it to play off a game postponed earlier in the season.

Nothing has been said officially, but it is expected that the Cub officials, if and when the Cubs are knocked out of the National league race, will challenge the White Sox for a city series. The Cubs must do the challenging because the Sox own the title.

When Averill singled off Stratton in the third inning of the second game, it was his 200th hit of the season. He's the first big leaguer to reach the double century mark.

nett reaching third. Galan batted for Davis and walked, loading the bases. Allen ended the inning with the first of three outstanding failures when he popped to Young.

Cavarretta Dies on Second.

Cavarretta led off the fifth with a double and stood on second while Herman popped to Young, Demaree fouled to Todd, and Hack fouled to Jensen.

In the sixth Gill, Hartnett, and Jurges again lined out successive singles, Gill scoring, this time with nobody out. Swift replaced Weaver. Bryant bunted and forced Hartnett at third, Swift to Brubaker. Brubaker, trying to double Bryant, overthrew first to the boxes, Jurges reaching third and Bryant second. Allen fouled to Todd and Cavarretta lined to P. Waner.

In their sixth the Pirates scored what proved to be the winning run. Vaughan led off against Bryant with a triple past Gill. Suhr fanned, but Brubaker singled to short left, scoring Vaughan. Young forced Brubaker and Todd singled to deep short. Then Swift was called out on strikes.

Cubs Swoon Again.

There was another big swoon in the Cub eighth. Hartnett led off with his third straight single and Stainback ran for him. Jurges knocked his third straight hit, a double to right, scoring Stainback. O'Dea, batting for Bryant, forswearing the sacrifice, fouled to Suhr. Allen flied to P. Waner and Cavarretta grounded to Young.

Herman led off the ninth with his first hit, a single to right. This time some one reminded Manager Grimm of the sacrifice play and Demaree was ordered to bunt. But it did no good. Hack lifted a gentle fly to L. Waner and Gill sent Jensen to the scoreboard for the catch that ended the game.

Talking It Over

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Broadway, which passes up no bets to put over a show, is calling the game between the All-Stars and New York Giants Tuesday night a showdown on the comparative strength of college and professional football. . . . Which it isn't, of course. . . . In the first place only a part of the 1936 All-Stars are available for the New York game. . . . In the second place there is no college team that could stand up before the squad Messrs. Bierman, Layden, McMillen, and Waldorf developed for the Chicago contest. . . . John D. A. Langley, British Walker cup golfer, is only 18 years old and is rated one of England's best cricket players. . . . Walter Johnson has seen only three major league games this season. . . . New York sharpshooters are starting to quote the Yankees 9 to 5 favorites to win the world series, provided the Giants are the opponents. . . . Two of the brides who accompanied their player husbands to Chicago for the All-Star game were discussing thisa and thata at the Goodrich house on the Northwestern campus one evening when the subject of love came up. . . . "Love is only a state of mind," said one. . . . "You're crazy," replied her friend. "Love is the state of being out of your mind." . . .

Louis Schneider, veteran race driver, says one heat of midget racing is more strenuous than competing in the Indianapolis 500 mile grind. . . . Dutch Clark, Detroit Lions' quarter back, once accounted for all the points of both sides in a game between Denver university and Colorado college. . . . Cubs Invade Cincinnati for 2 Games Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 6. — The Cubs left tonight for a Labor Day visit to Cincinnati, where they will play a double-header to round out their season's business with the Reds. Tex Carleton and Lon Warneke are scheduled to pitch for the defending champions.

The Reds have been making a lot of talk about what they are going to do to Bill Jurges for starting a fight with Gilly Campbell in Chicago. Inasmuch as Gilly is able to take care of himself and the same can be said for Bill, it would seem a sporting thing to have the lads have it out in the clubhouse with no horning in by either Reds or Cubs.

Tex Carleton, a fisticuff principal in a Cincy brawl last season, will pitch the first game. Lon Warneke will pitch the second.

BEE SURVILLO IN INDIAN BOUNDARY CLUB NET FINAL

Bee Survillo, 1936 Public Parks champion, defeated Stephanie Zalinski, Blackhawk Park, to gain the final round in the Indian Boundary Tennis club tournament. The scores were 6-4, 6-0. Seymour Greenberg, parks titleholder, also gained the final round with a victory over Dr. M. H. Pauly, 6-4, 6-3, default. Final matches will be played on the courts at Lunt avenue and Rockwell street today.

New Yorkers Due Today to Meet Firemen

The New York firemen's baseball team which meets the Chicago fire department nine at Wrigley field tomorrow will arrive this morning at Union station at 8:45 o'clock, accompanied by approximately 100 rooters and officials of the New York fire and police departments.

Chicago will extend welcome to the visitors at a luncheon at the Seneca hotel. The New York party then will split up, some to attend the White Sox-Tigers' double-header while others will go to the Washington Park race track. A dinner for the New Yorkers will be held at the Olympia Fields Country club tonight.

They'll Limber Up Today.

Despite the heavy program of entertainment planned for the New York firemen, which extends through tomorrow and Wednesday, the New Yorkers today will get a chance to workout to limber up muscles for the benefit game.

The New York team, which is composed of members of the fire, police, and sanitation departments, is reported to be the strongest ever to take part in an inter-city game with Chicago. The teams will battle for the Mayor Kelly trophy. Last year Chicago invaded New York, winning the game and bringing home the Mayor La Guardia trophy.

Chicago Meets Streator Today.

Chicago's team will take little part in today's welcoming program, warm-up for tomorrow's game with a contest at Streator this afternoon. The Chicago firemen will send either Bill Minarek or Rip Duncan to the mound against Roy Auer, former International leaguer, for New York.

Chicago Firemen at Streator, Ill.

The Mills baseball team got even with the House of David for the double defeat of last Sunday by trimming the long bearded boys in both ends of a twin bill at Mills stadium. The same two teams meet again today at Mills stadium. Four thousand fans sat in on yesterday's games and saw Jim Vaughn defeat Al Nusser, 7 to 3, in the opener and Phil Collins outlast Lefty Sullivan and Doc Tally to win an 11 to 1 decision in the second game.

George Gerken, former Cleveland Indian outfielder, played first base for the Mills and led the team at bat with a double, triple, and two singles in six trips to the plate. Lefty Sullivan, former Mills hurler, started the second game for the House of David and lasted only two and one-third innings.

YANKEES LOSE 2 TO RED SOX, 15 TO 4, 4 TO 2

Wes Ferrell, Lefty Grove Tame Leaders.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The league leading Yankees suffered their first double-header drubbing of the season today before a crowd of 31,000, losing to the Boston Red Sox, 14 to 5, and 4 to 2.

His hit brought the Yankees' total of home runs for the year to 160, tying their club record made in 1932, but still thirteen short of the league record made by the Athletics the same year.

Mississippi Valley Utilities.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly favor me with information on Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company?—R. A. N.

Answer: Under a plan of recapitalization approved Aug. 21, 1936, Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company is authorized to do no business other than wind up its affairs through complete liquidation.

The company originally was formed in 1926, with broad powers, as part of the "Insull empire." As a subsidiary of Middle West Utilities company it had substantial interests in real estate and industrial projects as well as in utilities. It went into receivership in 1932. The common stock, owned by Middle West, was wiped out in the recapitalization.

Sole capitalization now consists of 660,371 shares of $1 par capital stock. Holders of the 52,995 shares of $7 preferred stock, on which unpaid dividends were $29.75 a share last June 1, received new stock on a share for share basis. Seventeen new shares were issued for each of the 35,728 shares of $6 prior preferred stock, on which dividend arrears were $25.50 on June 1.

The principal asset of the company is $1,500,000 in cash, most of which is to be distributed soon—about $2 for each new share.

Further distributions will depend on what can be realized from several large investments whose present value is very little. Included are $2,000,000 par value of bonds of American Central Utilities company [Mexican properties on which there is no bid], $5,000,000 par value of preferred stock in New England Industries [worthless at present], and a half interest in 6,500 acres of farm and grazing lands formerly owned by Central Texas Hydro-Electric corporation.

Cities Service Gas Pipe Line.

Answer: Cities Service Gas Pipe Line company is engaged in the transportation of natural gas and is a subsidiary of Cities Service company. The bonds are secured by a first mortgage on all of the company's property and by pledge of the lease of the pipe line to Cities Service Gas company. The latter has provided the interest regularly in accordance with terms of its lease. Of the $12,000,000 issue of 6s of 1943, $7,998,700 are outstanding. The bonds are considered of fair grade.

ANDON'S GAINS ELCOMED BY USINESS MEN

. O. P. Victory Seen as Recovery Aid.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Preëlection polls are rapidly taking place of business statistics as the ef consideration of business men investors. During the last week e attention has been given to re- ts of these polls than to any other gle topic.

Because of Gov. Landon's stand in or of economy in government, re- ed expenditures, sound money, reduction of burocratic interfer- e with business, each publication figures showing an increase in the ularity of the Republican candi- e is welcomed with enthusiasm.

Republican victory would be inter- ted as highly favorable to business the consensus is that it would followed by a period of rising busi- s activity because restoration of iness confidence would release ch building and buying held back the years of uncertainty.

New Deal Indicates Inflation.

New Deal triumph, on the other d, would be interpreted as an in- ation that the program of infla- would continue. During a period inflation stock prices tend to rise the public turns from fixed in- e bearing investments and buys ities in an attempt to hedge inst the decline in the purchasing er of the currency.

The present trend toward recovery, evidenced by increased employ- nt, growing sales volume and ng stock market prices achieved eworthy proportions in the spring 1935, about the time the Supreme rt began to reassure business n and investors by declaring un- stitutional some of the New Deal asures. Most of the improvement date, however, has centered und the consumers' goods indus- es. Railroads have benefited by reased merchandise sales and have ped themselves considerably by king rail transportation more at- ctive to the public. Steel mills e stepped up production, aided by avy orders from the automobile ustry and by the resumption of es to railroads.

Capital Goods Depressed.

The capital goods industries in gen- al, however, are still depressed. el companies, much of whose equip- nt has become obsolete during the t few years, still hesitate to order ch of the hundreds of millions of lars' worth of new equipment that y need. Other industrial corpora- ns are holding back on expansion ograms, awaiting more propitious cumstances. The building indus- , although showing percentage ins from the almost negligible fig- es of preceding years, is still in e depths of hard times.

Even the automobile industry, ich has enjoyed almost phenome- l increases in sales during the last o years, still isn't building or buy- anything it doesn't actually need the present conduct of business. e attitude of operators in this field s recently explained by President fred Sloan of General Motors who nounced that the company's policy the present would be to hold off ture commitments that were not solutely essential to the carrying of business.

Confidence Still Lacking.

Business thus still appears to lack e revival of confidence necessary release the vast amount of delayed ying, building, and modernization cumulated during the last few ars.

"The outlook for capital goods," ys the National City bank of New rk in its current monthly bulletin, subject to uncertainties. The fa- rable factors are the unquestioned ed for modernization and new uipment in many industries, the im- oved earnings of corporations, and moderate improvement in the arket for the offerings of new se- rities. These are leading to in- eased expenditures on capital goods, the purpose of reducing costs and pplying necessary new equipment, d undoubtedly more of this work ll be done this fall and in 1937, pecially by the public utilities. The ilding gains are also expected to ld.

No General Revival.

"However, there is still no general vival of new enterprise, and many ans are being held in suspense. questionably the tax burden is one the great obstacles, and particu- rly the fact that corporate tax tes graduate upward if corpora- ns retain their earnings for pur- ses of capital expenditures, instead distributing them to shareholders.

"As time goes on it is perhaps ore clearly realized that the effect the revenue act will be to dis- urage plant construction and pur- ase of machinery and equipment.

"Distrust of government regulation d competition is another obstacle. the sweeping provisions of the obinson-Patman act, governing price scrimination, are studied, it be- mes increasingly a cause of con- sion."

Cotton Picker Future Held as Uncertain

The demonstration a few days ago of the Rust cotton picking machine near Stoneville, Miss., has produced conflicting reactions. Whether the long awaited revolution in the method of gathering the nation's cotton crop is at hand is still a matter of uncertainty.

A practicable mechanical cotton picker has been the will o' the wisp of inventors in the United States for the last seventy-five years. Since the civil war the patent office in Washington, D. C., has issued 750 patents to inventors of cotton picking devices. Each has failed to bring about the changes that would be certain to result from the development of a practical machine.

The Rust picker was developed by two brothers, John and Mack Rust. It has been tested several times under different conditions in many parts of the cotton belt and the latest demonstration suggests that it is the most practicable machine yet developed.

Harvester Spends Millions.

The International Harvester company has declined to make any comment on the Rust machine. It is reputed to have spent millions in the development of a cotton picker of its own. The company's engineers have been exploring the possibilities of a mechanical picker for nearly forty years. An experimental machine was exhibited by the company at A Century of Progress in 1933.

Unlike the Rust brothers, International Harvester has never attempted to demonstrate that the machine is commercially practicable.

Oscar Johnston, the south's largest cotton planter, who witnessed the demonstration of the Rust machine, was impressed, but expressed doubt of the machine's practicability. Johnston's misgivings were the result of the fact that while the machine demonstrated its cotton picking ability it also gathered some trash and green leaves. Samples of the cotton gathered showed that it graded 1½ grades lower than the same cotton hand picked.

Mack Rust has answered the skeptics by saying: "Even a combine doesn't get all the grain, but the wheat farmers aren't thinking about going back to the scythe and the flail on that account."

Expert Investigates Machine.

Mildred G. Barwell, executive assistant of the Southern Combed Yarn Spinners association, after a field trip to investigate the Rust machine, said the southern farmer cannot afford to shy off mechanization or labor saving machines because of the social problems involved. She declared that no other industry has sacrificed modern and efficient equipment for hand labor.

Mrs. Barwell's observations are published in the September issue of Textile World.

"Figuring the actual savings in dollars and cents, the cotton producer can no more afford to refuse to use labor-saving devices in the handling of his crop than the cotton mill executive can afford to overlook new textile machinery developments," her article says. "Until the mechanical cotton picker is tried out for several seasons, operating day after day, under farm and plantation conditions, operated by unskilled mechanics [colored persons mostly], one can only theorize as to its possibilities. It is safe to presume, however, that it will not create a violent economic upheaval.

Seasonal Help May Suffer.

"Actual farm labor—share croppers and tenants—will not be displaced. The sufferers will be the seasonal help, hired by the day, as supplementary labor. These laborers have jobs in town during the rest of the year—they will make them year-round.

"We shall produce more cotton at less cost than any other nation; we shall maintain high living standards on the farm; cotton will be king."

If the Rust machine proves practicable and is used generally in the south it will supplant the labor of about 7,000,000 of the 9,000,000 persons who now pick the nation's cotton crop by hand.

21 More National Bank Receiverships Liquidated

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—J. F. T. O'Connor, controler of the currency, announced today the completion of the liquidation of twenty-one receiverships of national banks during August, making a total of 441 receiverships finally closed or restored to solvency since the banking holiday of March, 1933. The total disbursements, including offsets allowed, to depositors of these 441 banks, exclusive of 42 receiverships restored to solvency, he said, aggregated $122,766,970, or an average of 74.25 per cent of the total liabilities.

Cudahy Will Open Plant Built of Glass Masonry

The Cudahy Packing company will open today "the world's most modern packing plant" at Albany, Ga. This establishment, with facilities for the slaughter of 1,000 cattle, 7,000 hogs, 400 sheep, and 400 calves per week, is windowless and air conditioned. Not a brick has been used in its construction. All the walls and ceilings are made of glass masonry, which not only provides sturdy construction but ample natural light. The plant will serve Cudahy distributing branch houses throughout the southeast.

Fast Train of Milwaukee Carries More Passengers

The Milwaukee road's Hiawatha, streamlined speed train, carried 34,119 revenue passengers during August, an average of 1,101 daily, it was announced yesterday, representing a 36 per cent gain over August, 1935.

BUSINESS IN CHICAGO ABOVE EXPECTATIONS; EXTRA HELP EMPLOYED

Retail and wholesale trade volume was well above expectations in Chicago last week, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce. Home furnishings, clothing, shoe and hat departments requisitioned extra help in large numbers for future weekends this fall, the association said. Retail store employment on Saturday was the largest for any day this year.

Department stores reported the week started with a record Monday. One reporting store announced that trade on the last day of August was the heaviest of any day this year, with one exception.

School clothing and equipment sales indicated that Chicago's children and young people will start this semester with the best equipment they have had for the last five years, with demand shown for better class goods. This condition also prevailed in home furnishings.

Trafic at Newark Airport Shows Increase Over 1935

Newark, N. J., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Breaking all its own records since 1930, Newark airport showed marked increases in passenger, mail and express trafic for the first six months of 1936. Commercial passenger trafic was 14 per cent higher than in the first half of 1935, with 105,110 paid passengers cleared. Air mail poundage amounted to 1,742,000 pounds, an increase of 45 per cent over the first half of 1935. Newark cleared 919,883 pounds of express, an increase of 99.1 per cent.

RAILWAY ORDERS FOR EQUIPMENT SHOW BIG GAIN

Class 1 railroads on Aug. 1 had 27,151 new freight cars on order, the Association of American Railroads announced yesterday, compared with 2,174 cars on order a year ago and 13,755 cars on order two years ago.

New locomotives on order totaled 85, of which 65 were steam and 20 were electric and Diesel, against four steam and four electric engines last year and 35 steam and 107 electric locomotives two years ago.

During the first seven months this year 14,914 new freight cars were placed in service, compared with 2,272 installed in the corresponding period of 1935 and 9,485 in the 1934 period.

Forty new locomotives made their first runs in the seven months this year, of which 26 were steam and 14 electric and Diesel, against 27 steam and 99 electric engines last year, and six steam and eight electric locomotives in 1934.

McLellan Stores Sales Show Slight Increase

McLellan Stores company, operating a chain of 5 cent to $1 stores in the middle west, southern New England and central states, reported August sales of $1,738,253, an increase of eight-tenths of 1 per cent over August, 1935. For the first eight months sales were $11,142,251, or 8.2 per cent over the corresponding period of last year.

Cotton Prices Gain After Easing 5 Straight Weeks

New York, Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Primarily under the influence of crop developments, prices of cotton moved up last week after declining for five successive weeks. At the close Saturday active contracts on the New York Cotton exchange showed net gains in the period of 10 to 21 points.

RAIL ASSOCIATION SEEKS TO IMPROVE PUBLIC RELATIONS

Reorganization and enlargement of the public relations department of the Association of American Railroads, in an effort to bring about a better understanding with the public, was announced yesterday by J. J. Pelley, president of the association.

Robert S. Henry, assistant to Pelley for the last two years, has been placed in charge of the new program, reporting to the president. Holcombe Parks, former manager of the advertising of the Norfolk and Western railway, Roanoke, Va., has been named associate director to assist Henry.

H. F. McLaury, former advertising manager of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, has been named manager of the advertising section.

B. E. Young, former chief clerk, advertising and magazine departments, Norfolk and Western railway, Roanoke, Va., has been chosen manager of the railroad section.

The manager of the fourth section, to be known as the "public section," has not been appointed.

WORLD POWER EXPERTS OPEN MEETING TODAY

Interest Centers on Coal and Oil.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Power experts from 60 nations gathered here today to take stock of the available sources of power for running the world's machines, heating its homes and lighting its cities.

Surveying power and heat sources as old as Holland's windmills and Asia's charcoal stoves, and as new as Germany's coal made gasoline and Dr. Charles G. Abbot's invention for capturing the sun's heat, some 3,000 delegates to the third world power conference will seek guides to the proper adjustment of these varied resources in modern life.

Around them, as they arrived, were symbols of the problems they met to discuss—models of new dams, new inventions, new surveys, which may bring great changes in the world's methods of getting heat, light, and power.

View Optometrist Robot.

In the downtown hotel headquarters of the conference delegates viewed a 12 foot oil well in operation, tested their eyes on an "optometrist robot" [which tells you how much reading light you need], and examined a rubber balloon full of helium [1916 price, $5,000; price today, 1½ cents].

Brilliantly lighted maps showed the network of telephone lines which serve Americans [with flashing radio lines extending to ships at sea] and the vast extent of the government's power projects.

Centers of interest were coal and oil, two rapidly wasting stores of natural fuel, which will be subjects of the opening sessions tomorrow.

Coal Control Tightens.

Reports showing that "in all parts of the world public control over the production and distribution of coal has been tightened" formed the basis of one Monday session. While in Germany the government has been "a party to the national coal monopoly" since 1893, reported Isador Lubin, American commissioner of labor statistics, who summarized the reports, recent "ventures into control of the coal industry in the United States were of necessity experimental."

Canada Wheat Crop Is Better than Expected

The Canadian wheat harvest is drawing to a close and actual returns suggest production will run considerably above the unfavorable estimates made a few weeks ago. It now appears that the crop in the three western provinces will aggregate about 225 million bushels.

Canadian farmers have shipped about 50 million bushels of wheat to market. Instead of selling their wheat, however, many producers are getting storage tickets for their grain and are speculating on the prospect that the price will advance still further. The price now prevailing is the best that has existed during the harvest season for several years.

Good Harvesting Weather.

Farmers have enjoyed excellent harvesting weather and the crop has been gathered in a shorter time than usual. The crop, however, is the smallest in several years.

Farmers believe present prices do not reflect the world-wide condition of scarcity which has resulted from the small harvests in this country, Europe, and Canada. The liberal loans which the dominion government is making to farmers enable them to hold wheat when ordinarily they might be forced to sell because of need for immediate cash.

September Corn Advances.

September corn advanced sharply in the Chicago market last week, but other deliveries lagged. Strength in the current contract was attributed to buying by speculators who earlier had taken short positions in the market. All wheat futures closed moderately higher. The following table shows the range of grain future prices for the week:

STEEL OUTPUT RECEDES; STILL AT HIGH LEVEL

Prices Advanced for Third Quarter.

Steel work operations last week held above the 70 per cent mark for the seventh consecutive week, but a decline of 1½ points reduced the national rate to 71½ per cent of plant capacity, the magazine Steel said yesterday. Considering the inactivity in several major consuming industries this was an exceptionally good showing, the journal said.

Price advances for the fourth quarter featured the iron and steel markets last week as producers entered September with current consumption holding up and activity undiminished in raw materials, Steel said.

Other Products Advanced.

Rolling billets, sheet bars and slabs have been advanced $2 a ton, and a similar advance has been made on hot rolled annealed sheets. Gauge extras for hot rolled sheets have been increased. The prices of the majority of other finished steel products have been reaffirmed, but rail spikes and track bolts are up $3 a ton.

"The effect of the price increases," Steel pointed out, "will be to drive in increased tonnage from consumers at third quarter prices before the Oct. 1 deadline on products in which advances are scheduled, tending to sustain production."

Scrap Prices Are Higher.

Scrap prices last week went higher, Steel's composite making a gain of 38 cents to $15.79 a ton, the tenth consecutive weekly rise from $12.47. No. 1 melting steel touched the $17.50 level at Pittsburgh for the first time since the late summer of 1929. Beehive coke sellers advanced their asking prices again, from 10 to 25 cents a ton. The volume of pig iron orders has risen slightly.

Operations in the Pittsburgh district last week were down 4 points to 70 per cent of plant capacity; Buffalo, 6 to 75; eastern Pennsylvania, 2 to 48½; New England, 5 to 80. Cincinnati was up 4 points to 80 per cent, and Cleveland, 2½ to 82. Other districts remained unchanged.

The magazine's composite of iron and steel prices last week advanced 7 cents to $34.10, while the index of finished products remains at $53.40.

RAILROADS FIND NEW SPEEDSTERS BOOST REVENUES

Even Increase Travel on Regular Trains.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Business obtained by the new streamlined and high speed passenger trains placed in operation in the last few years have brought revenues to the railroads which apparently they would not otherwise have received and has not cut into the revenues of their existing trains, passenger officials of Chicago railroads said yesterday.

The Alton railroad reports that its streamlined train, the Abraham Lincoln, has been a moneymaker ever since it has been in operation. But also important is the fact that since this de luxe train has been in operation between Chicago and St. Louis the road's other trains have shown increases in earnings.

Night Trains Get More Trafic.

"We were afraid," said W. G. Brown, passenger trafic manager of the Baltimore and Ohio-Alton, "that the Abraham Lincoln would take business away from our other trains, but this did not happen. Business on all our trains has increased and the volume we handle on our night trains is much improved over what it was before the Abraham Lincoln went into service."

The North Western's "400," the first of the high speed trains to go into service, has been profitable ever since it went into operation between Chicago and St. Paul-Minneapolis, said R. Thomson, trafic manager. Sufficient new business has been created for the road's other trains serving the two centers to make diversion of passengers from the other trains to the "400" unnoticeable, he added.

Chicago-Denver Travel Increases.

Despite the placing into daily service of the high speed streamliner, the City of Denver, the other regular trains serving Chicago and Denver have had an increase of business of about 45 per cent during the time the new trains have been running, Thomson said.

The Burlington has found that since its streamlined Zephyr trains have been operating between Chicago and Denver, the business of other trains has picked up. The Zephyrs have been carrying capacity loads, but despite this the night trains have obtained sufficient business to make them profitable. This road has found that its twice a day Zephyr service to the Twin Cities has cut into the business of the Black Hawk, a standard train, but the increased revenues produced by the Twin Zephyrs offset this.

Roads Regaining Trafic.

Burlington officials believe that introduction of the new trains has been a vital factor in bringing passengers back to the railroads from other mediums of transportation. This, officials say, is demonstrated by experience with the Zephyr operating between Omaha and Kansas City. When the Zephyr went into service on this run, the business on the standard trains was increased. The business handled by the Zephyr train trebled that of the old type train it displaced.

The Illinois Central reports that its new streamliner, the Green Diamond, has helped the business of its other trains running between Chicago and St. Louis. One official admitted that introduction of this fast train made a considerable part of the public conscious of the fact that the Illinois Central goes to St. Louis. Business of the road's night train to St. Louis has been helped, it was said. Since May 17 the Green Diamond has carried 25,000 passengers and the other St. Louis trains have carried about 30,000 passengers in the same period.

Fast Train Stimulates Travel.

The Milwaukee road reports that its Hiawatha train has been a stimulant to travel on that line. Despite the popularity of the Hiawatha, business on the road's night trains between Chicago and the Twin Cities is reported to be running 30 per cent over a year ago. Both the Pioneer Limited and the Olympian are reported to be showing substantial increases in revenue.

The New York Central says that the Mercury, high speed train recently put into service between Cleveland and Detroit, has not decreased travel between the two cities on the road's other trains. That road believes the fast schedule of the Mercury has attracted business to the road which might have gone by some other means of transportation.

The consensus is that, while improved business has played an important part in increased railroad passenger revenues, the new high speed trains have dramatized the railroads in the minds of the public and made it railroad conscious.

STEEL WORKERS TO ASK MEETING WITH FAIRLESS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Philip Murray, chairman of the steel workers organizing committee, said tonight "company union" representatives of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation plants will meet here Wednesday to demand recognition of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers as a bargaining agency.

He said thirty-five leaders of employé representation groups will act as spokesmen for 89,000 of the 110,000 employés of Carnegie-Illinois, and will seek a conference with Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the corporation.

Murray said the group also will ask a forty hour week, a 25 per cent increase in wages, and better safety conditions.

Earlier he sent a telegram to Gov. H. C. Kump of West Virginia requesting an investigation of reported attacks on two committee organizers.

FEDERAL ISSUES MAKE PACE FO[R] TRADE IN BOND[S]

Many Obligations Rise [to] New Peaks for Year

New York, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Un[ited] States government loans swung [the] baton for listed bonds this week [and] many corporate issues followed t[he] lead to new peaks.

Yields on federal obligations fel[l to] new low levels for the long bull m[ar]ket in the treasury list. The ret[urn] on longer term government inv[est]ments dropped to around 2¼ per c[ent] and prices of many prime corpor[ate] issues were adjusted to meet the [fed]eral quotations.

The rise in the treasury divis[ion] continued after Secretary Morgant[hau] had surprised many in the finan[cial] district by announcing plans to [bor]row $400,000,000 additional cash [this] month.

No Borrowing Expected.

With revised federal budget [esti]mates pointing to a sharp decline [in] borrowing this fiscal year, there [had] been a widespread feeling the tr[eas]ury might forego further cash [bor]rowing for a while and restrict [its] mid-September operations to refu[nd]ing a maturing $514,000,000 issue [of] notes.

The rise tapered at the week-end [as] Wall street prepared for an exten[ded] recess over Labor day, but bull[ish] faith was evident in a robust und[er]tone. Renewed accumulation of s[ur]plus bank funds, marked by a sh[arp] gain in excess reserves of mem[ber] banks of the federal reserve syst[em] and favorable industrial news, w[ere] forceful factors behind rather br[oad] investment demand.

Timidity Is Dispelled.

Whatever timidity was felt a [few] weeks ago over paying high pri[ces] for bonds, in fear the mid-Aug[ust] boost in reserve requirements [of] member banks of the reserve syst[em] might stiffen interest rates and [hurt] the investment list, seemed to h[ave] been dispelled.

Encouraged by further gains [in] electric power production, railr[oad] car loadings, and evidence of s[us]tained industrial operations genera[lly,] buyers readily paid higher prices [for] a variety of issues in line to bene[fit] by the recovery trend. Second[ary] rail loans, particularly, attracted [de]mand from the bolder investors [on] the prospect that carrier earni[ngs] would show substantial gains over [the] next two or three months.

During each of the first eight months of this year the Tribune printed a substantially larger volume of real estate want advertising than it did in the same months of 1935.

The Tribune carries more real estate want advertising than any other Chicago newspaper and has done so for more than twenty years.

STOCKS ADVANCE AS TRADE LEVELS CONTINUE HIGH

Railway and Steel Shares Make Headway.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 6.—Speculative sentiment continues to favor the constructive side of the share market. While buying orders predominated in three of the five and one-half trading sessions last week, such selling as appeared was of such a desultory nature—chiefly for the evening up of accounts, brokers guessed—that the combined "averages" were able to register a net gain of nearly 2 points on the period. Railroad, merchandise, and steel shares were favored.

Trade statistics held up to their mid-summer level in spite of the traditional seasonal letdown in some quarters. Opinion is, however, that the moderate revival in speculative interest is due not so much to the dividend news and earning reports coming to hand as to anticipation of a marked improvement in trade following the Labor day division between summer and autumn.

Summer Season Ends.

The summer season, which came officially to an end yesterday, was the best in stocks since 1930 and in business and bonds since 1929 and the showing proved highly encouraging to traders committed to a further advance in share prices. Week-end comment reflects a consensus in fact that there really has been no slump this summer. Returns on some lines show a slight recession during the last two weeks but even here the decline was nothing like what the trade calls "normal" for the season.

As for stocks, practically all the ground lost on the midsummer reaction—attributed, by the way, to the European "war scare" and not to domestic trade conditions—has been recovered and the trends have been generally upward over the last several weeks.

Most Sections Advance.

Excepting the automobile group, which has been inclined to mark time pending the letup in production due to preparations for the introduction of new models, virtually all sections of the list have come in for further attention over the last week. Steel issues came in for a little special attention in yesterday's abbreviated session on the strength of the announcement by Carneigie-Illinois of a price increase on certain semi-finished and finished products effective Oct. 1, and expectations in the trade that the move will drive in a good volume of orders before the end of September in order that buyers may take advantage of the lower third quarter quotations.

Railroad issues were made to look better during the week on estimates by analysts that the advance which has already occurred in this group is not unwarranted in view of the general improvement in carrier income, even allowing for the effects which the drouth is expected to have toward reducing the income of some of the roads serving the arid districts. The credit position of a majority of the railroads has been bettered, it is asserted, and prospects for fall passenger and freight revenue generally are declared to be excellent.

Mail Order Shares Climb.

New highs were the rule in the merchandising and mail order sections of the market on several days, thanks to interest in a late survey by large retail organizations throughout the country indicating a dollar volume of sales for June, July, and August 10 to 17 per cent higher than for the like months of 1935. Amusement issues were brightened by expectations of better business in the fall and the coppers same in for some further buying on the move for higher metal prices on the domestic market.

Market letter comment reflects a general anticipation of further improvement in share prices with the return of vacationing traders after Labor day. Some of the more enthusiastic of the commentators felt impelled to issue warnings against a "gambling spree" on the market "such as always gets under way after a long period of economic depression," to quote one of them. The general viewpoint, however, is that quiet improvement will be the order for some time.

There are a number of dividend meetings of market importance slated for the new week among them being these—with the last distributions ordered by the directors:

TUESDAY—Celanese of Amer., pr. pfd., [1.75 q]; Duplan Silk, pfd., $2 q]; Howe Sound, com., [75c q]; Lambert, com., [50c q]; Penney [J. C.] com., [75c q], and Virginian Ry., pfd., [$2.50]. WEDNESDAY—Air Reduction, com., [25c q]; Cream of Wheat, com. [50c q]; Kaufmann Dept. Stores, com., [25c q]; Mahoning Coal R. R., com., $6.25 q], and Pacific Gas and Elec., com., 37½c q]. THURSDAY—Addressograph Multigraph, com., [15c q]; Belding Hemingway, com., [25c q]; Devoe & Raynolds, A and B [50c q], 2d pfd., [$1.75 q], and Gillette Safety Razor, com., [25c], pfd., [$1.25 q]. FRIDAY—Central Aguirre Associates, com., [37½c q]; General Electric, com., [25c q], and Westinghouse Air Brake, com., [25c q].

PROFIT TAKING FAILS TO CHECK ADVANCE ON CURB

New York, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Neither profit taking nor lightened activity succeeded in knocking the curb market off stride during the last week, and steady to higher prices were the rule.

Offerings were fairly heavy early in the period, but were absorbed without difficulty. A sizeable portion of the list finished at fractionally lower levels. Losses were more than offset, however, by a number of wide gains. The best progress was made by less active stocks which found sponsorship as trading favorites rested from their recent climbing efforts.

Trading was selective rather than devoted to group operations. Ainsworth swung up roughly 6 points late in the week. Northern States Power A and Acme Wire were in demand. Publication of Great Britain's decision to lower the duty on certain classifications of writing machines created buying interest in Royal Typewriter, which moved up well.

FEDERAL TAX LOAD IS LIGHTER ON PARTNERSHIPS

New Laws Put Burden on Corporations.

The multiplicity of federal taxes that are now levied on corporations may lead to the substitution of the partnership form of organization as a substitute for the corporate form, it is suggested by figures compiled by the Chicago Furniture Manufacturers' association.

The analysis of federal taxes made for the association shows that under some circumstances the tax on a corporation may be considerably heavier than on a business of the same size which is conducted by a partnership.

The analysis was prepared by Attorney Byron M. Getzoff. To illustrate how the federal taxes may bear down heavier on a corporation than a partnership a comparison is made of the levies which would be borne by a partnership with a net income of $50,000 and a corporation with the same net income.

Firm with $50,000 Income.

A corporation with a net income of $50,000, none of which is paid out in dividends, would pay a "normal" income tax of $6,340. Under the 1936 revenue act it would also pay a surtax on undistributed earnings of $8,823. Added federal levies are the capital stock tax and the "excess profits tax."

If the declared valuation of the corporation was $400,000 it would pay a capital stock tax of $400—at the rate of $1 per thousand of valuation. With such a valuation, however, the corporation would also be stuck with an "excess profits" tax which is levied on all earnings above 10 per cent of the declared valuation. In this case $10,000 of the income would be taxable under the "excess profits" tax at the rate of 6 per cent for a total of $600.

The combined federal taxes would amount to $16,163.

Partnership Tax Lighter.

A partnership does not pay any "corporation" taxes. The firm merely files an "information" return with the bureau of internal revenue and the partners are taxed directly on their own income. Assuming the concern had two partners, each would be taxed on $25,000 of its total net income of $50,000. Each partner, if married with one dependent, would pay an income tax of $2,441, or a total tax on the $50,000 of $4,882, as compared with the total of $16,123 paid by the corporation.

Under the given set of circumstances in this case the partnership would escape with far less federal taxes than the corporation. This would not necessarily follow in all cases. It is believed, however, that the present federal tax may cause some business organizations, particularly small firms, to embrace the partnership form if other factors permit.
